HOUSE MEMBER IS BARRED FROM ATOMIC TEST AS SECURITY RISK

By BERT ANDREWS
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1953, Herald-Tribune, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, July 6—The astonishing story of how a Democratic member of Congress was barred—as a security risk—from watching one of the atomic weapons tests near Las Vegas in May was learned by this reporter.

The man involved is Representative Robert L. Condon, 40 years old, who is serving his first term from California's Sixth District, made up of Contra Costa and Solano counties, in the San Francisco bay area.

He talked about the matter freely in his apartment at a Washington hotel when he was told that the reporter knew about the basic facts.

Then he went with the reporter to his office in the new House Office Building and, with the reporter at the typewriter, underwent a question and answer interview which he approved after reading it.

Invitation to Congressmen.

All members of Congress were invited to witness one of the atomic explosions conducted in Nevada last May, and nearly 100 accepted. Condon said he went to Nevada on a special plane with other Congressmen, and that:

"Two gentlemen representing the Atomic Energy Commission walked up to me at the airplane when we landed at Las Vegas. One of them called me aside and said he and the other man wished to speak to me. The first man told me he had received a telegram from the AEC saying that I was not to be allowed to participate in the observation of the atomic explosion which was then scheduled for May 7. I exploded—I blew my cork—I demanded to know the reason for this action. He said that he had no information, that I would have to talk to Gordon Dean (then the chairman of the AEC.) Accordingly, I left Las Vegas the following afternoon (May 6) and went to my home in Walnut Creek, Calif."

Condon said he was "outraged—I didn't understand what scared them."

Mistake, Dean Says.

Since returning to Washington, Condon continued, he has had two meetings with Dean, who retired June 30 as AEC chairman. He quoted Dean as saying it was "some sort of mistake" and that Condon was clear to witness further atomic tests.

Condon explained that Dean did not have a "personal knowledge of any of the facts on which the action might have been taken. . . . He indicated the telegram to Las Vegas had gone out over his signature but that he had no personal knowledge of it."

Condon said he argued in his conversations with Dean that he had never supported any Communist movement and that his whole record in Congress was utterly opposed to all things Communist.

Condon said he plans to raise the question on the House floor.

"I am very concerned whether any executive agency can control the actions of Congressmen," he said. "I also want to raise the issue whether hearsay charges which the people of my district are fully acquainted with can cause me to be denied my full

BOY LOSES HANDS IN JULY 4 BLAST, CALLS SELF CHUMP

BELOIT, Wis., July 6 (UP)—A 15-year-old boy stared at the bandaged stumps today and said quietly "I was a chump."

Robert Petroff lost both hands when his homemade Fourth of July fireworks exploded prematurely in the family garage Saturday.

"I'm going to have to figure out some way to make a living without hands," he said. "Maybe I'll try to get authorities to make people stop buying and selling fireworks and stuff that can make explosives."

Robert tried to make some sparklers and flares when he and his sister Mary, 14, were unable to buy fireworks to set off themselves.

TOO MANY SHAKES INJURE HAND OF MRS. CLARE LUCE

ROME, July 6 (UP)—United States Ambassador to Italy Clare Boothe Luce was a Fourth of July casualty, it was disclosed yesterday.

Mrs. Lucse stood in a receiving line at the traditional ambassador's Fourth of July party one the lawn of Villa Taverna for two hours and shook hands with about 2000 Americans.

Then she threw out the first ball at a baseball game between an American navy squad and an Italian baseball team.

Saturday night she appeared at the American Chamber of Commerce in Italy's supper party with her right hand bandaged.

"It was ballooned up," she said. "Strangely enough, the women shook hands harder than the men."

THIEF RETURNS GOLD SPURS TO KNIGHTED JOCKEY

LONDON, July 6 (UP)—The man who stole the golden spurs and cigarette case of Britain's famous jockey, Sir Gordon Richards, tried yesterday to prove "there is some honor among thieves."

He returned the spurs and case to Scotland Yard and called the London Sunday newspaper The News of the World to explain his action.

Sir Gordon appealed to the "sportsmanship" of the thief after the spurs and case—a gift from the late King George V—were stolen from his home June 27.

The articles were mailed in a brown paper parcel to Scotland Yard. The thief called the newspaper and said that "the boys decided that we couldn't possibly rob Gordon Richards at this time."

Richards was knighted recently by Queen Elizabeth.

DR. R. L. JOHNSON QUITS AS HEAD OF 'VOICE' AGENCY

Writes Eisenhower That Doctors Said Strains of Post Were Too Much for Him.

By WALLACE R. DEUEL
Diplomatic Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6—President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Dr. Robert L. Johnson as director of the International Information Administration, the State Department's foreign information program.

Johnson, who has been responsible for the Voice of America and American public libraries overseas, has been involved in the "book burning" controversy almost ever since he took office in February. In his letter of resignation, dated July 3, he said his doctors had told him the strains of his post were "proving too much" for him.

Eisenhower, in accepting Johnson's resignation, said "my first thought it for your health."

Headed Temple University.

A former executive of the Luce publications, Johnson was president of Temple University in Philadelphia when he accepted the State Department post. He said in his letter of resignation that he accepted the position because "the need was so critical and the necessity for reorganizing our international information program was so urgent."

Both the Voice and the overseas libraries have been under fire from Senator McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin.

It was under Johnson's administration that the current purge of the overseas libraries has been carried out. At a press conference June 24, Johnson conceded that some of the policy directives sent to librarians abroad had been vague but maintained that the principles of his program were correct.

Eisenhower Comment

Eisenhower himself added to Johnson's difficulties on the "book burning" issue, although perhaps unwittingly, at his last press conference. Asked by Raymond P. Brandt, chief Washington correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, why detective stories by Dashiell Hammett had been removed from libraries, the President said somebody must have got frightened, and indicated he disapproved of the removals.

This comment came only a few days after Johnson had said at his press conference that he favored removal of all books whose authors refuse to answer questions regarding possible Communist affiliations. Hammett has refused to reply to such questions put to him by congressional investigators.

Red Training Camp Destroyed.

KUALA LUMPUR, July 6 (AP) — British security forces have destroyed a Communist training camp in the Grik area of Perak state on the Malaya-Thailand border, it was reported yesterday. Two guerrillas were killed.

SOME CARRIERS 'RIDING SHOTGUN' IN COUNTY WITH VALUABLE CARGO

Escorts Accompany Trucks to Bar Hijacking — $50,000 Liquor Theft Figures in Deputy Shooting.

Several railroads and trucking companies have reverted to the old Western custom of "riding shotgun" on truckloads of valuable cargo through St. Louis county to prevent hijackings and other thefts, the Post-Dispatch was told today.

Special agents of the Frisco Railroad have been traveling in automobiles as armed escorts for trucks of the Frisco Transportation Co., a subsidiary of the railroad, since theft of a truck containing $24,000 in tobacco in St. Louis in June 1952.

This theft was never solved although the railroad's special agents learned later, after the tobacco had been disposed of, that the stolen cargo was held several months in a shed in St. Louis county. The empty truck, stolen at Broadway and Dickson street, was found in the county two days after the theft.

$50,000 Hijacking.

Last November a truck containing $50,000 in whisky was hijacked in the county. The loot was recovered a month later in the shed where the tobacco had been hidden.

The liquor hijacking figures in the background of the shooting of Chief Deputy Sheriff William Smith of St. Louis county by Deputy Nicholas P. Burke in a tavern brawl in the county early June 26.

One version of the cause of the shooting, given by Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallach, is that Burke resented efforts of Sheriff Arthur C. Mosley to obtain a share of the $2500 reward offered by an insurance company for recovery of the whisky.

The company sent a $1000 check to Mosley, payable to Burke and Deputy Elmer Mueller, for their part in the recovery. Mosley withheld the check after the deputies refused to give him a share, but later turned it over after the company agreed to give him $500 too, Wallach related.

Complaints over Mosley's handling of the shooting and other county law violations have resulted in Gov. Phil M. Donnelly's ordering a sweeping investigation by state agencies of law enforcement in the county. State Highway Patrol Superintendent Hugh H. Waggoner was to be in the county today. Other agencies participating are the liquor control and revenue departments.

Attorney General John M. Dalton, who returned to Jefferson City today after a week's absence in Canada, told the Post-Dispatch he was "very much interested" in the law enforcement situation in St. Louis county and that he expected to confer on the matter with Gov. Donnelly later today.

Dalton pointed out that under normal procedure the intervention of his office in counties would be based on a direction by the Governor or on complaints of irregularities. Gov. Donnelly said last week he planned to talk with Dalton on the latter's return.

Another Reason for Escorts.

Failure of the county grand jury to act last winter after hearing a large number of witnesses in connection with the hijacking was another factor leading to the armed escorting of trucks, the Post-Dispatch was told.

Prosecutor Wallach was supplied with evidence involving a county lawyer alleged to have been part of the ring of hoodlums participating in the theft and hijacking. The grand jury adjourned after limiting its report to generalities—a report which did not satisfy the jury foreman, Robert H. Grote, St. Louis business executive.

Among the jury's recommendations were greater co-ordination of police activities in the county and expansion of the sheriff's force. But the jury did not follow up testimony of several deputy sheriffs who expressed dissatisfaction with law enforcement in the county.

Testimony that some law violators received preferential treatment if they hired the lawyer mentioned was heard by the jurors. Also brought out was evidence that gambling cases had been permitted to die through a curious link between a county employe and the hoodlum clique.

Dice Game Is Cited.

Investigators told the Post-Dispatch that in their opinion another factor in the Smith shooting, in addition to the squabble over the reward, was operation of a dice game in Wellston and a long-smouldering dissatisfaction with handling of funds for hiring of deputy sheriffs as guards during a strike of Laclede Gas Co. employes three years ago.

Meanwhile, six of the seven members of the St. Louis County Council, the county's governing body, today expressed themselves as favoring study of a proposal for a metropolitan police department for the county to replace the present sheriff system. The seventh member, Harold D. Carey, was out of town.

ROMANIA GETS FOOD HIKE, 50,000 HELD IN EAST REICH; RHEE SAID TO STAND FIRM

DEMANDS 90-DAY LIMIT ON TALKS TO UNITE KOREA OR RESUME WAR

Authoritative Source Says This Is Main Stumbling Block in ROK Leader's Talks With Robertson.

SEOUL, July 6 (AP)—South Korean President Syngman Rhee is standing pat on his demand to renew the Korean fighting if a post-armistice political conference fails to agree in 90 days on unifying Korea, an authoritative South Korean source said today.

The source, who insisted on anonymity, also confirmed reports that the United States has offered Rhee a face-saving two-point compromise to win his support of a truce.

But Rhee's demand for a conference limit is the stumbling block of the 11-day talks between Rhee and Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's special envoy, the source told the Associated Press.

Terms of Compromise.

The compromise was reported to provide for the United States to:

1. Agree to join South Korea in walking out of the conference if after 90 days it had made no progress toward peaceful unification of Korea.

2. After such a walkout, "discuss" on a diplomatic level resumption of the war, with the understanding that any action would have to be ratified by the United States Senate.

Robertson declined to indicate whether he is making headway in persuading Rhee to accept a truce.

He said only "the atmosphere of all our talks has been friendly and cordial" and another meeting will be held.

No time was set for the next session.

En route to the presidential mansion, Robertson ran into the first South Korean anti-truce demonstration apparently aimed specifically at him. A line of marchers shouted "drive north . . . keep our sovereignty . . . unification until death."

'Friendship With U.S.'

Others carried placards reading "continuous friendship with America." The marchers left after Robertson's sedan entered the mansion compound.

Rhee said Sunday he didn't know whether the deadlocked talks will succeed. "I am trying to clear up misunderstandings," he said.

The United States position is reported to be firmly opposed to Rhee's demand for a guarantee to renew fighting if unification fails.

Meanwhile, another secret conference was held in Seoul by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, United States commander of Allied ground forces in Korea, and his United States advisers to the South Korean army.

Despite an Eighth Army announcement that the session was a routine monthly affair, there was speculation they discussed military problems that would arise if a truce is signed without Rhee's guarantee that the 16 Republic of Korea divisions would observe the cease-fire.

Rhee has threatened to fight on alone if the truce agreement which had appeared ready for signing at Panmunjom last month is completed.

Gen. Taylor indicated to correspondent Forrest Edwards that the comparatively inexperienced ROK army cannot fight alone.

When asked if he felt that the ROKs could, Taylor replied:

"The Eighth Army is built like an automobile. The divisions are its cylinders but there are many parts necessary to an automobile before it can function. An automobile missing important parts either does not run at all, or, at the most, runs with greatly impaired efficiency and the various parts do not run by themselves."

Bar on Enlistments.

At Pusan, South Korea's new Defense Minister, Sohn Wun Il, said the ROK Government issued strict orders Friday prohibiting escaped North Koreans from enlisting in the ROK Army.

Previously the South Korean government has taken the position that any Korean could enter the army and fight for the country.

Sohn flatly denied a report that more than 1600 of the former P.O.W.s had voluntarily en-

U.N. Officials Sure Rhee Won't Fight if Armistice Is Signed

By MARGUERITE HIGGINS
The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

SEOUL, July 6—United Nations officials now feel confident that even if President Syngman Rhee does not sanction the armistice, he will at least limit himself to "passive non-co-operation."

This means, it was authoritatively learned, that Rhee's attitude would be symbolic and would not involve unilateral actions, such as independent military attacks by the South Korean forces.

In the current talks in Seoul, every possible pressure and persuasion is being put forward in the attempt to attain full harmony with South Korea, for the obvious reason that a speedy truce settlement is more likely if the Communists can be assured in advance of United Nations-South Korea unity on the terms.

Safe to Sign Armistice.

In the meantime, U.N. officials have felt it was safe to inform Washington that the U.N. could go ahead and sign an armistice with the Reds without having to fear drastic retaliatory action by the South Koreans.

Along this line Rhee, according to U.N. sources, has given assurances that if he should—as he has threatened — withdraw his troops from the U.N. Command as a result of an armistice, this would be a token withdrawal only.

The South Korean President is reported to have made a pledge to a representative of the United States not to take any action that would involve a physical clash between South Korean forces and U.N. troops.

This promise from Rhee was oral, however and made in conversation. Thus the U.N. is still confronted with the calculated risk that he could change his mind, although the senior Americans here seem to believe that it is a good gamble.

Face-Saving Attitude.

A South Korean policy of "passive non-co-operation" would enable Rhee to save face by telling his people that South Korea remains firm, at least in principle, in its opposition to terms that leave more than 1,000,000 Chinese Communists in North Korea.

Rhee has steadfastly maintained in public statements that his country's acceptance of these terms would be tantamount to

SOFTER POLICY REPORTED TAKEN IN BUCHAREST TO AVERT RIOTS

Grotewohl Admits Spirit of Revolt Is Still Alive in Appeal to East Zone Farmers to Guard Machinery.

BERLIN, July 6 (AP) — East Europe's Soviet masters displayed both the iron hand and the velvet glove today in their attempts to quell riots, strikes and outright rebellions by their discontented peoples.

The soft approach was on in Romania where Red leaders, fearful of anti-Communist revolts, ordered additional rations of bread, flour products, potatoes, vegetables, sugar and oil distributed to the public.

The mailed fist still showed in East Germany. East German Justice Minister Max Fechner announced that 50,000 persons have been arrested for rebelling against the Government. Disclosure of the staggering total—first public admission of the extent of the repressive measures taken in the wake of the June 17 riots—came as the government admitted that the spirit of revolt is still alive.

Open Letter to Farmers.

In an open letter to east zone farmers, Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl conceded that many are still dissatisfied with mere promises.

"Organize yourselves and protect your machinery," Grotewohl wrote. "Turn every saboteur over to the people's police."

There have been reports that farmers have deliberately destroyed Russian - made tractors and threshing machines and set fire to grain rather than continue delivering their crops for Soviet consumption.

To appease the German public, Grotewohl's government and its Russian masters were reported releasing gradually many of those arrested as rebels.

Reports from the east zone told of new industrial strikes and unrest among farmers. Refugees told West Berlin authorities that the Eisleben coal mines, the Zeiss optical works at Jena and a truck factory at Halle have been affected by work stoppages.

Despite the flood of reports telling of disorders behind the Iron Curtain—in Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Poland, as well as in East Germany and Romania—western diplomats in Vienna expressed belief that the Communists still have the 70,000,000 restless east Europeans in the satellite states under control.

These diplomats said that although the disturbances are immensely significant, they are merely signs that the Kremlin's past policies in East Europe have been wrong and that the Kremlin is changing them.

More Production.

The new Soviet leaders apparently believe that if they treat the man-in-the-street with more kindness, they will get more production, one diplomat said, adding:

"We feel this is merely a new tactic without any basic change of heart. The goal of world revolution is still there—to be won by sugar instead of vinegar."

The Romanian switch to sweetening followed recent reports of riots and plunderings of Communist collective farms near Bucharest. The government announcement said the increased rations would be available next Saturday in Bucharest, the nation's capital, and the surrounding region. Elsewhere, they will be received sometime between July 16 and 21.

Romanian refugees in Yugoslavia reported that enraged Romanian workers and peasants had stormed depots of 25 collective farms near Bucharest, seizing foodstuffs, agricultural tools, and equipment.

There was some indirect confirmation of these reports in a Romanian broadcast which said the capital's "working population" would do "voluntary" harvest work today on state farms near Bucharest.

Westerners believe this announcement was a desperate appeal to the region's reliable Communists to protect collective farms from further rioting and from plundering.

Food prices in Romania, fixed after the nation's currency was devalued last year, reportedly have been going up steadily.

Denial in Poland.

Reports that riots in Poland had forced declaration of martial law there drew an unusual flat denial last night from the Warsaw government. The Polish news agency P.A.P. broadcast a communique that no emer-

TRANS-ATLANTIC PILOTS GET SECRET ROUTE, PASSWORD

SHANNON AIRPORT, Ireland, July 6 (AP) — Trans-Atlantic commercial pilots must now fly prescribed routes when crossing America's east coast and be ready to give a secret password if challenged, airline sources said yesterday.

Pilots of all trans-Atlantic planes leaving Shannon Airport for the United States, are given special briefings.

Two United States Air Force officers stationed at the airport give sealed envelopes to the pilots containing the position of a secret corridor and a secret password.

The instructions which change daily are relayed from Washington through the United States Embassy in Dublin.

The new defense measures were designed partly to ease the task of identifying all commercial planes crossing the radar screen guarding the United States coast. Previously, jet fighters were kept busy checking planes flying outside regular channels, or otherwise not identified.

SENATE APPROVES EISENHOWER PARK TRANSFER BILL

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP) —The Senate today pased and sent to the White House a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Army to turn over to Texas at "fair market value" 160 acres of land to be known as "Eisenhower State Park." The land lies within the Denison dam and reservoir project.

Senator Wayne Morse (Ind.), Oregon, held up pasage under the unanimous consent rule until the bill was amended to say "fair market value." Originally the language read "fair value" but Morse insisted that "market" should be inserted in the interests of the nation's taxpayers.

A dispatch from Denison said that Eisenhower's birthplace now has running water. Women serving at hostesses talked the city council into approving an extension from an outside hydrant to the sink in the kitchen. The water tap is needed when refreshments are served on special occasions at the home which is now operated as a civic project.

Sparkler Starts $50,000 Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 6 (AP)—San Francisco and Oakland police counted 22 children injured, one man half blinded and a Chinese market badly burned by weekend fireworks mishaps. A lighted sparkler, tossed by two boys into a cardboard box, set a $50,000 fire in an Oakland market.

POOREST CROPS IN 20 YEARS OVER WIDE U.S. AREA

Farmers Hit by Drouth, Pestilence, Damaging Storms and Falling Markets.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP) —Hardship or disaster today faced millions of American farmers trying to make a crop in the face of drouth, pestilence, falling market prices and damaging storms.

In many areas from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the Atlantic this was the worst farming year in 20 years.

In the dusty, parched Southwest 1953 became a new standard for measuring disaster. It was the worst year in the memory of many an old pioneer.

In the Southwest this was the fourth year of almost uninterrupted drouth. Representative Poage (Dem.), Texas, reported after a personal tour of west Texas that: "The people aren't going broke. They are broke."

Colorado authorities were fighting a record infestation of grasshoppers that threatened more than 1,000,000 acres of farm and range land. In places 50 hoppers to the square yard were counted.

Severe crop damage was caused earlier this spring by an invasion of army worms that felled small grain as if it had been mowed and ruined tender young corn and clover from Tennessee, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota.

As disturbing to the farmers as weather and insects were the market columns of their newspapers. Cattle prices were down 35 to 40 per cent, despite the fact that receipts were not extremely heavy. Wheat and other grains recently plunged to dangerously low levels, recovered somewhat and have fluctuated since.

The Kansas wheat crop was stimated at only 126,564,000 bushels this year, compared with a bumper harvest of 307,000,000 in 1952.

Massachusetts, Indiana, Illinois, Mississippi, Ohio and parts of Nebraska all have suffered some crop damage because of drouth. The army worm invasion that spread over all of Ohio was followed by a current attack of cinch bugs which is threatening

British Newspaper Approves Reported Romance of Princess

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Princess Margaret's reported romance with Group Capt. Peter W. Townsend, a divorced airman, won editorial support yesterday from one newspaper.

Townsend, a 38-year-old commoner, was transferred last week from his job as an equerry with the royal household to Britain's embassy in Brussels as air attache.

The Sunday Express accused the Church of England of blocking the marriage, in much the same manner it tried to break up the romance between Margaret's uncle, King Edward VIII, and Wallis Warfield Simpson.

"The church should not harm the life of a princess, whose welfare the people hold so close to their hearts," the Express said.

The Sunday Pictorial said that after she is 25—in August 1955—Margaret can marry without the consent of her sister, Queen Elizabeth.

Truman Is Halted on Turnpike, Asked to Drive More Carefully

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 6 (AP)—A state policeman stopped former President Truman on the Pennsylvania turnpike yesterday, told him he was driving improperly and asked him to "please be more careful."

Pvt. Manley Stampler said he halted the former President's car near Bedford, about 100 miles from here, when the Truman auto twice cut in front of vehicles that were attempting to pass.

Stampler said "It wasn't a flagrant violation and I just warned him not to do it again." He added: "He was very nice about it and promised to be more careful."

The policeman said he didn't know it was the Truman car until after he waved to the ex-President to pull to the side of the super-highway.

At a stop earlier in Harrisburg, Pa., Truman watched a gasoline station attendant fill up the tank of his car and then turned to Mrs. Truman and said: "Bess, mark that down. That's 11 gallons at $3.45."

Mrs. Truman pulled a little black notebook out of the glove compartment to add the new figures to a growing list.

That small ceremony, said Truman, has been a custom on his current motor trip. He was proud of the way his eight-cylinder Chrysler was performing.

"It's really perking along," he said. "I'm getting about 17 miles per gallon."

The Trumans left New York City at 6 a.m. yesterday.

Before departing, he told reporters his New York visit constituted "a very happy and satisfactory week" and that "it makes me want to come back."

CONGRESS STEPS UP WORKING PACE IN EFFORT TO GO HOME IN MONTH

Senate Gives Up 5-Day Week — House Bothered by Tax Issue but This May Be Solved in Committee.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Congress embarks today on a stepped-up working schedule which Republican leaders hope will bring final adjournment for the year within four weeks.

For the Senate, this will mean longer working days—and some nights—and abandonment of the five-day week. No comparable drive is immediately in prospect for the House, which as usual is farther along with its work.

The House has, for example, passed all but one of the 12 major appropriation bills to finance the Goveernment during the bookkeeping year which started last Wednesday. Six of them have passed the Senate, but only one has gone to the White House.

Meeting on Tax Issue.

The biggest thorn in the Republican House leadership side—the tax issue—may be blunted considerably Wednesday at a meeting of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Its chairman, Representative Daniel A. Reed (Rep.), New York, has fought doggedly against President Eisenhower's request for extension of the excess profits tax on business beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Republican leaders finally set out to bypass Reed's committee, an almost unprecedented maneuver, but called off the effort after they were reported to have received assurances the committee would meet and approve an extension bill. Reed, still opposing the tax, has called a session for Wednesday.

Senator Knowland of California, the acting Republican leader, has said he foresees no difficulty for the measure in the Senate, assuming the House passes it.

Refugee Measure.

There may be committee action on Wednesday also on another Administration measure which has run into delays. It is a bill to permit the immigration, above normal quotas, of 240,000 European refugees in the next two years.

The Senate Judiciary Committee has agreed to consider it Wednesday. No action has been taken as yet in the House.

Two potential Senate-House differences may take considerable time to iron out.

One involves the foreign aid authorization bill. The House version contains a requirement that more than a billion dollars in military aid to Europe shall be held up if treaties looking to creation of a unified six-nation army are not ratified. Only west Germany has approved them thus far.

The Senate, before it passed the authorization measure, voted to permit Eisenhower to withhold the money. He would not be required to do so.

Fight Foreseen.

Representative Vorys (Rep.), Ohio, one of the House members chosen to confer with Senators on differences in the two versions, said he foresees a fight over the issue. He predicted quick agreement, however, on the money figures. The Senate approved $5,318,000,000: the House $4,998,000,000.

Still to be acted on in both branches is an appropriation bill to implement the program. There have been many predictions the amount will be trimmed sharply by the Appropriations committees.

Another major Senate-House difference is on extension of the reciprocal trade act. The House bill includes a provision to add a seventh member to the Tariff Commission, in effect giving Republicans a majority. In the face of Democratic opposition to this provision, the Senate deleted it.

It was written into the bill in the House in a compromise with Republican Ways and Means Committee members who wanted to make drastic changes in the trade act, and they are not likely to abandon it without a struggle.

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said on a radio broadcast yesterday that "the real story of this Congress is the number of times that a Republican President turned to the Democratic party for help in defeating the obstructionists among the Republicans."

'Tourist' Truman Homeward Bound

With a broad smile, former President HARRY S. TRUMAN sets out from New York with MRS. TRUMAN on return drive to their Independence (Mo.) home. Their daughter, MARGARET, partly hidden in back seat, was dropped off at her hotel. tered the army since July 1. He said that if any of them had been inducted in the draft process they would be discharged.

It was Rhee's order to ROK guards to release the prisoners that disrupted truce negotiations June 18 just as the armistice was ready for signing.

The Peiping Radio, the voice of Red China, dropped its "hate America" theme momentarily Sunday and sounded almost sympathetic to United States efforts to get the stubborn South Korean leader to agree to a truce.

But a later—and harsher—broadcast seemed a thinly-veiled warning that it would consider a proposed United States-South Korean mutual defense pact proof of military backing for Rhee's desire to continue the war.

In the first broadcast Peiping bitterly assailed Rhee as a "political gangster." It called its anti-truce stand "not only a mockery of but also an insult to the spirit of independence and democracy of the American people and their ancestor, Washington."

Observers considered this either an indication that the Reds might be willing to sign a truce without a guarantee of Rhee's support or merely another attempt to capitalize on United States-South Korean differences.

The later broadcast warned: "It is clear that anyone who supports Rhee is world public enemy No. 1. . . .

"Further American failure to take drastic steps and action against the Rhee plot will only reveal that the American command is continuing to connive at and encourage Rhee's criminal plans against peace."

Clark Unanswered.

The Chinese radio still has not answered last week's request by Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.N. commander, for a quick signing of the truce.

At Pusan, the South Korean national assembly voted to investigate a raid by about 30 anti-truce demonstrators Friday on the headquarters of the Democratic Nationalist party.

The Democratic Nationalist is the only legal party of any size which opposes Rhee's Liberals. Its leader, Dr. Chough Pyung Ok, has been arrested by Rhee's police for speaking out against Rhee's demand that South Korea fight on alone if the U.N. reaches an armistice with the Communists.

Anti-truce demonstrators assaulted the Democratic Nationalist headquarters, accusing the party of "not supporting" the release of anti-Communist North Korean prisoners. Two party members were injured.

Assemblyman Soh Sun Yoo said the demonstrators may have been "political agents" disguised as "patriots." National police have arrested five suspected raiders.

PLAN TO PULL OUT NON-ROK TROOPS

SEOUL, July 6 (UP) — The Eighth Army made plans today to withdraw its eight non-Korean divisions from the front as hopes for South Korean support of an armistice began to fade.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Eighth Army commander, summoned his nine corps commanders and all American advisers to the ROK army to his headquarters to study their next move if the United Nations signs a truce with the Communists against President Syngman Rhee's wishes.

If the withdrawal plan is put into effect, the non-Korean troops would move back one and one-quarter miles behind the battle line in accordance with the armistice waiting signature at Panmunjom.

This would leave South Korean troops alone against a reported 1,000,000 north Koreans and Chinese Communists on the other side of the line which cuts across the peninsula and dips a few miles below the Thirty-eighth Parallel near the west coast.

Rhee then would have the choice of using his troops on the line as defense forces and maintaining an uneasy peace, or throwing them northward against the Communists as he often has threatened to do.

Taylor's conference was "secret," but it was learned they talked about pulling out one British and seven American divisions from the front and turning over the battle line to the South Koreans.

Taylor said yesterday he did not expect any difficulty in "reassigning" his units if Korea decides to continue the war against the Communists after the United Nations signs the truce.

Indian Government Group Condemns Rhee Stand.

NEW DELHI, July 6 (AP)—The steering committee of India's governing Congress party condemned Syngman Rhee's stand on the Korean armistice yesterday and demanded an early meeting of the United Nations General Assembly to consider the Korean situation.

Meeting under the presidency of Prime Minister Nehru, the 21-member committee also suggested an early meeting of the great powers to discuss points in the dispute.

The resolutions will be placed before a Congress party session in Agra.

BRITAIN WANTS U.N. TO MEET IF RHEE REJECTS TRUCE

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Britain served notice today it favors recalling the United Nations General Assembly if South Korean President Syngman Rhee rejects the terms of a Korean truce.

Acting Cabinet chief Richard A. Butler told questioners in the House of Commons it would be "premature" to reconvene the Assembly while negotiations with Rhee are going on. But he added: "If no progress can be made by direct negotiations, that course will have to be taken."

John Strachey, war minister in the former Labor Government, told Butler that unless Rhee is brought "to reason" the position of British troops in Korea would be endangered.

A call for a special U.N. session already has been made by Indian Prime Minister Nehru. Britain, however, has not supported it on the ground that the current discussions should first be given a chance.

'IMPORTANT' WITNESS HEARD IN RED INQUIRY

U.S. Aid in Rosenberg Trial Testifies Before House Group.

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Max Elichter, described as a "very, very important witness," testified today before a closed hearing of the House Un-American Activities Committee. Reporters were barred from the session at the request of the Department of Justice.

Asked if Elichter, an electrical engineer and former Navy employe, was a co-operative witness, a committee spokesman said, "Very much so."

The nature of his testimony was not disclosed.

Elitcher was a Government witness at the trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg who were executed June 19 as atomic spies.

Representative Kit Clardy (Rep.), Michigan, presiding at the committee session, said the hearing had been closed at the request of a "department of Government" in the "interest of national security."

Committee Counsel Robert L. Kunzig said the committee would hear first a "very, very important witness who will testify on a Communist cell in Government during the time the witness was a Government employe up to three years ago."

Elitcher testified at the espionage trial that the Rosenbergs had tried to recruit him as a spy.

Taft's Condition Reported Good.

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP) — Senator Robert A. Taft (Rep.), Ohio, had a day without visitors today at New York Hospital where a checkup is being made on a hip ailment. The daily hospital bulletin on Taft said his condition is good. A hospital spokesman did not know how long Taft would remain for treatment.

GEN. BRADLEY TO HEAD MISSILE CONCERN'S BOARD

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—Gen. Omar N. Bradley announced today he will become chairman of the board of Bulova Research & Development Laboratories, Inc., which is engaged in guided missile work, when he retires as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on Aug. 16.

The firm is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Bulova Watch Co. It is engaged in work on guided missiles and other weapons for the Defense Department.

Bradley told reporters also, at his press conference, that despite riots and unrest behind the Iron Curtain he sees no "marked" change in Communism's long-range threat to America.

Views on Airpower.

Asked whether he still believed the United States should have a 143-wing Air Force, he answered that the country should have "just as many as we can afford." He said the right number might be 200 wings. He said the more wings there are the better chance there will be of preventing war or of blunting enemy blows if war starts.

Bradley said the present Joint Chiefs of Staff had been assured, apparently in the Democratic Administration, that the armed forces goals they had established — including a 143-wing Air Force—could be maintained over a period of years. The Eisenhower Administration, in reducing defense appropriations, has strongly emphasized the importance of adjusting defense goals to what the country can economically afford. It has set sights on an "interim" 120-wing goal.

Bradley made a strong plea for continuance by the Defense Department of basic research projects.

Cites Research By-Product.

He said one of the outstanding discoveries of the last three years was a by-product of a Navy basic research project of great benefit to the Army. He declined to identify the project, saying it was one of the country's most important secrets.

Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson has been represented as being somewhat critical of "pure" research with no definite objective in mind.

Although he has not analyzed research cuts, Bradley said the armed services are "unhappy" about them. He said he would "hate" to see the Defense Department "withdraw its support" from basic research.

Bradley also told the reporters:

He had been "somewhat relieved" in a sense when Russia discovered the atomic bomb. He said when that happened he reasoned that the free world would get breathing space and time to build its own armaments because he felt that Russia would not undertake a war until it had had time to build an atomic stockpile. The Joint Chiefs estimated that would take until 1954.

In 1948, he had been worried that Russia might use its World War II stockpiles to start a war when Europe was weak and the United States had demobilized "in all good faith."

He will go to the New York offices of the Bulova laboratories after turning over his Joint Chiefs job to Adm. Arthur W. Radford on Aug. 16. Thereafter he plans a cross-country tour of research installations and sometime after the beginning of 1954 he will take a three-month vacation in Hawaii. He said he plans eventually to settle in Southern California.

As a five-star officer, Bradley does not retire. Technically, he remains on acitve duty but without assignment and will continue to draw his full pay and allowances for the rest of his life unless he asks to be retired or resigns his commission. His pay and allowances will amount to $19,548 a year.

At Bulova, Bradley said, he will be "responsible only for over-all policy guidance and shall be free from day to day operations."

Established in 1950, the laboratories now have $4,500,000 worth of research contracts with the Government. They are engaged in "creative thinking" in physics, chemistry, mathematics, electronics, and applied mechanics.

One device developed in the Bulova laboratories was the fuse for the Army's automatic "skysweeper" anti-aircraft gun.

Doubts Investigator Who Said Churchmen Support Reds Is Competent to Hold Public Office.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 6 — The Very Rev. James A. Pike, dean of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral of St. John the Divine, yesterday challenged J. B. Matthews's recent statement that Protestant clergymen are "supporting the Communis apparatus in the United States," and questioned the motives and ability of the man made executive staff director of the Senate's Permanent Investigations subcommittee last month by Chairman Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin.

Referring to Matthews's magazine article, "Reds and Our Churches," in the July issue of the American Mercury, in which he asserted that "at least 7000 Protestant clergymen had served "the Kremlin's conspiracy," Dean Pike said in a sermon at a special service at a drive-in theater that "this is so absurd on its face as to reflect on Mr. Matthews's competence to hold any public office."

Dean Pike characterized Matthews's attack on the Protestant clergy and what he described as "the book-burning mania" as "two marked examples" of "procedures resulting from fear of Communism" that "are causing us to lose those very things that most distinguish our way of life from theirs."

Proof of an "alarming" tendency in the United States, Dean Pike said, is Matthews's "bill of particulars" in which he states that "528 of the clergy are tainted in that they signed a petition opposing the McCarran act.

"Since when, in this country, does opposition to federal legislation render one a traitor?" he continued. "In Russia, yes; but not in America. Especially has the church and clergy in this country always held dear freedom of expression, of dissent, of non-conformity."

Calls Book Burning Almost Like 'Burning Persons.'

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 6 (UP)—A Methodist minister said yesterday "burning of books is not far from the burning of persons" and a rabbi said the United States is "threatened by a spiritual paralysis."

The Rev. Albert P. Shirkey, pastor of Washington's Mount Vernon Methodist Church, spoke of the State Department's recent action in removing controversial books from its overseas libraries.

"The burning of books is an admission that we are afraid," he said. "Burning of books is not far from the burning of persons, persons who might have in their minds the ideas that are in their books."

Rabbi Bernard Mandelbaum, dean of students at Jewish Theological Seminary of America, also spoke at the opening religious session of the University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs.

"America is being thratened by spiritual paralysis which will halt development of our treasured respect for dignity of man, freedom of human expression and fundamental rights of diversity within the over-all purpose of unity," Rabbi Mandelbaum said.

"The McCarthys, Jenners, McCarrans, and the like invoke the name of democracy but defy fundamental rights of diversity within the over-all pose of unity.

$5,000,000 IN FAKE U.S. NOTES SEIZED IN PARIS

PARIS, July 6 (UP)—Police said today they had smashed a counterfeiting ring and seized $5,000,000 in fake United States bank notes.

Three men were arrested in a suburban printing plant and three more were arrested as note passers, the police said.

A police spokesman said preliminary investigation showed the ring planned to flood the Paris money market with the fake bills during the summer rush of foreign tourists. Police described the bills as "flawless" copies of real ones.

PRAVDA ASSAILS U.S. FOR URGING FURTHER UNREST

Praises Churchill for Suggesting Big-Power Meeting, Reaffirms Desire for Talks.

MOSCOW, July 6 (UP)—The Communist Party newspaper Pravda sharply attacked the Eisenhower Administration today for advocating unrest in satellite eastern Europe.

At the same time Pravda reaffirmed Russia's desire for settlement of all outstanding global problems through negotiations.

In a front-page editorial, Pravda praised British Prime Minister Churchill for suggesting a big-power conference without attaching preliminary conditions and vigorously criticized the United States for not going along with him.

The newspaper directed its attack against Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the American press also for campaigning for "a repetition of the Berlin experience of June 17" in other east European countries.

Pravda said this "provocative campaign" obviously stemmed "from alarm among ruling circles in the United States over the failure of the United States 'policy of force.'"

"Dulles's widely-advocated get-tough line, intended to achieve the unconditional submission of west European states to American leadership and isolation of the Soviet Union, suffered a fiasco," Pravda said.

Pravda added that Dulles had "failed to liquidate disagreements between the United States and Britain in the Far East."

The conflict betwen the United States and other western nations "is contiuing to increase and sharpen within the Anglo-America bloc," the newspaper said.

"Churchill's initiative in asking for big-power negotiations without preliminary conditions was received favorably everywhere except Washington where it caused disappointment and hostile comment," Pravda said.

"It became clear there are serious differences between the United States and her European partners regarding important international questions."

That, said Pravda, was why President Eisenhower suggested a conference of Big Three western powers at Bermuda.

MINOR DETAILS IRONED OUT IN TALKS TO SETTLE BUILDING TIE-UP

Representatives of building material dealers and the Teamsters' Union reported they had "ironed out minor details and are tackling the big ones." There were indications that the session may run late tonight.

After last week's sessions adjourned, following three days of meetings, Mayor Raymond R. Tucker said he had been assured that when the negotiators met again today they would continue "without cessation" until agreement was reached.

The strike, rounding out its seventh week, has tied up $75,000,000 in construction in the city and St. Louis county.

The Mayor also said there has been a modification of position and "a mutual understanding of each other's problems." Ready-mix concrete plants and other material dealers had offered the drivers a wage increase of 7½ cents an hour above the $1.95 paid previously. The union originally demanded 25 cents an hour, but settled with three other employers' associations for less.

Chief point of disagreement between the Teamsters and material dealers is a demand that union members owning and operating their own trucks receive the same wages and overtime pay of other members of Local 682, plus a minimum amount under separate check for use of equipment. Employers, who heretofore have paid owner-operators on a sub-contract basis, contend that the union proposal is price-fixing in violation of federal statutes.

The strike, which has caused 27,000 AFL building workmen to be idle, has had many far-reaching effects. Absence of ready-mixed concrete has halted the setting of grave markers in cemeteries throughout the area monument dealers have reported. It has become a modern practice of cemeteries to order ready-mixed concrete for a number of grave marker foundations at one time, with the result that hand mixing of foundation concrete has been largely abandoned.

In the reorganization, 17 district offices will be absorbed by nine regional offices, with St. Louis served by a new regional office at Omaha. St. Louisans will continue to file their returns and pay federal taxes at the district office, in the Federal Building.

Bad Holiday for Cats: One Shot, And One Is Mailed by Small Boys

Neighbors See Youngsters Put Kitten in Mail Box and Stop Them From Throwing in Firecrackers, Too.

For a couple of local cats the Fourth of July weekend was no holiday. One got shot and one got mailed.

The latter, a stampless kitten, was resting up today after being dropped into a corner mail box at Third and Elm streets Saturday night by small boys who decided that was a good way to celebrate Independence day.

The shivering kitten was rescued, and taken to the Humane Society of Missouri, after neighbors who saw the act prevented the boys from tossing lighted firecrackers into the box with the kitten.

Meanwhile, Miss Helen Pope of Clayton today offered a $50 reward for the name of the person who has been shooting her cats. One of her six cats was shot a few weeks ago, and Max, a big tomcat, was shot in the leg Friday.

Miss Pope found Max writhing in pain in the alley behind her home at 6414 San Bonita avenue. Max, his leg and hip splinted, was recovering. "I can't understand anybody being so mean," said Miss Pope.

35 MEN FINED $90 EACH FOR LOLLING IN CITY PARKS

A police war on "skid-row" habitues who loll in the city's downtown park areas swung into high gear today as 35 men were fined $90 each in police court for loitering.

Those fined were unable to show they have gainful employment, and all were men who had been warned by police before. Provisional Police Judge J. S. Gollub noted in assessing fines. Most of them will serve 30-day workhouse sentences in lieu of paying the fines, unless parole-office investigation brings a recommendation of clemency.

Complaints of office workers whose noon hour relaxation on the greensward was spoiled by squatters led to an inspection tour by I. A. Long, Police Board President, and Acting Police Chief Joseph E. Casey.

Officers reported they found some of the indigent men of leisure passing wine bottles around and insulting lunchers. Today's mass fining was the result of a weekend of concentrated police work on Memorial Plaza, a park area at Third and Market streets, and the corner of Ninth street and Market.

SOLICITOR FINED $300, ONLY ONE IN ORGANIZATION

A coast-to-coast solicitor for the "U.S.A. Mission," an organization consisting of himself, was fined $300 today by Provisional Judge J. S. Gollub for soliciting in the city without a permit.

Orville F. Libbey, 59 years old, the solicitor, said his sole aim was to promote "a constitutional form of government like the one George Washington had."

However, Libbey told the court, certain difficulties kept arising in carrying out his worthy aim.

Although he takes in $50 or $60 weekly, he explained, there never seems to be anything left over after he gets through maintaining his automobile, trailer and himself.

GOES TO HOSPITAL AFTER TWO POLICEMEN HIT HIM

Arnett Lee Hampton, laborer, 2814 North Fourteenth street, suffered head injuries yesterday when two policemen hit him with night sticks. The officers said Hampton resisted arrest by fighting them.

Hampton was having a dispute with his wife, police said, and Patrolman Harlan McLaughlin, answering a disturbance call, sought to arrest him. Patrolmen Richard McChesney and William Conroy came to McLaughlin's aid when Hampton ran, and caught him in the 900 block of Benton street.

McLaughlin and Conroy each struck Hampton once with their night sticks, they said, when he continued fighting them. Hampton, charged with resisting arrest and peace disturbance, is in City Hospital.

2 ROB GRILL, STRIKE OWNER

Stark's grill, 2400 North Broadway, was held up and robbed of $100 yesterday by two armed men, one of whom struck the proprietor, Joseph O'Model.

The proprietor said the two men, armed with pistols, entered by a side door and ordered him and a waiter, Virgil Kurtz, to lie on the floor while they rifled the cash register. When he raised his head, O'Model said, one of the men hit him.

TRIES TO HELP HIS FATHER IN FIGHT, SHOOTS HIM IN LEG

Sumbler Roberts, a laborer, 3402 Laclede avenue, was shot in the right leg yesterday by his son, Johnnie Roberts, when the son went to the aid of his father in a fight.

Police said the elder Roberts, 55 years old, was fighting with Arthur Langford in the rear of Langford's home at 15 South Rankin avenue. The younger Roberts, hearing the noise, went to his father's home and got a gun.

The son fired twice, wounding both his father and Langford in the right leg, police reported. He was booked suspected of assault with intent to kill. All are Negroes.

SLIGHT INCREASE IN SUITS FOR DIVORCE IN COUNTY

A total of 796 divorce suits was filed in St. Louis county during the first six months of the year, and 544 divorces were granted, Raymond O. Douglas, circuit clerk, reported today.

For the same period last year, 750 divorce actions were filed and 526 divorces were granted. Douglas said 6877 suits of all types were filed, of which 4883 were real estate tax suits.

Fees collected during the first six months totaled $33,147, which is $899 more than was collected in the corresponding period of 1952, Douglas said.

HOLIDAY IN CITY 'SAFE AND SANE'; ONE FATALITY

10 Treated for Fireworks Injuries Here, 24 in County — St. Louisan Drowns.

St. Louisans returned to work today after a "safe and sane" Fourth of July weekend marked by notable absence of serious fireworks injuries or traffic accidents. One death by drowning was reported.

Despite heavy traffic on streets and highways, no deaths from automobile accidents were reported in the St. Louis area Saturday and yesterday.

John B. Chapman, 1025 Ann avenue, a machine operator at Emerson Electric Co., was killed early Saturday when the automobile he was driving overturned about three miles west of Ironton, 70 miles south of St. Louis. He was 18 years old, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Chapman of the Ann avenue address.

Injury Cases.

City Hospital reported 10 persons treated for minor fireworks injuries, mostly children with burns of the legs and hands. At St. Louis County Hospital, 24 fireworks injury cases were treated.

Although serious injuries were infrequent, St. Louis County Hospital treated a record total of 144 persons in its emergency room Saturday. The staff was so busy that Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, superintendent, joined in to help with emergency treatment.

Yesterday was another busy day in the hospital's emergency room, with a total of 114 cases. Some patients had suffered cuts on picnics and others had been hurt in minor automobile accidents. None required hospitalization.

In the Alton area, two boys each lost the sight of an eye in mishaps attributed to fireworks. They were Ray F. Rushing, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rushing, Hop Hollow road, Godfrey, and Billy Funkhouser, 13, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Funkhouser, 3407 Fullerton avenue, Alton.

Hit in Eye by Can.

The Rushing boy was hit in the eye last night by a can under which his brother, Edward, 13, had exploded a firecracker, police reported. He was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Young Funkhouser was watching a friend pound a stick on the pavement Saturday. A cap was detonated and a fragment struck the boy. He was taken to Alton Memorial Hospital.

Troop C of the State Highway Patrol, covering a 10-county area, said no fatalities occurred on the roads. There were 36 traffic accidents in the area from 6 p.m. Friday to 6 a.m. today, and 30 persons were hurt, none seriously.

Harry Moore, 19 years old, was drowned Saturday when swimming in the Mississippi river 150 yards south of the Chain of Rocks bridge. Moore, a Negro, called for help but two companions were unable to rescue him. He lived at 4230 St. Ferdinand street. His body was recovered today at the foot of Zepp street.

KERR ASSAILS DROUTH AID PLAN FOR SOUTHWEST

Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem.), Oklahoma, assailed the Administration's emergency relief for southwestern drouth areas as inadequate today, and likened it to "pitching hay with a table fork."

The Senator, here to address the Grand Lodge Convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, also criticized Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson for not supporting the price of cattle at 90 per cent parity. Benson has told Kerr repeatedly he is opposed to a program of supporting the price of cattle on the hoof.

Kerr said cattlemen in the Southwest are "confronted with creeping bankruptcy." He asserted that, although small producers favor support prices, big cattlemen support Benson because they "developed such an antagonism to a federal ceiling when prices were good that they have been unable to come around to support a price floor now that the bottom has fallen out."

Criticizes Power Policy.

Kerr also criticized the Administration's attitude on public power which he said was helping a group of private utilities become the only purchasers of public power and thereby the only sellers of electric power to consumers.

Earl E. James of Oklahoma City, newly-elected grand exalted ruler of the Elks, today called for expansion of programs to guide and educate young persons.

He told delegates representing 1637 lodges throughout the country that civic groups "can only make older people comfortable, but young people can be inspired and guided into a useful, worthwhile life."

James cautioned the Kiel Auditorium assembly that there was a direct relationship between the community activities of fraternal and other organizations and the achievement of political liberties. "Our Government depends upon your active interest as citizens," he said.

Nominating Speech by Kerr.

James, who will be formally installed as Grand Exalted Ruler on Thursday, succeeds Sam Stern, Fargo, N.D. Nominating address was made by Senator Kerr.

The Elks were welcomed at opening ceremonies last night by Mayor Raymond R. Tucker and Lt. Gov. James T. Blair Jr., representing Gov. Phil M. Donnelly of Missouri. Almost 9000 have registered for the organization's eighty-ninth convention, which will last through Thursday noon.

Delegates took a sight-seeing trip on the Mississippi today in the steamer Admiral. Tonight a minstrel show by the St. Louis of Soldiers' Memorial lodge will be presented at the auditorium. Band and drill team contests will be held tomorrow afternoon on the Plaza in front

VIOLENT DEATHS ON 4TH TOTAL 441; TRAFFIC TOLL 260

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—The Fourth of July weekend brought violent death to more than 400 persons.

Two hundred and sixty died in highway and street accidents. The National Safety Council had predicted the highway toll would reach 290. Drownings accounted for 121 deaths and 49 died in miscellaneous accidents.

There was one fireworks fatality. Edward Nolta, 15 years old, was struck on the jaw by a falling unexploded aerial bomb when watching a supervised fireworks display at Willows, Calif.

Missouri reported five traffic deaths, one drowning and two other fatalities. Illinois listed 10 traffic deaths, six drownings and five other violent deaths.

The two-holiday weekend toll 441 lives was substantially smaller than the 643 recorded for the three-day Fourth of July weekend of last year. Last year traffic accidents claimed 366, drownings 202, fireworks two, and miscellaneous accidents 73.

INJURED IN AUTO MISHAP

Elmer Jones Jr., an instructor in the Officers' Communication School at Scott Air Force Base, was recovering in a Mount Vernon (Ill.) hospital today from head injuries suffered last Friday when he apparently fell asleep and was thrown from his automobile.

Deputy sheriffs found Jones lying unconscious beside Illinois Highway 37 north of Mount Vernon, and his machine nearby. Jones lives at 206 East "E" street, Belleville.

SENATOR ROBERT S. KERR

SHOT TO DEATH, RIFLE NEAR

Henry H. Carmean, 15 St. Ann avenue, Valley Park, was found shot to death last night in the kitchen of his home, police reported. He had a bullet wound in his forehead and a .22-caliber rifle was on the floor.

Carmean, a plumber, 64 years old, had been under treatment for a heart condition, police said. His wife told officers he had gone into the kitchen and a moment later she heard a shot.

A. H. MARIENFELD TAX TRIAL NEARING END

Case Expected to Go to Jury Today — Evasion of $24,194 Charged.

The case of Arthur H. Marienfeld, charged with income tax evasion, was expected to go to the jury in the court of United States District Judge Rubey M. Hulen late today.

Marienfeld, president of Mar Meat Co., is charged with evading payment of $24,194 in income taxes in 1946.

Max H. Goldschein, special assistant attorney general, told the jury in final argument that the defendant "was not asked to pay more taxes than any other citizens, but wilfully failed to pay his full share. "The prosecutor termed the case "an important one for the public."

Defense Counsel Harry C. Blanton, former United States Attorney, declared that the Government failed to show intent by Marienfeld to evade taxes. At the close of arguments, the court will instruct the jury on the law.

Government witnesses testified that some meat delivered by the Mar Meat Co., was accompanied by regular printed invoices, but that other deliveries were by dray bills, some of which were not numbered. The Government contends that Marienfeld avoided recording many sales in the company's books by substituting the dray bills for regular invoices.

The government contends that Marienfeld's 1946 income was at least $70,678, on which the tax was $39,405, but he reported $36,253 and paid a tax of $15,437. It is also charged that the defendant reported his company's income for the year was $47,880, with a tax of $17,881, when he should have reported $58,176 and paid a tax of $22,107.

BOSTON SEEKS 20-CENT FARE

BOSTON, July 6 (UP)—Metropolitan Transit Authority trustees announced last night they would seek a 5-cent fare increase that would make subway and bus rides in greater Boston 20 cents on July 19.

The fare increase, the trustees estimated, would produce an additional net annual income of $6,735,000 and ease an $8,573,637 deficit being shouldered by taxpayers in Boston and 13 other communities served by the M.T.A.

RAINS DRENCH KOREA, KEEPING PLANES DOWN

Ground Action Is Limited to Skirmishes — Eight Are Reported Drowned.

By ROBERT GIBSON

SEOUL, July 6 (AP)—Allied planes stayed on the ground today and battlefront action was limited to brief patrol skirmishes as rains lashed Korea from one end to the other.

Up to 5½ inches of rain has soaked this war-torn peninsula since early Sunday from storms that swept in from the China sea. The Fifth Air Force said the downpour would continue another 24 hours.

For the first time in more than a year, all Allied planes in Korea—even weather reconnaissance flights—were grounded.

Along the curving 155-mile front, infantrymen struggled in ankle-deep mud to keep waterlogged bunkers from caving in. Some bunkers already have collapsed, it was reported.

Supply traffic crept slowly toward the battleline over dirt roads turned into a quagmire.

Shortly before midnight Sunday, 12 Okinawa-based B-29s flew through solid overcast and bombed a Red troop and supply area at Changdong in northwest Korea.

(The United Press reported that at least eight persons, including two American airmen, drowned in floods in South Korea. The South Korean Home Ministry said more than 2400 homes have been destroyed by water.

(The United Press quoted an Eighth Army spokesman as saying the Communists were taking advantage of the grounding of Allied planes to build up supplies and reinforcements on the central and eastern fronts.

Red Boasts of Sinkings are Denied by U.S. Navy.

TOKYO, July 6 (UP) — The United States Navy officially denied today a Communist claim that Red coast artillery sank several American destroyers and minesweepers on June 14 as well as Red boasts of sinking a transport and damaging two destroyers on June 17.

2 ARRESTED IN UNION DRIVE ON SUNDAY MEAT-SELLING

Two men were arrested yesterday on charges of selling meat in violation of the city's Sunday closing ordinance. The arrests marked the opening of a campaign by the AFL Meatcutters' Union to bring complaints against illegal meat sellers.

Those arrested were John Ridenour, 2118 Russell boulevard, operator of Johnnie's Grocery & Meat Market, 1626 Mississippi avenue, and Willard Nelson, 2106 Portis avenue, operator of Lafayette Food Shop, 2822 Lafayette avenue.

Complaints against the establishments were brought by Alphonse Basile, a meatcutter, who made purchases of meat at both places. Nick M. Blassie, president of Local 88 of the union, said members led by James Mathews, business representative, had found about 100 shops selling meat on Sunday in city and county. "We're going to send out teams of 10 members every Sunday until this situation, which is also a state violation, is cleaned up," Blassie announced.

BAPTISMAL FONT DEDICATED TO GIRL FOUND DEAD IN RIVER

A baptismal font was dedicated yesterday to the memory of Lenora Seiler, 13-year-old Valley Park girl whose body was found last March 14 in the Meramec after a month-long search.

The marble font, purchased with donations of parishioners and friends, was dedicated at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Valley Park, by Msgr. Bernard Stolte, pastor of Our Lady of Sorrows Church, St. Louis. Taking part in the ceremony were Lenora's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Seiler, 800 Vest avenue, and the Rev. Anthony F. Schuermann, pastor of Sacred Heart.

First christening in the font was that of Lisa Wapelhorst, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wapelhorst, a great-granddaughter of the late Max Wapelhorst, a benefactor of the church. A coroner's jury returned an open verdict in Lenora Seiler's death, finding she died of suffocation.

Would Kill Locusts by Hand.

HONG KONG, July 6 (AP)—The Chinese Communist health ministry said in a recent emergency announcement on an anti-locust campaign that because of a shortage of insecticides the pests should be caught and killed by hand.

Amateur Takes 2 Years to Cross Atlantic in Sailboat, Runs Ashore

Briton Learns Navigation From Two 75-Cent Books, to Leave Maryland for New York — Last Leg of Trip.

OCEAN CITY, Md., July 6 (AP)—An amateur British sailor, who learned his navigation while crossing the Atlantic alone in a 23-foot sailboat, hopes to leave tomorrow for New York and the goal he set out for nearly two years ago.

Colin L. Fox, 32-year-old racetrack clerk from Osterly in Middlesex, England, reluctantly stopped off here early yesterday on the last leg of his 7000-mile ocean voyage. He was en route from Nassau, Bahamas, to New York when his boat drifted aground in an early morning calm.

Minor Repairs.

He set about making minor repairs to the boat today after having spent most of yesterday chatting with reporters and Coast Guardsmen and resting from the rigors of an open sea voyage. He had left Nassau June 25.

This was only the third mishap Fox suffered since sailing out of Lybington, England, July 11, 1951.

When crossing the Bay of Biscay from France, he said, he ran into a gale which ripped some of the 350 feet of sails his boat carries. He put into Cedira, Spain to have them repaired.

Last April, he said, he was leaving the Bahamas for New York and the boat smashed aground on a reef, stoving in 17 planks and 12 frames. It was 50 days before he completed repairs "with crude native help."

"Waiting was the most terrific mental strain of the voyage," Fox said.

His voyage was interrupted for a year, which he spent in Casablanca working to finance his trip across the Atlantic. Until then he had been accompanied by a fellow Britisher, Clifford Anthony Broom of Oxford, who was not too enthusiastic about coming on across.

Broom, he explained, had been ill for part of the trip.

From North Africa, he went to Gibralter to see "the last bastion of the British empire," and then headed southwest for Las Planas in the Canary islands.

Yachting Book.

Fox, whose previous knowledge of sailing consisted of what he learned from a yachting book, also said he knew nothing of offshore navigation. He bought two 75-cent navigation books, and 'with these I navigated to Nassau, which is about 3600 miles from the Canary islands."

The trip, longest and hardest haul of his journey, required 47 days because of "light and inconsistent winds." "I nearly went bonkus," Fox said.

To pass the time he did a lot of reading, and struggled with his navigation. "By the time I reached Nassau, I knew it pretty well," he said.

Fox says he has had enough of sailing. He plans to sell the boat when he gets to New York and buy an automobile for seeing some of the country.

When he is ready to return to England, he will fly.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ASSERTS M'CARTHY DOES GREAT HARM

ATHENS, July 6 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt declared here today that Senator McCarthy has done "a great deal of harm to my country." But, she added, "I am speaking as a Democrat, of course."

Mrs. Roosevelt held a news conference here just before leaving by plane for Belgrade on her world tour.

Answering foreign and Greek reporters' questions on McCarthy, chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, Mrs. Roosevelt credited him with "perhaps creating something which is essential"—public realization of the danger of Communism.

"But," she added, "he has made the great mass of people blindly afraid. . . . He will cast a shadow over anybody. . . . People in the United States today are afraid to be different, to disagree with neighbors because of the possible consequences."

G.O.P. TO RUN ON FARM ACT AS IT IS, SAYS AIKEN

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Aiken (Rep.), predicted today the Republicans will face the voters next year with a farm price-support program about like that now on the statute books.

"I don't think there will be too much change in existing legislation," he said. "There probably will be an effort to place permanent price supports on the books, but I think Congress will want to keep its finger on that situation."

Under present law the Government must support this year and next, at not less than 90 per cent of parity, such major crops as corn, wheat, cotton, tobacco, rice and peanuts. Parity is a price standard officially declared to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they pay.

Retreat Indicated.

Aiken's prediction indicated something of a retreat from his previous stand for a sliding scale of supports. He made it clear, however, he was predicting what he thought would happen and not necessarily expressing his own preference.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson has said the present price-support system is inadequate and that a better one must be found, but he has not yet made specific recommendations.

Aiken hopes some compromise can be worked out at the present session to give President Eisenhower limited authority to dispose of crop surpluses for famine relief.

"I can see where, if the President had this authority, he might be able to change the course of history," Aiken said. "Fifty million bushels of wheat, put in the right place at the right time, might turn a country from Communism to our side."

Aiken agreed with Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio, that some extensive changes will have to be made in what some critics described as a request for "blank check" authority to dispose of surpluses abroad. Aiken thinks limitations on the amount of surpluses involved and a time limit on the authority might satisfy most of the critics.

Taft said the Government now has about three billion dollars' worth of crop surpluses but he doesn't believe Congress will agree to let the President give any of them away except under strict limitations.

Eisenhower has asked for authority to fix gift or sale terms for the use of surpluses to meet famine conditions, with the Treasury paying the costs, including those of delivery.

Criticism From Anderson.

Senator Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, a former Secretary of Agriculture, said he thought "somebody gave the President a bad piece of legislation to send to Congress." He said if it is enacted at all, the President ught to be required to get congressional approval for each deal, with soce leeway given him to complete transactions when Congress is not in session.

By the United Press.

Chairman Clifford R. Hope of the House Agriculture Committee believes a 'two-price system" would 'solve the problem of wheat surpluses.

The Kansas Republican said that under the plan growers would be assured the Government support price only on that portion of their crop which is produced for the domestic market. For the rest, they would get only what it would bring on the competitive world market.

Benson was forced last week to proclaim production controls on the 1954 wheat crop because farmers in response to the Government price guarantee have piled up a record high supply of 1,700,000,000 bushels in the face of a shrinking foreign market.

RED CHINESE FREE 23 JAP FISHERMEN HELD 6 MONTHS

TOKYO, July 6 (AP)—Kyodo news service said two Japanese fishing boats held by Red China nearly six months returned yesterday to Nagasaki with their 23 crewmen.

The two 70-ton vessels were captured when fishing in the East China sea, which the Reds say are Chinese territorial waters.

The Japanese crewmen were close-mouthed on their treatment.

Two other ships with a total of 22 crew members also were released last week and are en route to Japan, Kyodo said.

Two Records for City.

12TH TYPHOON OF YEAR REPORTED IN RED CHINA

HONG KONG, July 6 (AP)—The Eastern China weather bureau reported that Communist China experienced its twelfth typhoon of the year today, this one hitting the Shanghai area.

A broadcast by the Red radio in Shanghai said the typhoon's force was worst at Hangchow, and that it also hit hard at Woosung. Shanghai, itself, experienced only high winds and rain.

4 YOUTHS THREATEN WRONG MAN, POLICEMAN IN CIVVIES

Patrolman Vernon Phelan, off duty and wearing civilian clothes, arrested four youths in Forest Park Saturday night after they cursed him, his wife and their three children and tried to force his automobile off the road, he reported.

Phelan, 5655 Ashland avenue, said the Negro youths pulled alongside his automobile and began to shout obscenities. The driver then pulled across the road in front of Phelan's automobile, causing a minor collision. The four youths advanced in a threatening manner, Phelan said, and he produced his revolver and badge and arrested them.

Phelan sent his wife to call a police car. While Phelan was waiting for help, Willie Cooper, Negro, 2632 Lawton boulevard, tried to interfere, and Phelan placed him under arrest for interfering with a police officer. The driver was booked as George Edward Cunningham, 3407 Hickory street, who was charged with careless driving. The three passengers were charged with peace disturbance. One was booked as Ernest Jacobs Jr., 3400 Hickory street. The other two are juveniles.

gency measures had been taken in Poland.

The West Berlin newspaper Telegraf said Saturday night that martial law had been declared in the Silesian industrial area of Poland and in Warsaw and Krakow. This report, never confirmed by western Allied or German authorities, also declared that Poles had blown up 17 Soviet tanks.

The Communist East German news agency A.D.N. today quoted the Polish news agency as charging that these "absurd lies" were concocted "for the purpose of provocation." Western allied authorities in Berlin admitted frankly they did not know where the truth lay.

(The United Press quoted a report from the Manchester Guardian of an uprising of tobacco workers in Bulgaria. The Guardian said reports had reached London that workers' demonstrations forced the Bulgarian government to repeal speedup orders it had tried to enforce in a tobacco factory.

(According to the Guardian's source of information, the trouble in the Bulgarian Tobacco factory started after Soviet-style work methods were introduced.

(Workers' meetings got out of hand and about 5000 workers stormed through the streets of Plovdiv shouting anti-Communist slogans, the Guardian said.)

Hungarian Dispatches.

East German papers gave prominent display to dispatches from Hungary reporting the governmental changes in which Matyas Rakosi was replaced as premier of the Budapest government.

Western sources generally viewed the shift as a Red move to head off incipient rebellion. The removal of Rakosi from the premiership is in line with the new Communist policy of eliminating ruthless one-man "hero" dictators.

Rakosi remains in the background as Communist party boss while the new government headed by veteran Communist Imre Nagy has offered appeasement to the restless Hungarians —less police terror, restoration of some private enterprise, and more food and comfort. The same softer policy has been promised in East Germany.

Westerners emphasized that Rakosi, even though he has yielded his jobs as Premier and Secretary-General of the Communist party (the latter post has been abolished), is still a most important political figure in Hungary and probably still the No. 1 man.

The East German Federation of Trade Unions served notice it will not permit even "voluntary" increases of workers' production quotas.

Quota Increase.

One of the major causes of the June 17 revolt was the quota increase forced on workers by the Communist government. This attempt to squeeze more work out of the people — for the same wages—was abandoned after the uprising.

The trade union federation (F.D.G.B.) charged, however, that many plant directors were trying to get around the new rule by inducing workers to agree "voluntarily" to boost their output. So the federation's board of directors made its position clear in today's issue of its official newspaper.

Red authorities in East Berlin eased somewhat the partial blockade along the divided city's East-West frontier.

Police announced yesterday that four more crossings would be open to Berliners passing from one zone to another, bringing the total to seven. Only Germans with special passes are allowed through, however. The Red Army's martial-law decree of June 17 is still in effect.

The East Berlin border crackled with gunfire against last night. Communist peoples' police fired about 40 pistol and rifle shots at a 25-year-old refugee from East Germany who drove his automobile through a police barricade and escaped to West Berlin.

Four Soviet soldiers fired at a West Berliner who fled when they halted his car as he approached the interzonal highway check point just outside Berlin. He escaped by hiding in nearby woods until dark, but had to leave his car behind.

In Potsdam it was announced that the Rev. Franz Busch, Catholic priest sentenced at Easter to five years as "an enemy of the state," has been pardoned. New credits for farmers and private industry were granted by the state banking system.

7753 Released.

State prosecutor Ernst Melsheimer said in a special report that 7753 East Germans have been released from prison in the last three weeks and given pardons. They had been arrested on such charges as "damaging the people's economy," including the cases of 2000 farmers unable to meet crop quotas.

The West Berlin newspaper Der Abend said a Moscow-ordered shake-up in the organization of the Communist party leadership in East Germany will be made when the party holds its annual congress next October. The Politburo will be abolished and replaced by a presidium of the central committee, according to Der Abend, which said this plan was announced at a recent politburo meeting by Pavel F. Yudin, deputy Soviet high commissioner in East Germany.

Such a change would eliminate the post of party general secretary now held by deputy prime minister Walter Ulbricht. Der Abend gave no indication, however, whether Ulbricht would be dropped from the party leadership or given some new post of equal responsibility.

Ulbricht was a leader in the drive to Communize and rearm East Germany. There have been rumors that he is slated for demotion or removal.

East German Deputy Prime Minister Otto Nuschke wrote an editorial in his newspaper, Neue Zeit, designed to show that the East German public now is "grateful" for the Red Army action in smashing the rebellion. But in it, he said:

"At first the workers did not fully appreciate the action of the Soviet tanks but today they know the Soviets saved the peace and the holy question of German unity."

(The United Press quoted the Information Bureau West, a private intelligence organization based in West Berlin, as saying walls of public buildings throughout East Germany have been plastered with such signs as "blood for blood" and "we will rise again."

(West Berlin Mayor Ernst Reuther accused the Communist authorities of restoring to Nazi-style torture methods in their attempts to crush popular resistance. But he warned that West Berliners could do little but give moral support to their brethren behind the Iron Curtain.

("We cannot suggest starting a new war . . . and we Germans cannot march against Russian tanks," he said.)

BULGARIA ENACTS FORCED LABOR LAW

VIENNA, July 6 (AP)—Communist Bulgaria has legalized forced labor, it was revealed today.

The Soviet satellite's leaders have enacted a law whereby a Bulgarian worker who leaves his job without permission by his manager, and a young apprentice who quits his professional school face imprisonment and heavy fines.

Two Bulgarian newspapers reaching Vienna revealed that the new law was enacted by the country's Communist leaders, despite opposition by some jurists in the Bulgarian Communist parliament's legal board.

The edict, published in the Gazette of the Presidium of the Bulgarian National Assembly, stipulates that a worker in state, co-operative or public enterprises may not leave his job without permission by the manager, and that he will be punished with two to four months' imprisonment or labor camp if he does so.

At the same time, the manager of an enterprise who does not report violators to the authorities will face the same punishment.

The law also stipulates that an apprentice of a professional Bulgarian school "who has arbitrarily left school, will be excluded from Bulgarian schools for violation of school discipline and will be sentenced by the court to either one year forced labor in the state labor camps, or will be fined to repay all the costs which the state has had for his education."

Help Needed From Outside, Former Czech Envoy Believes.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP) — Former Czech ambassador Juraj Slavik believes anti-Communist rioters behind the Iron Curtain must have "help from the outside" to succeed in overthrowing their Communist rulers.

He said demonstrations in eastern Europe clearly show that the situation in Russian satellite nations is getting "worse and worse." But he said there is "no possibility of liberation" under present conditions.

Slavik said he had just received a letter from a Czech refugee living in western Germany, who stated that the presence of only "one free division" on the Czech border in recent weeks "certainly would have assured the overthrow of the Communist government in Czechoslovakia."

U.N. OFFICIALS FEEL CERTAIN RHEE WON'T FIGHT

recognition of the legal rights of the Communists to retain indefinitely North Korean territory. This in turn, in his view, amounts to the acceptance of a perpetual division of his country into Communist and non-Communist parts.

The U.N. already has made an inevitable concession to the South Koreans by admitting publicly to the Communists the impossibility of recovering the 27,000 anti-Communist North Korean prisoners released on Rhee's responsibility and by asking the Reds to go ahead with the armistice despite this change of circumstance. About 8000 anti-Red North Korean prisoners are still in camps.

Under the original armistice terms the Reds were to have had the chance to visit all the anti-Communist North Korean and Chinese prisoners to give them explanations as to why they should return to Red areas.

Main Stumbling Block.

At the Seoul conference, the main point dividing Rhee and Walter S. Robertson, President Eisenhower's special envoy, is the South Korean demand for a time limit on the post-truce political conference. The Koreans want a guaranty that if the Red Chinese do not agree to remove their forces from North Korea in 90 days, the war will be resumed.

The United States has been unwilling to give such a guaranty of automatic resumption of the war. American officials have sought to bridge this difference by agreeing to consult with South Korea if the Communists stall for 90 days at the conference and to discuss during these consultations what further measures should be taken to put pressure on the Reds.

In recent days, Rhee has also been assured that one of the first acts of the U.N. at the political conference would be to propose the withdrawal from Korea of both the Chinese Reds and the U.N. Rhee has suggested a withdrawal by both sides as a prior condition to the truce.

South Korea has strenuously objected also to allowing members of the prisoner of war supervisory committee to set foot on South Korean soil. Rhee has spoken out with particular bitterness against India, which he considers pro-Communist, and Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The U.N. formula for meeting this objection would be to transfer the anti-Communist prisoners to prison camps set up in the post-armistice neutral zone or no-man's land. This area would be created under the armistice provisions, when both sides pull their forces back from the present front lines. With prison camps in this area, Red representatives would not have a chance to create trouble in South Korea proper.

As part of the price for persuading Rhee to go along with the armistice, either actively or passively, the United States has pledged extensive economic aid, promised to continue the build-up of South Korean forces and has agreed to negotiate a mutual defense pact.

The big question, of course, is whether the Chinese and North Korean Reds still want the armistice. As of late Sunday night there had been no answer to the suggestion made by Gen. Mark W. Clark, U.N. supreme commander, that the opposing forces proceed wtih an armistice with or without South Korean co-operation.

House Group Votes Loan Bill.

The House Agriculture Committee today approved an administration bill to authorize millions of dollars in Government loans in drouth-stricken areas. The committee moved with unusual speed after hearing Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson testify that his recent trip to the Southwest drouth area convinced him there is real need for emergency credit.

Chairman Clifford R. Hope (Rep.), Kansas, told a reporter he hopes to bring the bill up for a House vote later this week. Speedy Senate action also is anticipated. A companion Senate bill has the joint backing of 53 Senators.

The measure approved by the committee would make available immediately $16,000,000 — with more to come later—for emergency loans and government subsidized feed and seed.

These funds are in an Agriculture Department "disaster revolving fund" and will be supplemented by (1) an estimated $36,000,000 to be paid into the fund during the next year from past loans and congressional appropriations to increase the fund which the Agriculture Department will request.

The bill would liberalize the purposes for which the fund can be used by allowing it to be tapped for:

1. Loans of up to $50,000 or more to "established" ranchers who have a "reasonable chance of working out of their difficulty." R. E. Farrington, department credit chief, said these loans bearing 5 per cent interest, are expected to average less than $50,000 each.

2. A second new type of loan to help farmers who may not be afflicted by natural disaster but are suffering from depressed prices because of distaster. The Secretary of Agriculture would set the interest rates and terms of these loans.

3. Government subsidies to provide cheaper feed and seed to drouth areas. This would supplement the $8,000,000 already made available for the purpose from President Eisenhower's disaster relief fund.

The Agriculture Department predicted today Americans will eat more beef this year than ever before due to record-high cattle slaughter in Southwest drouth areas.

It said beef consumption might top the 1909 record rate of 73 pounds per person. Last year's per capita beef consumption was 61 pounds.

7TH HIGHEST PEAK REPORTED SCALED BY GERMAN TEAM

GILGIT, Kashmir, July 6 (AP)—Messages received here today said a German expedition has conquered Nanga Parbat, world's seventh highest peak—known to climbers as "the most murderous of mountains." In the last 50 years 29 men have perished in efforts to reach the top of the ice-sheathed 26,660-foot giant.

The expedition set up its second advance camp on Rakhiot peak at an elevation of 23,210 feet a week ago. Peter Achenbrenner, expedition leader, sent back word then he hoped to conquer the mountain in about 10 days, weather permitting.

Today's reports said Herman Buhl, veteran Austrian climber, reached the summit Saturday under a clear blue sky and planted the flags of Pakistan and the West German republic.

TOW-TRUCK POSSE CAPTURES 2 OF 3 WANDERING MULES

Two mules were hauled by tow-truck from a footloose city life in East St. Louis today but the third member of a trampling trio outdistances the posse.

In the capture, George Tippett, garage employe, nearly got hauled away himself. One end of a rope was looped around a mule and the other end got looped around Tippett. Tippett lost.

After complaints about three galloping mules, police and employes of Tippett's Garage, which does some police towing work, gave chase. Two mules were lassoed in the 1700 block of Baker avenue and pulled back to the garage, kicking furiously.

Nobody knows where the mules came from, or where the escapee went. Tippett almost found out, inasmuch as he nearly went with them. In a near-escape, one mule got Tippett tnagled up in a rope and he had to hippety-hip along until things got back under control.

PREDICTS SPACE PLATFORMS WILL CONTROL WEATHER

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) —The weather is getting hotter all the time, but the weather man thinks he can do something about it one of these days.

The idea is a little Buck Rogerish, but the weather people aren't fooling when they start talking about space platforms and changing the content of the atmosphere.

Dr. Harry Wexler, chief of the scientific services division of the United States Weather Bureau, said yesterday. "We could probably regulate the weather right now if we had instruments close enough to the sun to measure the variations of solar radiation.

"Then we could compare that with our ground measurements and learn the effect of the atmospheric resistance."

When man perfects the space platform—and Wexler is convinced he will one of these days —"we'll get our instruments up there above the atmosphere and find out all we need to know."

It wouldn't take long after that, Wexler said, for scientists to regulate the weather by altering the content of the atmosphere.

THREE ACQUITTED OF SALE OF CHICAGO POSTAL JOBS

CHICAGO, July 6 (UP)—Three persons were acquitted today of attempting to sell post office jobs. They were Frederick Wall, Mrs. Mary Campbell and Mrs. Danella Allen.

A jury deliberated five hours Friday before returning a sealed verdict which was opened this morning by United States District Judge Julius J. Hoffman.

Wall was formerly secretary to Representative William Dawson (Rep.), Illinois. He still faces an indictment charging him with taking $400 each from two men to get them jobs in the post office here.

JOINT CATALOG LAG BY MILITARY IS UNDER FIRE

House Group Calls Pentagon Stand on Streamlined Buying Program 'Silly.'

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — Investigating congressmen criticized Defense Department management experts yesterday for taking up their time with "unfounded criticism" of a program to streamline military buying.

A House Armed Services investigating subcommittee said the experts had used a "silly interpretation of the law" in labeling the Government's single single military catalog project a failure. Representative Hess (Rep.), Ohio, is subcommittee chairman.

The project, ordered by Congress last year, is to lump 15 duplicating inventory lists into a single catalog covering the millions of items used in common by the military services. Congressmen say the new catalog when completed will save up to four billion dollars a year.

Information Held Lacking.

The Pentagon's management staff reported last January that the first part of the catalog, covering foodstuffs, failed to include all the information required by law and indicated the project would never be completed.

The report was written by Ben G. Huff and signed by Edward J. Sheridan, then acting director of the management staff, a Pentagon advisory group on management problems.

They told the House subcommittee in subsequent hearings that they interpreted the law to require full information on each item, including "performance data."

The subcommittee, in a report issued yesterday, said this "silly interpretation of the law . . . would have wrecked the program." It said the director of the project was authorized to determine what information is needed.

"How ridiculous it would be to try and state 'performance data' for a hammer or a can of peas!" the subcommittee said. "But there was some evidence that certain members of the defense management staff would go to that extreme.

'Distinct Disservice.'

"Reading absurdities into the text of the law is a distinct disservice to the Congress and to the public!"

The subcommittee added it "has no patience" with this "type of unfounded criticism."

The report said, however, that the subcommittee is not satisfied with progress so far and the food catalog does not fully comply with the intent of Congress.

The catalog project will be transferred to the new assistant secretary of defense for supply under President Eisenhower's reorganization plan, which became effective last week. The work formerly was conducted by the defense supply management agency, which was abolished.

AFL AND CIO ASK U.S. TAKE INITIATIVE FOR UNITED REICH

STOCKHOLM, July 6 (UP) — The American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations called on the United States Government today "to take the initiative in aiding the workers of Soviet-occupied Germany in their struggle against Soviet totalitarianism."

The call was made by George Meany and Walter P. Reuther, presidents of the AFL and CIO, respectively, at the opening of the third World Congress of the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions.

They cabled President Eisenhower in the name of 16,000,000 American workers asking the Government to press for immediate negotiations for free elections in a united Germany.

DRAGS U.N. FLAG BEHIND AUTO

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Edmund S. Mittler of suburban Oak Park spent part of the Fourth of July dragging the United Nations flag in the dust behind his automobile.

Mittler, a retired contractor, who says he heard few objections to his demonstration, trailed the flag from his rear bumper beneath a sign which read "Alger Hiss' U.N. Commie Rag."

Family Problem.

BERLIN, Conn. (UP) — William White of Meriden forgot one of his eight children yesterday when he started home from a holiday weekend at Topsfield, Mass.

Massachusetts state police notified Connecticut state police who stopped him here and told him he had forgotten little William.

And Another.

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Guy Casinelli of Follansbee, W. Va., won't soon forget their Fourth of July picnic.

The couple went to an amusement park, accompanied by their four boys and a girl. Now, they have four boys and two girls. Mrs. Casinelli gave birth to her sixth child in the family auto.

Speedboat Knocks 34 Minutes Off New Orleans-St. Louis Mark

Alton Men Make Run in 79 Hours, 12 Minutes Despite Delays Due to Engine Trouble.

Exhausted but happy, two Alton speedboat enthusiasts pulled up at the St. Louis levee last night after cracking the New Orleans-St. Louis record by 34 minutes, despite a rugged run which left their craft limping and leaky.

They brought the twin-engine boat Mark Twain in on one engine, after fighting time and motor trouble on the 1284-mile trip.

We're dead tired," said Smith, who is 51 years old. Mawhee, 24, said sleep had been only in cat-naps since they left New Orleans Thursday.

They arrived heer at 10:16 p.m. Edwin Koenig of the St. Louis Yacht Club, sponsor and timer of the race, headed a welcoming committee which awarded them the Koenig Cup.

It was only the fourth time in 1044 attempts that the run had been completed and the crew said it was tough going all the way.

A floating log struck and damaged the hull near Baton Rouge, La., then, near Memphis, the Mark Twain found itself racing one of its own 25 horsepower engines, after a faulty motor was pulled and sent ahead by truck to Cairo, Ill., for repairs. Later it was put into use again.

Well ahead of the record at that point, the crew lost 11 hours near New Madrid, Mo., with more engine trouble. Another delay came at Chester, Ill., and one engine went out below St. Louis. During the trip, 18 propeller pins were sheared.

After receiving the trophy last night, Smith and Mawhee went home to Alton and to bed to catch up on lost sleep. Smith had made good on his prediction in Cairo. "We're going to make it," he said, as the two men struggled with sputtering engines. "We'll beat the mark but it will be awfully close."

2 BROTHERS HELD, BODY OF MAN DROPPED FROM CAR

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Two brothers, Anthony and Michael (Blackie) Galgano, were held for questioning today in the killing of James V. Manzo, whose body was dropped from an automobile yesterday near Long Island sound. He had been shot three times.

Mrs. Rose Russano, pregnant sister of the Galganos, and mother of two, was quoted by police as saying she had been keeping company with the dead man, who was married and the father of two children. Mrs. Russano's estranged husband, Mario, 36, was sentenced to prison for 15 years in 1949 for armed robbery, police said.

Four persons witnessed the dumping of the body. A license number was obtained, and a few hours later the Galganos were arrested.

Member of House Barred From Atom Weapons Tests

rights as a legislative representative and just how far is the bar in the political climate for liberals."

Condon said he felt most members of Congress—either in the House or the Senate—would have resented the action taken against him at Las Vegas if it had been applied to them.

Dean could not be reached for comment, and AEC sources immediately reached said they knew nothing of the incident.

Condon quoted Dean as telling him the Federal Bureau of Investigation had a report on the Congressman. Condon said he assumed it stemmed from "a rehash of stale political charges thrown" in the campaigns when he was elected to the state Legislature in 1948 and 1950 and when he was elected to Congress last year.

Explaining what he meant by the "stale political charges" against him, Condon said "Primarily, it was the charge of association with groups or individuals alleged to be or found to be, in the atmosphere of these times, too liberal."

Condon said in the interview that no clearance question was raised against him at the Mare Island Navy Yard in his California district when—six days after the Las Vegas incident—he made the dedication speech at the launching of the minesweeper, U.S.S. Bluebird.

Representative Condon served four years in the Army in World War II and has the Silver Star for gallantry in action in, as he put it, "the singlehanded capture of a German machine gun squad which had been busting the hell out of us."

He had, since the war, an admitted association with leftist individuals or organizations, but dropped them. And he said:

"I am not now and have never been a Communist or a Communist sympathizer. I completely reject the Communist philosophy and I think my voting record (in Congress) bears eloquent witness to my anti-Communist position."

Represented CIO Unions.

Condon said that he was associated with a law firm in 1947 and 1948 that represented CIO unions in the East Bay area of San Francisco and that it was charged after he left the firm that his associates had Communist connections.

He said that he left the firm when the CIO movement became disrupted and the unions under the influence of Harry Bridges were expelled from the CIO. He continued to represent the Steel Workers and the Oil Workers and a number of AFL unions. Although he formerly specialized in labor law, he said, his law practice in the last five years has been of a general nature.

Representative Condon said, "My district is composed of good Americans. Some of them are of Mexican descent, of Portuguese descent and of Greek descent. Hell, I made speeches, as any candidate has to do, before a great many different organizations. I find that one of the 'nefarious' associations I was supposed to had have stemmed from the fact that I had made a speech before a Spanish-speaking group which was considered pink. Oxviously, I had no way of determining the political thinking of the group and I feel that I'am justified in addressing any group of Americans as long as I am a public figure. . . . The voters heard all of the charges and the counter-charges during the course of the campaign and apparently felt that I was fit to represent them."

Representative Condon, incidentally, is no relation to Dr. Edward U. Condon, former atomic specialist and former head of the Bureau of Standards, who once came under congressional fire for his opinions. Dr. Edward Condon was eventually cleared of the charges.

Representative Condon said he had been informed by Dean that he was barred from the tests as a result of a field check made on him by the FBI.

Asked whether other members of Senate and House had been subjected to FBI investigation, he said he did not know.

"But if that was done," he said, "I think most members of Congress would object to this type of surveillance. After all, each one of us is elected by his constituents because they think he is a loyal American and fit to represent them. To have an investigating arm of the executive department checking into our background can mean the breakdown of the representative system."

Representative Condon said that "as far as I am concerned, the matter is closed, and my status with the Atomic Energy Commission is precisely the same as that of any other Congressman. Certainly my talks with Mr. Dean were friendly. I have the distinct impression he regretted the action and that he does not now in any way question my loyalty or integrity. I consider him a very able and fair-minded American."

By the United Press.

Condon's congressional colleagues spoke up in his defense.

Representative Melvin Price (Dem.), Illinois, a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, termed the reported security bar on Condon "unfortunate and unwarranted." Price said he had not heard of any such bar against a member of Congress, and that he did not know members were subject to FBI scrutiny before being allowed to attend the Nevada tests. He said such inquiries did not seem necessary since a witness to the tests couldn't learn anything secret from them, anyway.

"I've known Condon for years," Shelley said. "He's as loyal an American as any member of the FBI. If they can do this to him they can do it to any member of Congress. It's time somebody put a stop to such outrageous business."

Representative Chet Holifield (Rep.), a member of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, said he would like "to find out something more" about the barring of Condon from the Navada tests. He said he did not know that the FBI checked Congressmen invited to the tests. Holifield said that, as far as he knows, the incident had not been referred to the Atomic Committee. Condon is not a member of the committee.

Speaker Joseph W. Martin Jr. said he had heard about the Condon security matter, but only informally. He said he had not discussed it with Condon, and had no plans for making further inquiries about it unless requested by Condon to do so.

One of the fourteen House members booked on the flight to Nevada with Condon last May said he was not aware that Condon had been barred from the test and that he doubted that any others in the party knew of it. The member, who asked that his name not be used, said colleagues speculated some about Condon's sudden departure after being around with the rest of the group for a time.

RED P.O.W.'S ATTACK YANKS

PUSAN, July 6 (AP)—Four North Korean Communist prisoners, armed with a shovel and a saw, attacked two unarmed United States supervisors at the U.N. prison camp on Koje island Saturday, the Allied prisoner of war command reported today.

Two unarmed United States soldiers quickly intervened, and order was restored. One of the Americans suffered minor injuries, and all four prisoners were hospitalized.

$2,000,000 Air Base Fire.

WIESBADEN, Germany, July 6 (AP) — A United States Air Force spokesman announced today that warehouse fire June 29 on Ramstein airbase caused damage estimated at $2,000,000. The fire destroyed half the warehouse, used to store government-owned household furnishing. There were no casualties.

New Hungarian Red Regime Sop To Farmer and Little Business; Lip Service Given Religion

By GEORGE WELLER

The Chicago Daily News-Post Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright 1953.

ROME, July 6.

OBEYING Moscow's orders backed by 40,000 Soviet troops in occupation, Hungary's Communist party has pulled out its offensive team from the satellite Government and has substituted a defensive lineup of "peaceful" Reds.

Inside the Communist party itself, the farm boys have taken over management from the slick city salesmen first chosen by Joseph Stalin. At the top a clique of renegade Stalinists has taken control, modeling themselves after Moscow's 1953 pattern of multiple dictators.

The new Hungarian accent favors the farmer and small business man instead of the factory worker and bureaucrat. The reformists even offer lip tolerance to religion.

Stalin's famous Hungarian "five-horse carriage," whose foremost steed was bullet-headed Matyas Rakosi, 63-year-old Premier and party secretary, has fallen apart like the one-horse shay.

The Rakosi string of veterans, imported from Moscow in 1944 on the bayonets of the Red Army, have all been forced into obscurity except two intra-party rebels who boldly bucked Rakosi even before the death of Stalin, his protector.

Gero Is New Master.

The two survivors are Josef Revai, the spectacled thinker who thanked the Red army for installing Hungarian Communism, and crafty, patient Erno Gero, for 30 years the rival to Rakosi as Hungary's Lenin. Revai, ex-Minister of Education eased out of the Politburo by Rakosi last winter, now comes back in the show-window post of Vice President of the Republic. But the real new master of Hungary behind the scenes is Gero, the No. 2 who becomes No. 1 supplanting Rakosi.

Gero, called an "invalid" in February, has taken over the Ministry of the Interior—heart of any Communist dictatorship. He also becomes one of the two vice premiers of the cabinet, the same secondary post from which Rakosi long operated his sly dual dictatorship over party and Government.

Gero, long denied power by Rakosi, at last acquires command over eight regiments of security police, plus four brigades of heavily armed frontier police.

Gero's first task is to uproot the Rakosi apparatus inside these two police bodies.

Cabinet of Desk Farmers.

The new facade of Hungarian communism, masking the feud between Rakosi and Gero, is a cabinet of desk farmers digging for "peace." They supplant Rakosi's tough factory managers whose demands for "longer hours, more output," now are silenced.

The new premier is 65-year-old Imre Nagy, a farmer's son with a grammar school education. Nagy, a Communist, spent prewar years in Russia studying collective farms, and until today held the unpopular job of Minister of Agricultural Deliveries.

However, in extorting crop deliveries from farmers, Nagy used a moderate hand compared with the harsh punishments dealt out by Rakosi to laggard factory hands. As a farm expert, Nagy even let collectivism drag, encouraging his new boss Gero last November to defy Rakosi, announcing boldly that "we cannot foresee a rapid growth of the co-operative (collectivist) movement."

President Is Onion Man's Son.

Hungary's farmers are likely to hate Nagy less than Rakosi. They may even tolerate Istvan Dobi, 55-year-old son of an onion king, now re-elected the nation's president.

In the new elite is also Ferenc Erdei of the Communist-tolerated Peasant's Party, who operates the rigged legal machinery as Minister of Justice. He is the first non-Communist entrusted with this post.

Premier Nagy has announced that "internment camps must be abolished immediately and internees can return to work and choose freely their working place."

The new farmer-premier has even revealed that his government will abandon Rakosi's "exaggerated industrialization."

The softening Soviets, though not removing their "communication troops" linking Austria to Russia across Hungary, are apparently authorizing Gero to ease quotas on Russian arms orders from big military plants like the Manfred Weiss and Lampart shops and the Hoffherrn-Schrantz tank factory.

Gero headed a five-man party board which boldly reported last winter that Hungary's iron, cement and coal industries were flagging despite Rakosi's loud whipcracking.

15 Years in Jails.

Rakosi served 15 years in Hungary's dank jails under Adm. Horthy before Stalin bailed him out in 1940 in exchange for Hungarian battle flags of 1849. But Gero evaded his share of suffering by escaping to Russia in 1923, after which he entered the Soviet secret police. Moscow sent him abroad to foster revolution in France and Spain under the code names "pierre" and "pedro."

Gero worked under the Ukrainian Foreign Minister Dimitri Maniulsky in the early Comintern and made monitoring reports on Maniulsky for the Kremlin police.

While Gero took over this week, Rakoski was effectively trussed up by a technique closely resembling the method used by Beria to cut off Georgi M. Malenkov, Stalin's political heir, from his party apparatus.

Rakoski's Post Abolished.

Rakiski's post as secretary of the party, it was announced, is now abolished. Henceforward Rakoski must share his organizational powers with Lajos Acs and Bela Veg, two party nobodies who are evidently instruments of Gero and the Russian command.

A stiffer blow to Rakoski is that Gen. Mihaly Farkas, chosen by the bald veteran boss to lead the army after he hanged the "Titoist" aristocrat Gen. Palffy-Oesterreicher, has now lost his command of Hungary's eight divisions of infantry.

The successor to Farkas, his chief of staff, Gen. Bel Veg, was hastily elevated last week to one of the two substitute posts still existing in the Politburo.

The Magyar Politburo, in imitation of the Russian streamlining after Stalin, has been shrunk from 17 to only nine members, actually another method of squeezing out the Rakosi old guard as the Stalin stooges were eased out of the U.S.S.R.

Gero was entrusted with arranging the show trial of Cardinal Mindszenty and seeing that witnesses were properly broken and coached.

In view of Premier Nagy's promise of religious freedom, Gero may be planning to turn Hungary's anti-clerical machinery temporarily into reverse and allow Mindszenty limited local freedom.

Vandenberg, Truman Meet On Politics

Possibility of General Entering Senate Race Discussed.

By DREW PEARSON

GEN. HOYT VANDENBERG, retiring Chief of Staff of the Air Force, took a rear elevator up to room 676 of the Mayflower hotel the other day and dopped in for a quiet chat with his old boss, Harry Truman.

Though one is a Republican and the other a Democrat, the two talked, believe it or not, about politics — specifically about the possibility of Vandenber's running for the Senate from Michigan against G.O.P. Senator Homer Ferguson. Truman was eager to have him run.

"I've been a Republican all my life," said Gen. Vandenberg, "but when I see what this Administration has done to the Air Force, it almost makes me a Democrat."

Truman, who fought for a big military budget, didn't have to express agreement. He has said both privately and publicly that Eisenhower cuts in the Air Force are one of the worst tragedies affecting the security of the nation. On the political front, he told Vandenberg that he would undertake to sound out the governor of Michigan, up-and-coming young "Soapy" Williams, a Democrat, to see whether he would stay out of the Michigan race if Vandenberg ran.

Upon further talks will depend whether, first, Vandenberg runs in the primary as a Republican against Ferguson and whether he runs as a Democrat in the final election. The ultimate decision will partly depend on Gov. Williams who is popular in Michigan and would be a hard man to beat.

DEMOCRATIC MIRTH — A group of Democratic senators were dissecting the Eisenhower Administration recently in the Senate cloakroom.

"What has happened to Eisenhower's initiative on foreign policy?" asked Tennessee's Freshman Senator Albert Gore.

"Syngman Rhee has it," suggester Oklahoma's Senator Mike Monroney.

"No," someone else blurted, "the Communists have it."

"You're both wrong," broke in Senator Bob Kerr of Oklahoma. "Rhee and the Communists are rasslin' over it."

"Anyhow, Eisenhower doesn't have it," agreed Alabama's Senator John Sparkman.

NIAGARA FALLS POWER—An embattled group of Congressmen, led by Robert Jones of Alabama and Tom Steed of Oklahoma, will file a vigorous protest this week against what they call a "billion-dollar giveaway" of Niagara Falls power rights by the House Public Works Committee.

Chairman George Dondero of Michigan quietly put a bill through the committee last week giving five private power companies exclusive rights to build and operate hydroelectric plants at Niagara, the nation's mightiest waterfall.

The legislation, written by G.O.P. Congressman William E. Miller of Lockport, N.Y., hands the publicly-owned waters of Niagara over to the following companies:

Niagara, Mohawk Power Corp.; New York State Electric and Gas Corp.; Rochester Gas and Electric Corp.; Consolidated Edison of New York City; and Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co.

Congressman Dondero was so anxious to ram the bill through a super-secret session of the House Public Works Committee that he did not permit debate, or even reading the bill before the vote.

PARIS IS STARTLED BY SHOCK WAVES OF LATEST JETS

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

PARIS, July 6—The newest jet fighting plane types which will form the backbone of future air defense of the Western World were put through their paces at Le Bourget airport yesterday before a crowd of nearly half a million Parisians.

All Paris was startled yesterday morning by the first of a series of "sonic booms," resembling exploding bombs, that accompanied dives faster than the speed of sound of some jet fighters in the flying exhibition. Some windows were broken by sound shock waves.

This comprised the closing day fly-past of the Paris International Air Show in which seven nations including the United States, Great Britain, France and Sweden took part. The air chiefs of the major nations of the world, including a large delegation from the Soviet Union, and such aviation pioneers as Louis Breguet and Henry Farman of France and Igor Sikorsky of the United States, attended the show.

Seeks to Avoid Heritage of Hate For Japanese

Philippine President Says That Is Why He Pardoned War Criminals.

BALTIMORE, July 6 (AP).

PRESIDENT ELPIDIO QUIRINO of the Philippines said yesterday he had pardoned Japanese war prisoners because "I do not want my children and my people to inherit from me hate for people who yet might be our friends."

In an interview at Johns Hopkins Hospital which he entered Tuesday for a physical checkup, Quirino said also he "fully understands" South Korean President Syngman Rhee's order to release anti-Communist war prisoners without the consent of the United Nations.

"I have extended pardons to the Japanese war prisoners serving terms in the Philippines," Quirino said, "not as an amnesty which requires concurrence of the Philippine Congress.

"I should be the last one to pardon them, as the Japanese killed my wife and three children and five other members of the family.

"I am doing this because I do not want my children and my people to inherit from me hate for people who might yet be our friends for the permanent interest of the country.

"After all, destiny has made us neighbors."

Quirino explained the pardon applies to about 300 persons convicted by the War Commission of the Allies.

About a third were Japanese prisoners, he said, and the others were Philippine residents who collaborated with them.

Elaborating on his comment about Korean President Rhee's release of prisoners without consent of the U.N., Quirino said:

"Rhee knows that the moment U.N. troops are withdrawn from his country it will be open to new Communist moves."

(In Manila, the Philippine government formally carried out the transfer of the prisoners to the Japanese government today. Acting Foreign Secretary Felino Neri and Japanese Mission Chief Tooru Nakagawa signed and exchanged notes in an eight-minute ceremony.)

Army's Program for Reserve Of Former Draftees Is Failing

Nothing in Law Compels Man to Train After Two Years' Service — Only 4.76 Pct. Taking Part.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)

THE Army's program to maintain a ready reserve of trained men made up of former draftees is falling flat.

Only about 4.76 per cent of draftees who have finished two years of active service are participating in reserve training units—although the Selective Service Law prescribes a military obligation in the reserves of five or six years after discharge from active duty.

The trouble, say Army officials, is this:

While the Selective Service Law states that on completion of two year's active duty a man shall be assigned to a reserve training unit, there is nothing in the law that compels him to train. The law has no punitive provision covering reserve duty, although it contains definite penalties for draft evasion.

The situation has concerned the Army for some time. Gen. J. Lawton Collins, retiring Army chief of staff, said several months ago he intended to recommend that the law be amended to cut in half the time of a man's reserve obligation if he would volunteer to join an organized reserve unit or the National Guard.

Draftees who were inducted prior to amendment of the Selective Service Law in 1951 were obligated to five years of status, those drafted after that date to six years.

Would Amend Law.

Collins apparently prefers amending the law to induce a man to go into reserve training, rather than punish him if he does not.

He told a congressional committee: "There is no punitive provision in the law, and we would be very loath to use one if Congress had included a penalty for nonconformists."

Instead he recommended cutting down the obligation time if a former draftee joins the guard or a reserve training unit, saying:

"I think that will be fair to the individual, I think it will materially help—I hope it will help—if passed, both the National Guard units and our organized reserve units."

About 300,000 men now have been discharged from the Army after two years of duty. Since the start of the Korean war, the Army has issued induction calls for more than 1,411,000 men.

Obligation Explained.

As each man is discharged, his unit commander explains his remaining reserve obligation to him. The soldier signs a statement that he understands this obligation. His papers are forwarded to Army authorities in his home state, who also write him to call attention to his reserve status.

At the same time, the state Army official notifies an instructor of a reserve unit nearest the man's home of the man's name and address. The unit instructor contacts the man. If there is no unit within reasonable distance, the man is told he can earn credits by correspondence course and by joining the unit in summer camp training.

The Army recognizes that the lack of units in rural areas can make it difficult or impossible for men to train even if they want to. It estimates, on the basis of a study of urban and rural populations, that about 52 per cent of men with reserve obligations might be unable to join units because of this.

CALCUTTA RIOTS CONTINUE

CALCUTTA, India, July 6 (AP)—Police used tear gas yesterday as mobs, protesting a boost in streetcar fares, threw home-made bombs in the fifth straight day of rioting.

More than 200 demonstrators were arrested as rioters stoned and clubbed police trying to protect the trams. One police official was injured by a bomb.

LIFE IS GRAND IN SATELLITES, KREMLIN BOASTS

LONDON, July 6 (UP)—The citizens of the Soviet satellite states never had it so good, the Moscow radio says.

The propaganda mouthpiece of the Kremlin boasted in a broadcast monitored here yesterday that the workers in the Communist "peoples' democracies" lead happier lives day by day.

Communism throughout central and southeast Europe, it asserted, "has delivered the workers forever from poverty, unemployment and oppression, and has brought them onto the path of freedom and happiness."

In Czechoslovakia, it claimed "great success in raising living standards" have been achieved.

"The government of Czechoslovakia at the beginning of June carried out a monetary reform and abolished rationing," it said. "As a result of this the real wage of workers has become 25 per cent higher than before the war."

The broadcast made no mention of the anti-government demonstrations touched off by the sweeping currency reforms.

"In Hungary," it said, "a number of measures have lately been carried out. On July 1 the prices of many consumer goods were reduced. Miners' wages were raised by 10 to 15 per cent. These facts show how solicitous is the Hungarian government for the interests of the workers."

DANISH PAPER URGES U.S. NAME NEW AMBASSADOR

COPENHAGEN, July 6 (AP)—A Danish newspaper thinks it is high time President Eisenhower named a new Ambassador to Denmark.

Noting that six months have passed since the last envoy, popular Mrs. Eugenie Anderson, left the post to which President Truman had appointed her, the conservative Nationaltidente said in an editorial today:

"We know—although we may regret it—that it is American political custom to replace top diplomats after a presidential election. But the international situation and Denmark's position in it are such we must note with a certain feeling of apprehension that the ambassadorship here has been vacant for so long. Denmark needs an American ambassador."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

It's a Nice Town, But—

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Why St. Louis is so desirable and attractive a residential community:

Housing: Landlords are charitable and generous. Many are raising rents only 40 and 50 per cent.

Public transportation: Cheap, only 20 cents, and fast, only a 15 or 20-minute wait in many neighborhoods. Strikes occasionally, but affecting only the general public.

Business: Opportunities for establishment and expansion so good in the city that everyone is moving to the county. A large shoe company finds better reception in the county, as does a sash and door company, likewise other industries. If it is planned to erect a handsome medical office building on the site of an old broken-down hotel that is an eyesore on a stretch of Kingshighway very much otherwise, zoning restrictions are upheld by our farsighted aldermen, who turn right around and spot-zone corners in residential areas for taverns, confectioneries and other small, desirable businesses, the tax revenues from which swell the city coffers to such an extent that St. Louis really doesn't need an earnings tax.

Education: Teaches ABCs as well as special courses in passing the buck, trickery and chicanery in the subject of finances in our school system. This subject benefits everyone except teachers and students.

Responsible labor officials: Outstanding among construction and transportation unions. Persons building homes and businesses can afford to wait weeks for completion with no regard for cost. Workers who don't have cars can walk.

Responsible voters: Who let pass a golden opportunity when they let themselves be swayed by an irresponsible political minority into rejecting a city charter which, if it had passed, could have cured many of the ills we are suffering from today. S.F.M.

Six Months Too Late

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Perhaps if the recent affair in St. Louis county had taken place before last November's election there would today be a different sheriff in the county.

In view of Sheriff Mosley's attitude in dealing with the deputy involved in the shooting, the county grand jury might question the sheriff's fitness to hold office.

Playing With Fire

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I believe that the major issue in the "book-burning" controversy is being ignored by both President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles.

The most important question is not whether books which propagate the Communist doctrine should be removed from the shelves of our overseas libraries. More important, it seems to me, is whether Joseph R. McCarthy is to be allowed to judge which books do or do not constitute the Communist philosophy.

Consider the books which, according to newspaper reports, have been removed. They were written by such persons as Joseph E. Davies and Gen. Stilwell, among others.

The suggestions of Senator McCarthy that Adlai Stevenson's and Eleanor Roosevelt's writings be investigated for Communist leanings, leads me to conclude that the writings of anyone who thinks differently from McCarthy are subject to the suspicion of following the Communist line.

Someone should warn President Eisenhower and Secretary Dulles of the grave danger involved when a child (mentally, that is) is allowed to play with matches!

MARIAN BARNHOLTZ.
University City.

One Way to Retrench

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Mr. Summerfield is asking Congress to grant various increases in the postage rates to cut down the enormous deficit of his department. This might not work a hardship on anyone but it is one more increase in the mounting cost of living.

Uncle Sam has so long played the role of Santa Claus that he finds retrenching very difficult in spite of the crying need for economy.

As to a 'Giveaway'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

My attention has been called to your editorial of June 27, "'Give-away' With a Heart," discussing the Pakistan wheat matter. You are perfectly correct in intimating that no one would decline to vote assistance to Pakistan under the circumstances.

However, if the measure that proposed to assist Pakistan contained extraneous matter which had nothing to do with relieving the people of Pakistan of the famine and, in fact, 75 per cent of the bill was devoted to extraneous matters, I think that you could understand why many people would be opposed to this measure.

How long will it be that charity will be used as a guise of getting through measures that have nothing at all to do with the charity? It would seem to me that those who are indeed interested in charity would commend those who try to separate the true charity from other matters.

Undoing a Courageous Act

In vetoing the bill forbidding wire-tapping in Missouri, Gov. Donnelly put personal preference above the popular will expressed through the voice of the Legislature.

This was not a measure which deeply divided the law-makers, which was opposed by a strong minority, and which engendered great controversy. On the contrary, it was passed in the State Senate by a vote of 27 to 0. And in the House the count was 84 to 3. All but unanimous! Further, the bill had wide support among the state's lawyers, the St. Louis Bar Association coming out flatly against wire-tapping.

That wire-tapping can be of some help in police work was never denied, but it was held that its limited utility was far outweighed by its almost certain abuse. Missouri lawyers and legislators agreed with the late Justice Holmes that wire-tapping is a "dirty business," too dirty to be employed even in the apprehension of criminals.

Gov. Donnelly said that the measure was too sweeping. He said that the Kefauver committee had favored wire-tapping under judicial supervision. This argument was considered by the bar and the Legislature, and it was rejected. It was asserted that a court order to tap a telephone wire would not be like a search warrant. It would make it too easy to overhear matters unconnected with the case in hand, matters deserving the protection of the Anglo-Saxon right of privacy.

It is this respect for privacy which is at the heart of the matter. Most Americans just do not like eavesdroppers and eavesdropping. The prospect of being overheard by uninvited ears goes against their grain. In a time when emotions, prejudices and fears are running high, the Missouri Legislature had the sense and the courage to express this basic American respect for the individual—his words, as well as his acts.

In doing so, it won great acclaim for the state. And Gov. Donnelly, it seems to us, has not brought forward arguments strong enough to set this aside.

The City Hall's First Lady

A bow to Mrs. Edward G. Brungard—and to Mayor Tucker who appointed her Director of Public Welfare—not so much because she is the first lady to serve in a St. Louis municipal cabinet, but rather because her selection was based on standards all too often overlooked in the making of political appointments.

For years, Mrs. Brungard has taken that active interest in public affairs which even good citizens are inclined to slight. She was not a politician or an office-seeker, but through the League of Women Voters and later as a member of the charter-drafting freeholders, she made good citizenship a matter of positive action and not merely angry words when things went more poorly than they might in City Hall.

Mayor Tucker became acquainted with these qualities in Mrs. Brungard when he himself gave that unpaid year of hard work to the drafting of a new charter. And it is to his credit that he remembered her on becoming Mayor. No doubt, more than one politician pressed his claims for the post, but the Mayor chose a genuine public servant. May she live up to expectations!

Just 20 Years Ago

Louis P. Lochner, for many years Associated Press chief in Berlin, prepared for publication "The Goebbels Diaries" and wrote an introduction for that record of distorted thinking and infamy. One paragraph sad to say is of particular relevance just now:

> The whole civilized world was shocked when on the evening of May 10, 1933, the books of authors displeasing the Nazis, including even those of our own Helen Keller, were solemnly burned on the immense Franz Joseph Platz between the University of Berlin and the State Opera on Unter den Linden. I was a witness to the scene. All afternoon Nazi raiding parties had gone into public and private libraries, throwing into the streets such books as Dr. Goebbels in his supreme wisdom had decided were unfit for Nazi Germany. . . .

Senator Taft Says No

Senator Taft, who sometimes says what President Eisenhower will or will not be allowed to do, says he doubts the President will be allowed to send government-held farm surpluses as relief to friendly nations. The President asked for broad power to do this. But the Majority Leader says the "Agriculture people have their own ideas on handling these surpluses."

If the Agriculture Department has any new ideas, however, the department has not made them public. Just a few days ago John H. Davis, head of the Commodity Credit Corporation, said farm policies "inherited" from the Truman Administration would be continued, though the Republicans had criticized them severely.

This provides no real answer to the problem of surplus commodities, which are still piling up. They could be used to advantage to help friendly peoples if they are not well used at home, and it will be a crime if they are not used at all. Just what does Senator Taft think will be done with the surplus foods?

Twelve Miles to Yesteryear

A road that youngsters ought to know
Is the Hooppole, Yorktown and the Tam-pi-CO.

Earl J. Witt, of Glencoe, Ill., is doing something big, and it isn't washing an elephant, either. Mr. Witt wants to save the 12-mile-long Hooppole, Yorktown & Tampico Railroad, in northern Illinois, for posterity—very young posterity. He is afraid the diesel is going to make the steam locomotive obsolete in a few more years and he thinks the H., Y. & T. R. R. offers a way to keep the loss from impoverishing childhood forever. That little railroad has just been ordered abandoned, and Mr. Witt hopes to save it and re-equip it (with steam) as a shrine, so the boys and girls of coming generations can still see a steam engine.

We trust Mr. Witt is going to do this thing up brown. There should be a conductor on that train who really knows how to look official, so that his young passengers can look up to him successfully. There should be a news butcher—or butch, as he was better known—with a basketful of crackerjack, grapes, apples, etc. The coach windows should be open so as to admit plenty of cinders and the smell of train smoke and the sound of the train whistle. The train should go past a bridge, through a tunnel, past a line of freight cars, so that tomorrow's child can learn what fascinating noises accompanied yesterday's travel. Reginald Gardiner, the British actor, once did an imitation of these and other railroad noises which would be completely unintelligible now to anyone under 30.

So good luck to Mr. Witt and his railroading. Diesel engines and quiet, air-conditioned coaches are all right in their way. All of us who grew up when railroad travel was noisy, smelly and wonderful remember it, though, with an affection which not even vista-dome cars can expect to rival. So,

Is the Hooppole, Yorktown and the Tam-pi-CO.

No Defeatism on Transit

Too much defeatism characterized early testimony about public transit ownership before the city-county board of freeholders.

People expect the freeholders to explore the possibility of public ownership of bus and street-car lines. Certainly that idea lay behind the freeholder petitions circulated by Local 688 of the AFL Warehouse Workers, though the petitions were necessarily written in broad terms.

But two early speakers discouraged ideas of public ownership. Both Carl Giessow of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and John E. Dube of the county Chamber of Commerce argued that the heart of the transit problem is the public's preference for private automobiles instead of busses. Neither suggested any real answer to that.

Mr. Dube did say one answer might be to let traffic become so bad that nobody would drive a car downtown. Presumably he was being facetious.

The most logical solution to the problem of auto versus bus came from Samuel H. Liberman, who led the late Mayor Darst's transit committee. His conclusion was, in effect, that the only hope of getting more people to use transit service lies in better service and facilities.

That is where public ownership comes in. For a public transit corporation would be exempt from most state and federal taxes. It would not have to pay out profits to stockholders. These items represent several millions in savings which might be plowed back into better service.

At this early date the freeholders certainly cannot decide whether public ownership is the only way out of the transit mess. It will be months before they can write a charter for a transportation district to put before the city and county voters. But as a beginning they will have to ask two fundamental questions:

How can mass transportation be improved?
Where is the money for improvement?

If there is no positive answer Greater St. Louis will have to stand pat on its present transit system, with the destructive trend toward reduced transportation at higher cost. Does anybody really want to do that?

A Newspaperman to the Press

By both experience and present vantage point, Louis M. Lyons is in a position to view the performance of the American press professionally and fairly.

For many years Mr. Lyons was an outstanding member of the staff of The Boston Globe. After a year as one of the first nine Nieman Fellows, 1938-39, he became curator of the Nieman Foundation at Harvard. In that capacity Mr. Lyons has met most of the leading editors and publishers of the country and has interviewed several hundred of the most promising younger newspaper men. Still more importantly he has been a daily observer of what the newspapers of this country do from day to day.

This background makes Mr. Lyons's address to the American Newspaper Guild convention at Boston one which editors and publishers should not attempt to shrug off. When Louis Lyons says that the editors of the country have paid insufficient notice to one Senator's effort to intimidate the press, each editor ought to ask himself: Does he mean me? When Mr. Lyons says that too few newspapers are concerned with the State Department's overseas library policies, each editor ought to ask: Have I been sufficiently concerned?

This criticism comes, not from some "long-haired professor," but from an able newspaperman who cares about the role of the press in the rise or fall of American democracy. It ought to prick some sleeping consciences.

Project in Workmanship

As a venture in public responsibility and self-interest, two St. Louis AFL unions and a contractors' organization have formed a joint Lathing and Plastering Industry Council. They hope by this means to protect standards of workmanship and keep industrial peace.

The council's members are the Lathing and Plastering Contractors' Association, Local 3 of the Plasterers' Union and the Lathers' District Council. Their new agency will serve as a clearing house for information about lathing and plastering jobs. It will inspect work if there is criticism and offer adjustments. The council will also provide free consultation on the best use of lath and plaster.

This project has two aims: to help the public get better work, and to help the council members by promoting their product. Good workmanship is one sphere in which employer and employe should always agree.

Irresponsible Taxi Drivers

Traffic Commissioner Charles G. Gonter is to be commended for stopping two speeding taxicabs during the transit emergency last week, checking their licenses and asking their employers to suspend them. If he did not receive cooperation he said he would ask the Board of Public Service to take action. This body may suspend or revoke the licenses of a taxicab driver or of a taxi company.

Although it is not generally known, the Board of Public Service has the authority and is willing to investigate any reasonable complaint made by any pedestrian or motorist against any taxicab driver. The complainant has only to include the license number of the car, the time and date of the incident and the location. Complaints may include such things as discourtesy, overcharging and traffic violations that endanger life.

St. Louis cab drivers, generally, despite the exasperations that go with their work, are decent drivers. But unfortunately there are some who seem to believe that their profession entitles them to flout traffic ordinances and safety precautions just as long as they can get by with it. Any person—cab rider or pedestrian—who sees one of these misfits in operation is doing the community a good turn when he reports him to the Board of Public Service. He also is helping those many cab drivers who are courteous as well as careful.

"Bess, mark that down. That's 11 gallons at $3.45." So spoke Harry Truman, motorist, at Harrisburg, Pa. We hope the noted tourist will release his mileage per gallon when he gets back to Independence. We'd like to check it with ours.

Our Loss at Hell's Canyon

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Big block of power for region producing airplane aluminum and plutonium will go down the drain if Idaho Power mouse wins over federal elephant; if same policy had been followed, country would have lost Grand Coulee dam a generation ago.

Richard L. Neuberger in The Progressive

PORTLAND, Ore.

Grand Coulee dam stirs the pride of nearly every American. In its twin powerhouses are generated 1,373,000 kilowatts of electricity. Another 651,000 kilowatts are added to the capacity of dams farther downstream by water impounded back of Grand Coulee's lofty parapet.

This vast pool of energy has strengthened private industry in the Northwest by making possible aluminum plants, shipyards, airplane factories and mechanized farms.

Yet there was a time, a generation ago, when Grand Coulee nearly was blocked forever. A utility company wanted to erect a small dam at Kettle Falls on the Columbia, above the Coulee site. This would have foreclosed construction of the high dam, for it then would have flooded the works at Kettle Falls.

Richard L. Neuberger

Far-sighted men in the region prevented this short-changing of the Northwest's future. They refused to leave three fourths of a fertile field fallow.

A similar dilemma confronts the Northwest today, but this time a pigmy view of the next decade has prevailed.

One Mammoth 750-Foot Dam

Both the Bureau of Reclamation and the Corps of Army Engineers have proposed building a huge dam in the mile-deep slot of Hell's Canyon on the Snake river, principal tributary of the Columbia.

The Idaho Power Co. has suggested, instead, three smaller projects along the same general section of the Snake.

When the company filed an application with the Federal Power Commission in 1952, Secretary of the Interior Oscar L. Chapman intervened in opposition.

Now the Interior Department has a new Secretary, former Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon. He has formally withdrawn the objections.

The Idaho Power Co. plan will be to the big dam in Hell's Canyon what acceptance of the Kettle Falls application might have been to Grand Coulee in the 1930s—the ax, the end, finis.

In late summer, snowbanks in the Canadian Rockies and Grand Tetons are depleted. Rivers run low. Production of power ebbs at such downstream dams as Bonneville and McNary.

But the 750-foot dam in Hell's Canyon, wedged between precipitous abutments of lava rock, would form a natural reservoir storing 3,800,000 acre-feet of water. This flow could be poured through the Hell's Canyon spillways, to fill dry penstocks at dams on the lower stretches of the Columbia.

One of the arguments against Hell's Canyon dam has been that it would be "socialistic." Herbert Hoover evidently is proud to have his name associated with Hoover dam on the Colorado. When Douglas McKay ran for re-election as Oregon's Governor in 1950, he boasted that he had helped secure the Lookout Point and Detroit dams from the Federal Government for the Willamette valley in his state.

It has not been made clear why one federal dam should be "socialistic" and another federal dam worthy of the best Republican lineage.

The Real Issue at Stake

When he withdrew Interior Department intervention against the Idaho Power Co. application, Secretary McKay pointed out that the private dams could be built immediately, whereas Congress had consistently refused to authorize the Hell's Canyon project.

Most of the Northwest's Republican governors fought tooth and nail against all bills introduced in Congress for a Government dam at Hell's Canyon. Now they say dolefully that, inasmuch as Congress has refused to act, federal construction programs in Hell's Canyon had best be abandoned. They administered the coup de grace, and then they mourn at the funeral.

In no respect is the issue between "socialism" and free enterprise. Actually, Government dams in the Northwest have made possible hundreds of prospering privately-owned manufacturing plants, which pay taxes and support payrolls.

The issue is complete utilization of the falling water of a region containing 42 per cent of all the untapped water power in the United States.

In 1933 the Grand Coulee horse was not traded for the Kettle Falls rabbit. This year, however, a new standard in swaps has been established. The Hell's Canyon elephant evidently is to be bartered for the Idaho Power mouse.

Sun Set Early This Season

Regional control is one of the alleged goals of the Idaho Power partisans, a strange objective in view of the fact that the utility is a Maine corporation with less than 10 per cent of the stock held in the Northwest.

Hydroelectric energy from the impressive dams on the Columbia river system has made feasible 50,000 planes a year to ward off potential aggression, and it has stoked furnaces for the Hanford Works, where plutonium-235 for the atomic bomb undergoes its final processing.

But now, for the first time, the United States Government has announced through the Department of the Interior, that it will be satisfied with substantially less than total development of the Columbia and its foaming tributaries, as they course majestically to the sea.

The sun has set early this season.

What About Bootlegging?

From The Milwaukee Journal

On Oct. 31, 1952, Congress increased the tax on distilled spirits from $9 to $10.50 a gallon. Immediately there was some increase in bootlegging, particularly in low income and officially dry areas of the South. In consequence of the stimulated illicit production of liquor, the Federal Government in fiscal 1952 seized 10,269 stills as compared with 6657 in fiscal 1948. Seizures are now running at almost 1000 a month.

The liquor industry argues now, as it did when the tax increase was being debated, that a $10.50 rate is higher than the traffic will bear and must eventually result in wholesale tax avoidance. The Internal Revenue Bureau does not wholly accept this idea.

In the next few months, it may be supposed, Congress, which is now starting comprehensive hearings on the impact of the various federal taxes, will devote some time to this matter of the taxation of liquor.

There is presumably a point of diminishing returns in fixing such tax rates. There is also a point where enforcement costs become prohibitive.

A Rich Ore in the Melting Pot

EARLY AMERICAN JEWRY, Vol. II: THE JEWS OF PENNSYLVANIA AND THE SOUTH, 1655-1790, by Jacob Rader Marcus. (Jewish Publication Society of America, Philadelphia, 576 pgs., $6.)

Next year American Jewry will celebrate its 300th anniversary, and scores of committees have been busy for some time to map plans for this significant event. For those who would like to inform themselves about the beginnings of Jewish settlement in this country, Prof. Marcus's two volumes will be a most dependable and indispensable guide.

While the first volume was a monograph of Jewish immigration to the Eastern states, the second volume turns to Pennsylvania and the South. The final impression is always the same: First, Jews came to these shores to escape the terror of the Spanish Inquisition or the religious intolerance in Central and Eastern Europe, and secondly, they rapidly found their way into American life and easily spotted vacuums in the infant economy, which they were able and willing to fill.

Jacob Marcus.

Many of them took an active part in the Revolutionary War, making the same sacrifices as their fellow citizens, although their legal status was far from equality with the Christian population. Restrictions in almost all layers of social, economic and religious life were in force and remained so for quite some time, even after the Constitution had been adopted.

Nevertheless, the Jewish population, in its characteristic optimism, never lost faith in America, and it was to be rewarded richly.

The Jews on this side of the Atlantic, according to Marcus, "demonstrated that a whole community could receive enfranchisement, could live in a monolithic political world of strong Christian overtones, could participate intimately in it, and yet remain Jewish in a traditional sense."

What seems most significant and fortunate is that the ghettos of Europe were not transplanted to this continent. Eperience convinced the Jew that in America he could merge himself with his new environment and yet not lose his identity. Slowly, American Jews moved out of their colonial status as second-class citizens, and became free citizens with equal rights. (Other religious and ethnic groups, by the way, underwent the same experience.)

Marcus believes that the bigness of America did something to the Jew. "It enlarged his vision; his hopes were not limited even by the edge of the horizon. In his mind's eye he dreamt of thousands of settlers streaming across the Alleghenies to the Forks of the Ohio, going down the river to its mouth, turning up at the tributaries on their way down to settle and to build."

For many decades, the Jewish merchants in Philadelphia and Lancaster tried to realize this dream. They thought of settling millions of acres in the West. They failed, but their vision was an expression of their faith in America. It was one of these ideas—so often observed in history—which in the very process of failure transform the dreamer into an activist. Today, 300 years later, it appears that the struggle was well worthwhile, and that the Jewish community which finally evolved can be proud of its accomplishments.

Flanders Resolve Puts Reds on Spot

WASHINGTON.

THERE has been much hasty scrambling around here over ways to capitalize the unrest and rebellious outbreaks among Russia's Eastern European satellites, including East Germany, and to aid and encourage the tugging at the Communist yoke.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee came up with a resolution, which it approved unanimously, to express the sympathy of our nation through Congress, with the East German revolters, and to declare our approval of their aim of a unified and free Germany. There is another resolution all ready and waiting, and has been since June 3, which would seem a most fitting corollary to the one above mentioned.

Flanders

It has a bigger and broader aim and carries hope to all people everywhere who are yearning for a peaceful world and for the easing of the crushing burden of armaments which is made necessary by the threat of Russian aggression.

The Flanders Resolution.

This is the concurrent resolution sponsored by Senator Ralph E. Flanders (Rep.), Vermont, and 32 Senators of both parties. It would put the stamp of approval of Congress on the disarmament and world rehabilitation proposal made by President Eisenhower in his notable speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors here last April 16.

That address, which at the time lifted the spirits of people all over the world, has been submerged meanwhile in the clamor and confusion here over immediate and plaguing problems—the controversy over how many billions of dollars our own defense budgets should provide, the disillusion over a Korean truce, the squabble over taxes, and such.

But that speech did stir a responsive chord in the Senate and it found a practical vehicle in the Flanders Resolution, and quite naturally; for President Eisenhower adopted an idea originally proposed by a Senator, and a New Englander also—the late Brien McMahon (Dem.), Connecticut, who campaigned for it tirelessly until his untimely death.

Agreements Within U.N.

It envisaged an incentive to disarmament by providing that, once disarmament is achieved, the money formerly devoted to arms be pooled in a revolving fund of the United Nations that would be used to relieve poverty and distress and to build up the under-developed areas of the world.

Giving legislative sanction to the McMahon-Eisenhower project, the Flanders Resolution would put us once more on record for enforceable disarmament through agreements within the United Nations, and would request the President to continue to seek a practical program for disarmament and to "develop a plan for the transfer of resources and manpower now being used for arms to constructive ends at home and abroad."

Elaborating further, the resolulution requests the President to "recommend similar action to the United Nations and member states, such plans to give due consideration to the possibilities for vastly increased trade with other nations, and to the vital share which the United States and other nations should undertake in helping to overcome hunger, disease, illiteracy, and despair which have been among the prime causes of wars."

All Groups Represented.

Passage of this resolution now, in this session of Congress, would serve once again to dramatize the fact that it has been Russia which has constantly blocked attempts in the U.N. to get disarmament and international control of atomic weapons—and this at a time when Russia is under pressure in her satellite constituencies.

The 32 Senators who joined Senator Flanders in sponsoring his resolution represent every shade of opinion in the Senate.

Consequently, it should not be difficult to get approval of this resolution which restates the high aims of our President and our people at a time when this could be most helpful.

Acceptance by Russia.

"Its passage," Senator Flanders said, "would reaffirm to the world the United States's genuine desire for permanent peace. Such unity in support of this purpose among all free nations would result in great pressure on the Soviet Union to join such a program.

"We have no guarantee that the pressure wou'd be sufficient to produce eventual Soviet acceptance, but it is certainly worth trying. And so long as a United States offer and a Soviet refusal are extant, the Soviet Union is to that extent disadvantaged in the battle for men's minds and hearts."

'BLOSSOM TIME' TO OPEN TONIGHT

"Blossom Time," the Sigmund Romberg musical based on the life of composer Franz Schubert, will open a week of performances tonight at the Municipal Opera theater in Forest Park.

The show is the second Romberg operetta on the summer theater's 1953 schedule. The first, "Up In Central Park," opened the Opera's season. "Blossom Time" was last presented for St. Louis audiences in 1932, being performed here first in 1930.

Heading the cast will be mezzo-soprano Irra Petina, tenor Robert Rounseville, soprano Gail Manners and baritone Edwin Steffe. Other parts will be taken by comedians Jack Norton and Doris Patston, and Jay Velie Robert Eckles and dancer Patricia Bowman.

The story of "Blossom Time," written by Dorothy Donnelly, who also wrote the lyrics, deals with Schubert's early career as a composer and an unhappy love affair.

Romberg's songs, based on several of Schubert's compositions, include "Song of Love," taken from the Unfinished Symphony, and "Lonely Heart," from the Ave Maria.

Tickets can be purchased at the Forest Park theater box office, the Arcade building or at the Famous-Barr Southtown store. All performances begin at 8:30 p.m.

CALLS AIR WARNING SYSTEM INADEQUATE

CDA Head Says 5-Minute Notice of Raid Is Best Air Force Can Do Now.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) —The United States still has no adequate warning system to spot enemy air attacks nor enough fighters to intercept hostile bombers, Val Peterson, Civil Defense administrator, said yesterday.

The best the Air Force can promise now is five minutes warning time before an attack and in some cases can promise no warning, Peterson said on the CBS television show "Man of the Week."

What is needed, he said, is up to one hour warning as a minimum—at least three if possible—so the civilian population can be dispersed before enemy bombers reach their targets.

"The only alternative is to go underground, which is an expensive proposition," Peterson added.

Peterson said the United States should join with Canada in setting up a warning system as far north as possible—"for obvious reasons." This, he said, should be backed up by a second warning system and be made as automatic as possible."

Asked what such a program would cost, Peterson said he believed it would be "a much more modest sum" than the 15 to 20 billion dollars some experts have estimated.

Meanwhile, Air Force officials reported that the Ground Observer Corps system is still below the minimum 500,000 persons and 15,000 posts considered necessary. At present, about 302,000 citizens are operating 10,000 lookout posts atop towers and in tall buildings, helping the military radar net and high flying patrol planes scan the sky for any aerial raiders.

Ground observers are a vitally necessary component of the general air raid warning system, Air Force officials explain, because of limitations of the radar system. Planes flying at low altitude, from ground level up to about 4000 feet on an average, are difficult or impossible to track by radar because of hills or the earth's curvature. Radar operates on a line-of-sight principle; its beams will not bend.

8 IN HIGH SCHOOL CLASS, TEACHER WILL TOUR MEXICO

Eight Southwest High School students and their Spanish teacher leave tonight for a two-week tour of Mexico. The students earned all or part of the money to pay their way on the trip which is costing them about $250 each.

The group will go first to Mexico City, then visit sites of the Aztecs and other ancient cultures, early Christian landmarks of the new world, the home of Maximilian, and a bullfight.

A tenth member of the group is a piggie bank named Avelita into which goes five centavos, about half of a cent, each time one of the party speaks English instead of Spanish.

FINE ART IN PARIS STILL SELLING HIGH

Oil by Renoir Brings Top Sum of $14,840 at Spring Auction.

By WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1953.

PARIS, July 6—The rage for fine paintings is still sweeping Paris, with prices high and lively competition for outstanding pieces whenever they are offered at auction.

An oil by Renoir, "A Young Girl, Stretched on the Grass Reading," led the list at a price of $14,840 in this year's spring auction at the famous Garelle Charpentier in the Rue Fauborg St. Honore.

The paintings and water colors offered did not come up to the masterpieces of the Cognac collection sold by Charpentier last year, but the bids were uniformly high.

Prices paid for water colors included: "Landscape With Tall Trees" by Cezanne, $850; Landscape With Bridge" by Delacroix, $840; "Woman at Her Toilette" by Raoul Dufy, $900; "A Farm at Pupetiere" by Jongkind, $590.

Heavy Bids for Oils.

Among the oils that commanded heavy bids were "Landscape" by Cezanne, $3640; "After the Bath" by Degas, $4900; "The Oriental" by Delacroix, $4060; "The Seine at Givernay" by Monet, $8600; "The Brick Plant at Eragny" by Pissaro, $7050.

"Mill at Eragny" by Pissaro, $3950; "Woman Guarding Cows" by Pissaro, $2850; "Women in Violet, Red and Blue Veils" by Renoir, $3640; "Cottage on the Sands" by Sisley, $8680; "Impression of Night" by Sisley, $3690 and "St. Alban de Roche" by Utrillo, $4230.

While the great impressionist painters bring these prices, the younger generation of French painters—still unknown to the general public — also finds its works increasing in value.

Increase In Values.

"In virtually every case values have increased a good deal, even during the last year," he reported.

Some of the artists whom Kingland has found of greatest interest this year are already known in Paris. Any of them or all of them may be of interntional importance within a few years.

They include Vu Cao Dam, an Indochinese; Rafy, a Persian who specializes in landscapes; Carron; Harle; Coignard; Clave, who did the decor for the film of Hans Christian Andersen; Segovia, son of the Spanish guitarist, and a specialist in still life; Carzou; Patrix; Gane; Buffet; Dany; Cara Costea, a typical St. Germain de Pres painter; Lersy, a landscape artist with a penchant for old castles and woodlands, and Albert Deman, a fanciful artist who likes to paint merry-go-rounds.

Of this entire group, only Clave is a veteran. Most of the others are in their 20s.

39 WOMEN'S DERBY PLANES DUE TO LAND

3 Out of 48 in Cross-Country Race Already Finished.

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 6 (UP)—Officials of the "Powder Puff Derby" expected 39 planes to finish their cross-country hops today. Three of the field of 48 landed here yesterday. Six others were expected tomorrow or Wednesday.

Mrs. Isabelle G. McCrae, 39 years old, of San Diego, Calif., and her co-pilot, Mrs. Betty McNeil, La Mesa, Calif., 41-year-old grandmother, were the first to finish the 2678-mile race when they landed at 1:22 p.m. yesterday.

Because of handicaps assigned each plane the winner will not be known until Wednesday.

Mrs. Edna Gardner Whyte, 50, Fort Worth, Tex., and co-pilot Lucile Wright, Jamestown, N.Y., landed at 3:33 p.m., followed by Claire Hale, San Diego, and co-pilot Betty Lambert, also of San Diego, who landed at 7:38 p.m.

Only one of 49 planes which started the race from North Andover, Mass., Saturday has been forced out. It was piloted by Miss Lindy Boyes, Fairfield, Calif., who suffered a bruised nose when she crash-landed in a field near Palmyra, N.Y., after an engine failure. She was flying alone.

JAPANESE PRINCE VISITS POPE, THEY EXCHANGE GIFTS

VATICAN CITY, July 6 (AP) —Crown Prince Akihito of Japan, following the example of 30 years ago of his father, Emperor Hirohito, exchanged gifts today with Pope Pius XII in a private audience at the Vatican Palace.

The prince brought the Pontiff two silver vases dating from 1846, the time of Emperor Mutsuhito. Known as the Emperor Meiji, the enlightened ruler, he opened Japan to broader contact with the Western world.

The Pope gave Akihito a gold medal.

SECOND MASS POLIO INOCULATION BEGINS

10,800 Children to Be Given Serum in Caldwell County, North Carolina.

LENOIR, N. C., July 6 (AP)—Inoculation of 10,800 Caldwell county children under nine years of age started today in an effort to halt a polio epidemic that has affected 84 persons and caused two deaths in the county.

More than 300 volunteer workers, doctors and nurses began the job at four clinics set up in school lunch rooms. Workers from the national polio foundation were assisting. Lollipops were presented to the children to ease the pain of the hypodermic needle.

The mass inoculation of children with gamma globulin is the second such program in a week. Inoculation of 32,000 children under 10 in Montgomery County, Ala., was completed three days ago. As of yesterday afternoon, no new cases of polio had been reported.

Montgomery county had reported 86 cases, but health officials say that it will be at least Friday before they can be sure if the gamma globulin has checked the spread of the disease.

More than 800 pounds of gamma globulin and 12,000 hypodermic needles have been rushed to Caldwell county. The second death as a result of polio came Saturday at Winston-Salem where 10-year-old Barbara Holman of the Sawmill community had been taken earlier. The other death was reported April 22. Two new cases were reported yesterday in Caldwell county.

POPE URGES PARENTS TURN CHILDREN TO PRIESTHOOD

LONDON, July 6 (AP)—Pope Pius XII says "mothers and fathers must not hesitate to turn the eyes of their children early toward the sanctuary" of priesthood.

In a letter to Cardinal Bernard Griffin, archbishop of Westminster, read at services opening a Roman Catholic vocations exhibition yesterday, the Pope said:

"They (parents) should make it clear, in the family circle, that no greater privilege or honor could come to them than to have a son called to stand at the altar."

Ailing Schoendienst and Stanky Gain Split for Cardinals

Browns' Future Still A Major Question.

"IT'S time for the league to take stock of itself. . . . We (the A.L. clubs) can't go on at St. Louis with the people we're drawing there."

Who said that? . . . The quote is credited to Frank Lane of the fast-moving Chicago White Sox—a front-office guy who was not overlooked when brains were handed out. . . . He was discussing the probability that the St. Louis club's transfer would be discussed at the All-Star game meeting of the American League club owners.

His statement revives vividly the conclusion reached last year that the shift of the Browns' franchise to another locale would be greatly relished by all concerned—except possibly a number of civic-minded St. Louis groups to whom the name of the Browns has become a legend.

• • •

But the desirability of moving the St. Louis franchise is still handicapped by many difficulties. . . . If and when the meeting discusess at Cincinnati what to do about Bill Veeck's forlorn hopes, it will have to find answers for the following brain-teasers:

What interested city has a suitable baseball stadium?

What city can comply with all territorial rights that may be involved?

What city wants to buy a loser?

And, here's the $64 baby, what will the magnates do if the conditions cannot be complied with?

• • •

The answer is, leave it to the great idea man, Sport Shirt Bill. . . . And pass the other American League magnates the aspirin.

• • •

Has Fight Game Gone Completely Cockeyed?

ANOTHER first-round kayo went into the record books at Edmonton, Canada, July 3. . . . A little-mentioned (in this country) Canadian heavyweight champion, Earl Walls, knocked the big Utah fighter Rex Layne (No. 8 in U.S. heavyweight ratings) unconscious for a full minute.

This climaxed a run of one-round kayoes in recent weeks or months, some of them upsets—and Layne's is regarded as among these. . . . Layne, a big, lusty fellow, had beaten two former champions, Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles. His foe holds a Canadian title—meaningless almost, in this country. . . . But Rex lasted sixty-two seconds, although enjoying a 14-pound weight advantage.

• • •

The other night a New York fight program had three one-round knockout results, one in the main event. . . . Recently Bob Satterfield gave away 33½ pounds and kayoed the fourth-ranking heavyweight Bob Baker in the first, and the fight that followed also lasted less than one round. . . . And of course you haven't forgotten what Marciano did to Joe Walcott, a short time ago.

• • •

Now comes Rex Layne. . . . Of course Rex was not much at any time. . . . Just a big, lumbering, uncouth fellow with a punch but without speed or quick reflexes. . . . One of the greatest of mysteries to this writer has been how he ever was able to OUTPOINT a smart fighter like Jersey Joe Walcott, who also was a hek of a hitter.

• • •

Charles and Walcott were top hands and a defeat of either by Layne practically numbs the mind to think of as possible. . . . But now comes Walls and pop—there goes the weasel Rex. . . . We give up.

• • •

Maybe This Guy Walls May Be Good Material?

WE looked up Earl Walls of Toronto. . . . It seems from the records that he really can put 'em away. . . . But so could some of his opponents. . . . This is Wall's sixth year in the ring and already he has been flattened three times, up to 1953. . . . He began fighting in New York state and was knocked out twice by parties unknown to fame.

In 1950 an Argentine visitor named Abel Cestac, just a mine-run rough character, stopped Walls in a round. . . . Earl fought in England and rolled up several one-round knockouts, but lost a 10-round decision. . . . Later he drifted to Canada where he won the Canadian title from Vern Escoe at Edmonton, and repeated the victory one month later to prove his right to the title.

• • •

Can he hit? . . . In 26 fights during his first five years he scored 18 knockout victories, averaging under two rounds each. . . . Eight were by one round. . . . You don't get results like that with a powder-puff punch. And he's only 25.

Redhead Hits Pinch Home Run

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.

MILWAUKEE, July 6—Manager Eddie Stanky stood ready today to haul his aching back out to second base again if necessary when the Cardinals resume action at Cincinnati tomorrow night, but he and the rest of the Redbirds were hoping Red Schoendienst would be ready to play the position at which there is none better.

Schoendienst, the master defensive player leading the league in batting, was back home for examination and possible treatment as the Cardinals prepared to pull out this afternoon for a daylight ride to Cincy after gaining a split here yesterday in their second successive doubleheader of the holiday weekend

(Schoendienst is suffering from a pulled muscle in the lower abdomen on the left side, Dr. I. C. Middleman reported. After treatment he may fly to Cincinnati for the games there. It is considered unlikely he will play in Cincinnati, but may be used as a pinch hitter.—Ed. Note.)

Blanked by stylish Southpaw Warren Spahn of the Braves on three hits in the opener, 4 to 0, the Cardinals scored a 4-1 victory behind Stu Miller in the second game in which Schoendienst delivered a decisive three-run homer as a pinch-hitter.

Stanky Relieves Redhead.

The brilliant redhead was reduced to a reserve's role when he finally gave in midway in Sunday's first game to an injury that, Roommate Stan Musial disclosed, has bothered and worried him since late in the Redbirds' last home stand. Schoendienst feared a hernia.

Schoendienst slipped some time ago on a wet field in St. Louis while fielding a ball, aggravated the injury at Chicago and then tried to play and was forced to quit during the first game of the doubleheader in Milwaukee. He stayed in uniform, however, as Stanky, who has been unable to take infield practice because of a back injury suffered in spring training, went to second base in the nightcap for the first time this season.

With his first hit of the season in seven official tries, a sixth-inning single off Max Surkont, Stanky touched off the Cardinals' only scoring frame of a doubleheader called because of darkness after eight innings of the nightcap. The hit started an outburst climaxed by Schoendienst's tenth homer.

Schoendienst Flown Home.

Stanky was hopeful Schoendienst could be available for the two-game series in Cincinnati if only for pinch-hitting purposes. "I'll have a try at it again out there if I have to," the manager said, "but Red would be valuable just being there."

Stanky, fortunately, had an easy game defensively, handling only two pop flies after deciding that he had more to offer than Pete Castiglione, who finished the first game in Schoendienst's position.

The Cardinals and coaches teased Stanky afterward in the clubhouse following the even-split that enabled them to gain a half-game on league-leading Brooklyn, now three lengths ahead. "He," Mike Ryba said, pointing to the little field boss of the Redbirds, "is so superstitious that, if Red isn't back, he'll go out there Tuesday night in a wheel chair."

Only Three Hits Off Spahn.

The Cardinals might have played the first game in rocking chairs and produced as much or as little damage as they did to Spahn, who became the first lefthander to complete two games against the Redbirds this season and only the sixth southpaw in 31 tries to finish what he started. Peanuts Lowrey singled and doubled and Ray Jablonski singled, but that was the extent of Redbird activity against the Milwaukee ace. Spahn now has a 10-3 record even after a lengthy layoff early with a strained side.

Gerry Staley, suffering only his third defeat and his first in the last six decisions, went five innings for the Cardinals and gave up seven hits that included a pair of two-run homers, Johnny Logan's seventh and Eddie Mathews's twenty-fourth. Eddie Erautt, seldom seen, then wasted three hitless innings.

Mathews's smash in the first inning was a mighty drive, a high, wind-aided smash over the low right field screen at Milwaukee's new County Stadium and onto a cinder track some distance beyond. Diminutive Donald Davidson, the Braves' publicity man, scurried for a tape-measure, hurried out and found out from a standing-room spectator where the ball had hit on a bounce. The on-the-fly distance of the drive was recorded at 472 feet, a homer that likely would have cleared Grand avenue in St. Louis and perhaps landed on a roof across the street. Quick, Toomey, old boy, the tape.

Red's Homer Beats Surkont.

Schoendient's second-game home was no so gaudy, but it was neat enough to give Miller his third victory and send bulky Surkont down to his third defeat. The Cardinals finished with seven hits to Milwaukee's six.

After Stanky led off the sixth with a single, Solly Hemus sacrificed, Stan Musial drew an intentional pass and Enos Slaughter walked to fill the bases. Sensing that encroaching darkness would curtail the game, Stanky shot the works by using Lowrey and Schoendienst as pinch-hitters for Jablonski and Steve Bilko.

Peanuts' outfield fly drove in the first run and Red's homer sent across the last three.

"You should have seen the bench then," Doc Weaver related. "The boys were mighty blue when Schoendienst had to leave the lineup, but his home run was an inspiration for them—for all of us."

Redbird Notes.

Harvey Haddix and Vinegar Bend Mizell will pitch the night games at Cincinnati tomorrow and Wednesday.

A near-capacity crowd of 34,251 brought Milwaukee's sensational attendance to 790,815 for 31 playing dates, a pace that if maintained would lead to nearly 1,600,000.

Staley now has yielded 15 home runs, eight to Milwaukee in 30⅓ innings against the Braves.

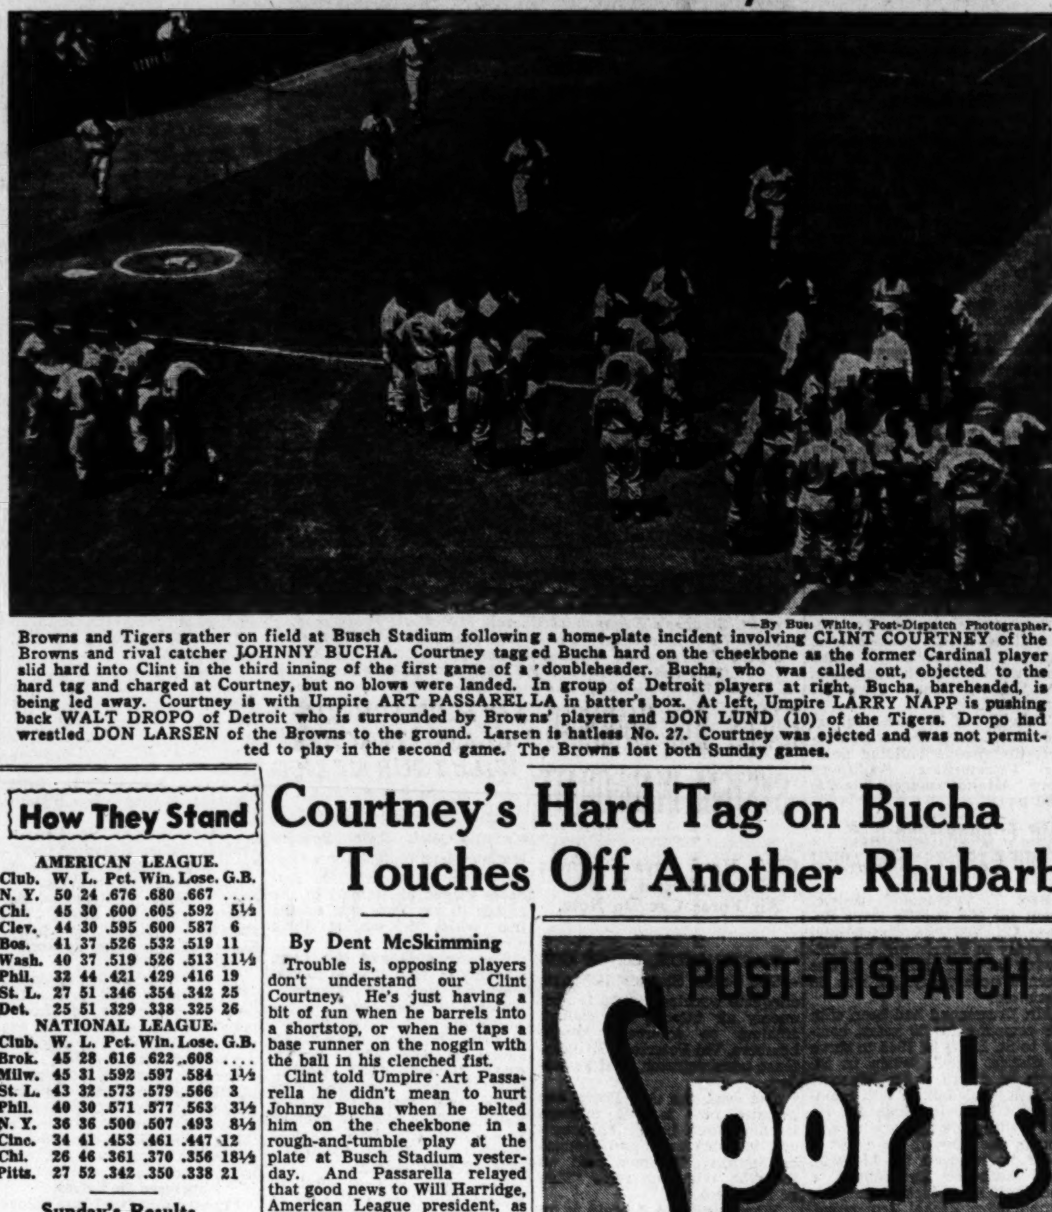
Fireworks at Busch Stadium---Courtney in Lead Role



—By Buss White, Post-Dispatch Photographer.

Browns and Tigers gather on field at Busch Stadium following a home-plate incident involving CLINT COURTNEY of the Browns and rival catcher JOHNNY BUCHA. Courtney tagged Bucha hard on the cheekbone as the former Cardinal player slid hard into Clint in the third inning of the first game of a doubleheader. Bucha, who was called out, objected to the hard tag and charged at Courtney, but no blows were landed. In group of Detroit players at right, Bucha, bareheaded, is being led away. Courtney is with Umpire ART PASSARELLA in batter's box. At left, Umpire LARRY NAPP is pushing back WALT DROPO of Detroit who is surrounded by Browns' players and DON LUND (10) of the Tigers. Dropo had wrestled DON LARSEN of the Browns to the ground. Larsen is hatless No. 27. Courtney was ejected and was not permitted to play in the second game. The Browns lost both Sunday games.

Schallock Back With Yankees

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6 (AP)—The New York Yankees yesterday purchased Lefthander Art Schallock from their Kansas City club of the American Association.

To make room on the roster for Schallock, the Yankees placed Ewell Blackwell on the voluntary retired list. Blackwell has a sore throwing arm and will sit out for the rest of the season. The Yanks said he would be given another chance next spring.

Courtney's Hard Tag on Bucha Touches Off Another Rhubarb

By Dent McSkimming

Trouble is, opposing players don't understand our Clint Courtney. He's just having a bit of fun when he barrels into a shortstop, or when he taps a base runner on the noggin with the ball in his clenched fist.

Clint told Umpire Art Passarella he didn't mean to hurt Johnny Bucha when he belted him on the cheekbone in a rough-and-tumble play at the plate at Busch Stadium yesterday. And Passarella relayed that good news to Will Harridge, American League president, as he telephoned a report of the near-riot in the game between the Browns and Detroit Tigers.

However, these reports on Courtney are becoming livelier than a chapter from Cisco Kid. So, Scrap Iron sat out a one-game suspension late in the afternoon and today is hoping the mailman doesn't bring him more bad news from Harridge in the shape of a fine. Clint's row with the Yankees on April 28 resulted in a $250 assessment.

Courtney's absence may have had nothing at all to do with the Browns losing both games of the Sunday doubleheader. But his presence certainly enlivened the scene at about 2:15 p.m. Up to that time the Browns and Tigers were battling on even terms, neither having scored a run. It wasn't long after Courtney's departure, on orders from the umpires, that Detoit forged into the lead. The first game was theirs, after a mighty three-hour struggle, 10 to 7. They won the second without such an effort, 7 to 1.

Humiliation for Larsen.

Actually, the Courtney incident was more spectacular than damaging. Bucha, as related earlier, suffered a slight cheek bruise, and Browns' Pitcher Don Larsen suffered some humiliation when he found himself wrestled to the ground by big Walt Dropo, the Tigers' first baseman.

But, as Dropo later explained, both he and Don were trying to be peacemakers. They grappled in restraining each other from reaching the center of the trouble. They were but two of about 30 players who milled about home plate.

"Neither of us was trying to hurt the other," said Dropo in the Detroit dressing room. "Just trying to control the thing."

And to hear Manager Freddie Hutchinson of the Tigers tell it, the melee was a false alarm.

"Courtney's a good kid," said Hutch. "He plays hard but he seems to have an idea that some players are trying to give him the works. I don't think there's any truth in that, but maybe Clint believes it. Bucha plays hard, too. He's a catcher and he knows that a catcher who blocks the plate can expect to be jolted pretty hard. He gets hit just the same as he hit Courtney but he doesn't lose his head. Anyhow, Bucha got real mad about being smacked in the face with the ball and he wanted to fight. But he's cooled down now. Ask him about it."

'Silly Incident'—Bucha.

Johnny, one-time Cardinal catcher, said yes, he was angry at the time but it was all right now.

"Just a silly incident," he said, smiling, "I didn't try to hurt Clint with my slide. I just went in under him and he fell hard. I get that almost any game I play. I was sure surprised when I got belted in the face after being tagged."

Spectators, too, were a bit surprised when Courtney took the extra swipe at prostrate Bucha. Johnny was out from here to there, no argument about that. It was a double play that ended the inning, a disappointing one for Detroit. Bucha, who singled, advanced on a sacrifice, went to third on Harvey Kuenn's double and was doubled at the plate on Johnny Pesky's fly to Johnny Groth.

The wrestling match appeared to take nothing out of Larsen, for he opened the Browns' third by hitting a 420-foot home run, but he was batted out of the box in the sixth inning.

The Browns, too, knocked the Detroit starting pitcher, Dick Weik, out of the box and there was a generous exchange of hits and runs. In the end the Browns had 15 hits and seven runs; the Tigers 16 hits and 10 runs. Bucha, not counting the hit he got on the face, came up with two doubles and two singles and scored two runs. Bobby Young had 4 for 5 tries; Neil Berry and Vic Wertz three hits each.

Might as well tell about the Browns' hitting in that first game because they didn't do much against Ted Gray in the second game. He held them to four hits, two of them, including a home run, by Don Lenhardt, Bobo Holloman, trailing 2-1, after four innings, weakened from the 100-degree heat and retired from the game.

Gray Streaks.

Gray, who has lost nine straight times earlier in the season, has now won four in a row.

"And he should have won several of those that turned out defeats," commented Manager Hutchinson. "He has pitched real good ball all the way but we just weren't helping him."

Hutch thinks his team may soon crawl out of last place—"if the pitching hold up and we can keep our defense braced up." . . . The Detroit hitting hasn't been bad. . . . Shortstop Kuenn is batting .320 and is second only to Red Schoendienst in greatest number of hits with 104. . . . Even if Detroit wins the series final tonight (starting at 8:30) the Tigers must remain in last place for at least another day. . . . Detroit hadn't won both games of a doubleheader since the 1951 season. . . . The Browns have now suffered 18 consecutive defeats at home. . . . The crowd of 5417 enjoyed the spectacular stunts of baseball acrobat Jackie Price who performed between games.

Steve Gromek (3-2) and Bobby Cain (3-3) will do the pitching tonight. . . . Cleveland is here Tuesday night, "Elks Night."

Schoendienst, Musial And Slaughter Picked On N. L. 'Star' Team

CHICAGO, July 6 (UP)—The New York Yankees and the Cardinals dominated the American and National League all-star baseball teams as the starting assignments for the annual classic were announced.

The Yankees, 1952 world champions and present leaders of the American League, and the Cardinals both placed three men on the respective squads.

The two teams, chosen by the votes of fans, will meet July 14 at Crosley Field in Cincinnati. The American League squad will be bossed by Yankee Manager Casey Stengel and the National Leaguers will be directed by Charlie Dressen, manager of the league champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

Stengel and Dressen will also select the starting pitchers and supporting players for the battle.

Ted Kluszewski, power-hitting first baseman for the Cincinnati Redlegs, was the most popular player on either squad with 1,652,803 votes. Mantle was next with 1,413,938.

The Dodgers placed only two players, Catcher Roy Campanella and Shortstop Peewee Reese, on the National League squad, even though they won the league pennant last year.

Joining the three Yankees on the roster were Mickey Vernon, Washington first baseman, Billy Goodman, Boston second baseman, Al Rosen, Cleveland third baseman, Chico Carrasquel, Chicago shortstop, and Gus Zernial, Philadelphia left fielder.

Only six players on the two teams were repeaters from last year's squads — Rosen, Bauer, Berra, Musial, Slaughter and Campanella.

Rajah High On Gus Bell And Big Klu

By John P. Carmichael

The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch. Copyright, 1953.

CHICAGO, July 6 — Rogers Hornsby sat at one end of the Cincinnati bench. People came to call. Hornsby fascinates the press. He always will.

"King . . . hey, King!" Clyde King, the Redleg pitcher, turned from a pepper game. "You're working the second game today," called Hornsby. King looked a little startled, but his only reaction was to quit what he was doing and pick up a bat en route to the practice cage.

"You just telling him now . . . today, at 12:30 p.m. that he's going to pitch?" The Rajah looked at his questioner. "Yeah," he said. "What's wrong with that? He's got time enough, hasn't he?"

"When did you make up your mind to start him?" Hornsby smiled. "Just now," he said, "when I told him." But the visitor persisted: "Don't you have conferences with your coaches and plan your pitching ahead of time?"

I'm the Fall Guy.

"No," said the Redleg manager. "I pick 'em when I'm ready." I'm the fall guy. I'll handle it."

Folks complimented Hornsby on the showing of his gang, especially in beating the Braves twice at Milwaukee on July 4. "Yeah," said Rogers sardonically. "Those Dutchmen will be jumping in that lake for another week."

"When," asked a newcomer, "does Milwaukee start takin' back all those refrigerators and television sets it's been giving the boys?"

"You . . ." to Hornsby . . . "may cost 'em all that free stuff." Hornsby snorted happily. "I hope so," he said.

They were talking about Gus Bell and Ted Kluszewski, the Cincy siege guns, and they made with the needle by asking if Rogers wouldn't like to trade them to the Cubs for a couple of men.

That's the kind of bait Hornsby deliberately takes. "I wouldn't trade either one of 'em for the whole Cub team," he said. Then he went on seriously:

About Gus Bell.

"Bell may be the most improved ballplayer in the league. He's not only hitting, but he's throwing better and fielding right and he likes to play ball. He's good now and he'll be a lot better in years to come."

When Cincinnati gets good pitching, they can win on their hitting. When their pitching is off, they lose the big score games. "That's what makes this a simple game," chukled Hornsby.

"The aim is simply to make more runs than the other team. When you can kick today's baseball out of any park barefooted, why pretend it's a complicated game?"

Hornsby has few signs and they're simple. He runs the show with a minimum of red tape and effort. He doesn't believe in overdoing "take" signs and "hit" signs and unless it's a question of trying to get a high hitter on base or testing the control of a relief pitcher, he lets his men hit on their own.

The Redlegs' pilot rates the Brooklyn "bench" as the best in the National League and therefore its chief asset. He never did think the Braves were "a solid team" and doesn't believe their pitching will stand the strain much longer.

Loss of Simmons Hurt.

He thinks the Phils haven't played as well as he thought they would. . . . "but losing a fellow like Curt Simmons hurt them, too," said Hornsby.

As the Rajah summed it up: "The Braves did a fine job of hanging up there when it counted . . . early in the season in a new town . . . but the rest of the league didn't play as good as it figured to, which is why the Braves could do so good."

Hornsby is rooting for the White Sox to make it in the American League because he's always thought Chicago was the finest baseball town in the world.

He is one man who isn't nonplussed by the fact that the Cubs draw so well in spite of their low standing . . . and lack of night ball for novelty purposes.

"This is a great park," he said of Wrigley field. "The fans are made comfortable and they can get here without trouble. And they always can see the Reds play . . . or some other team."

Dutch Treat: Car, Gun Other Gifts for Leonard

Pitching for his fourth team during a 20-season major league career, Leonard received countless gifts from friends in his home town of Auburn, Ill., Springfield, Ill., and Chicago.

Hank Sauer presented Dutch with an engraved plaque and shotgun from the Cub players. The Cubs' management presented him with an air-conditioning unit for his Auburn home.

Leonard is the Cubs' player representative, and has been a member of both the American and National League All-Star teams.

Hogan, out	353	434	343—32
Par in	444	435	354—36—70

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 6 (UP)—Ben Hogan, causing a near-stampede as he opened his bid for the British Open golf championship, shot an even par 70 on the first qualifying round today, but trailed defending champion Bobby Locke's course record 65.

Surrounded by a gallery of 10,000 Scots who swarmed the Burnside course for a look at the famed Texan, bantam Ben shot a spectacular 32 on the outgoing nine holes, but ran into trouble coming in and took a 38.

Locke, also playing his first round on the Burnside course, putted magnificently to card a 33-32—65 for a new course record. Locke's round broke the previous mark of 67 previously set by Joe Kirkwood of the United States.

Hogan Misses Several Putts.

Hogan's drives, which had been straight and long on the first nine with the exception of the second hole, went bad at the start of the second nine. The wind, which was getting stronger, carried his long drive into the rough on the tenth. He hooked his drive at the eleventh into the rough and on the twelfth pushed his drive in the rough. On each of those holes he also missed putts—12 feet on the tenth, six on the eleventh and 20 on the twelfth.

He also missed six-foot putts on the next two holes. On the 430-yard thirteenth, he put his second shot six feet from the cup, but rolled his putt by it. On the fourteenth his six footer lipped the cup and rolled out.

Enthusiastic Gallery.

Rarely before, if ever has a golfer attracted such an enthusiastic gallery as Hogan did today. Although 18 stewards were assigned to police Hogan's play, they were unable to keep the throng under control. A few fans ducked into water hazards to get a better view.

A stiff wind whipped the Burnside and Carnoustie courses on which the qualifying competition opened. Players who used one course today will switch to the other for the second qualifying round.

Hogan, who had three birdies and one bogey on the outgoing nine, was unable to birdie any hole on the last nine. He hooked into the rough on the 11th and took a bogey five, and missed a six-foot putt on the 14th for a bogey four, putting him two over par on the incoming nine.

Despite his driving and putting trouble, Hogan got his par four on the 10th, but bogeyed the 11th. He parred the next two and then bogeyed the 14th when he missed that putt and from then on played even par. But those bogeys on the 11th and 14th cost him the two strokes he had shaved from par on the out nine and left him even par for the 18.

Illinoisan Gets a 72.

Hogan's score was the best for eight Americans in the tournament. Don W. Fairfield of Jacksonville, Ill., had the second best American card when he shot a 72 at Burnside, while amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, O., was next with a one-over-par 73 at more difficult Carnoustie.

Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago had putting trouble on the "show" greens at Carnoustie and took a 78, the same score carded by Glenn Peeples of Tampa, Fla. Peeples, who now lives in Stuttgart, Germany, also played Carnoustie.

Three Americans soared over 80 on the opening round. Tony Longo of Mount Vernon, N. Y., shot an 82 at Carnoustie and George Wise of Pasatiempo, Calif., an 82 at Burnside. Lt. J. S. Meikeljohn of Norfolk, Va., had a 90 at Carnoustie.

The first hole in one of the tourney was made by Norman Rolfe of Britain when he holed out his tee shot on the 174-yard par three sixteenth on the Burnside course.

Hogan, at 6 to 4, was the shortest-priced favorite in the history of the tournament but professed to be worried about his chances.

The two qualifying rounds will trim the 175-field to 100 players for the opening of the championship flight competition at Carnoustie on Wednesday.

Don Fairfield is stationed at the United States Air Force base at Weisbaden, Germany. The 23-year-old Airman First Class has played in numerous tournaments throughout Europe and England. Last year he was runner-up in the European Air Force championships held in London and sixth in the worldwide Air Force tournament at Montgomery, Ala. He was the professional at the Nichols Park course in Jacksonville three years before he enlisted in the Air Force. He was Central Illinois Junior Golf champion for three years, winning the first title at the age of 15.

Harmon and Torza Lead in P. G. A. Semifinal Matches

BIRMINGHAM, Mich., July 6 (UP)—Former masters champion, Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., was 2 up on Wally Burkemo of Franklin, Mich., today when they reached the halfway mark in their 36-hole semifinal match for the P.G.A. golf championship at Birmingham Country Club.

Little Felice Torza of St. Charles, Ill., finished the morning round 2 up on veteran Jack Isaacs of Langley, Va., in the other semifinal match.

Harmon and Burkemo were even at the nine-hole turn with one under par 35s. But Harmon also came back one under the card for a 34—69 to take his 2 up margin against Burkemo's 36—71.

The chunky Harmon took an early 1 up lead against Burkemo on the second hole when he ran home an 11-foot birdie putt. But Burkemo, a two-time Purple Heart hero, squared it on the fifth when Harmon hit a weak approach shot for a bogey.

They played even until the twelfth, where Burkemo took the lead for the first time as again Harmon bogeyed, hitting his drive into a trap. But three holes later, Burkemo sprayed his tee shot into the rough for a bogey which evened them again.

Harmon went 1 up on the sixteenth with a chip shot five feet from the pin, running it down for a winning birdie, and then went 2 up as Burkemo three-putted the seventeenth for a losing bogey.

Harmon played a pressurized approach shot on the eighteenth to maintain his lead after Burkemo hit the green on the 585-yard par five hole in two. The New Yorker whipped his chip seven feet from the cup and ran it down for a halve which sent him to lunch 2-up.

The tiny Torza never was behind as he shot a 36-35—71 against a 38-35—73 for Isaacs to take a 2 up lead in their morning round. He went 1 up on the very first hole as Isaacs hit a trap for a bogey. The Virginian squared it on the second when he slammed an approach close to the pin for a bird but three-putted the fifth to go 1 down again.

Torza made it 2 up on the eighth by dropping a 12-footer for a birdie and then went 3 up on the eleventh with a seven-footer for another bird. Isaacs threw a bird right back at him on the twelfth with an 18-footer but lost the next hole with a bogey as again he hit the sand.

But as they came down the stretch, little Felice faltered on the seventeenth when his approach hit a trap for a losing bogey which cut his leading margin to 2 up at the lunch-time stop.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., July 6 (AP)—Ski jumping under a blazing sun, Art Tokle put together leaps of 106 and 105 feet to take the honors at Lake Placid.

About 5000 spectators in their shirtsleeves watched 31 contestants in two divisions soar down the Olympic Intervale jump. Although the temperature was in the 80s, crushed ice and snow cement, a chemical compound, provided a fast slope.

Fort Worth Players Invade Stands After Bottle Barrage

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., July 6 (UP)—Texas League Park at Oklahoma City had a minor explosion of its own last night when the Fort Worth Cats disagreed with an umpire and Oklahoma City fans disagreed with Fort Worth.

It all started when Umpire Blacky Lecamus thumbed Fort Worth pinch runner Glenn Mickens out at the plate. Mickens' run, if safe, would have tied the game. Angry Texans surrounded Lecamus and pointed out that Mickens "obviously" was safe.

But hometown fans supported Lecamus wildly with bottles aimed at the irate Cats. Bottles sprinkled the players and several broke in the boxes behind the screen next to Fort Worth's dugout.

That brought Cat players Danny Ozark and Dick McCoy out of the dugouts, waving bats and urging fans to come out and fight.

Spectators replied they could "come up and fight." The two did, but policemen dragged them from the stands before any damage was done.

While policemen escorted Lecamus from the field, fans spilled over the fence onto the diamond. Indian manager Tommy Tatum pleaded with spectators to cool off and go home.

They did, slowly.

The score remained 3 to 2 in favor of the Indians, who also took the first game of the doubleheader 4 to 3.

3 Ex-Yanks Help Nats Hand A.L. Leaders First 1953 Double Loss

Dodgers Lose, 20-6, To Giants

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Bob Porterfield and Johnny Schmitz are the new idols of "I Hate The Yankees" clubs from coast to coast. And Jerry Snyder must be at least an honorary vice president.

The three ex-Yanks, traded away during the regime of Manager Casey Stengel, teamed up to help Washington sweep a doubleheader from the Yanks yesterday, 4-0 and 5-4, at Griffith Stadium. It was the Yanks' first double loss of the year.

Porterfield, shunted to Washington in the Bob Kuzava deal in 1951, shut out New York with five hits and allowed only one man to reach second base in the opener. Schmitz, cut loose this spring, mopped up with a fine relief job in the second game. Snyder, who toiled on the Yankee farms until he was tossed into the Jackie Jensen-Irv Noren swap last spring, came through with three hits, drove in two runs and scored another.

Chicago and Cleveland both gained a full game on the Yanks by splitting two at Cleveland. Southpaw Billy Pierce blanked the Indians, 4-0, on five hits to keep the White Sox in second place after Cleveland came from behind to beat Reliefer Harry Dorish in the opener, 7-6.

New York leads Chicago by five and one half games and Cleveland by six.

Red Sox Get 8 in Inning.

Boston scored eight in the first inning to give Mel Parnell a 10-2 romp over Philadelphia. Detroit, for the first time this season, took both ends of a double from St. Louis, 10-7 and 7-1. It also was the first time the Tigers had beaten the Browns this year.

Brooklyn's National League advantage shrunk to one and one half games when they absorbed a 20-6 drubbing from the New York Giants, their worst defeat in many seasons. Hank Thompson hit two homers, one with the bases full off Raphl Branca, and drove in seven runs to let Sal Maglie ease home.

Milwaukee and St. Louis, fighting for second, split. Warren Spahn pitched his twenty-ninth major league shutout in the first to win, 4-0. The Cardinals won the second, 4-1, behind the pitching of Stu Miller.

The Phillies picked up a full game on Brooklyn by nipping Pittsburgh, 2-0, in 10 innings as Robin Roberts started the winning rally with a double. It was Roberts's thirteenth victory and twentieth complete game in 20 starts this season. The Sunday curfew postponed until Aug. 11 a likely defeat for the Phils in the second game, for they trailed 7-0 after six innings when the game was suspended. Lanky Jim Waugh, just recalled from Burlington of the Carolina League, pitched for the Pirates in the nightcap.

Two Homers by Kiner.

Chicago and Cincinnati divided a pair of free-hitting games. Hank Sauer hit two doubles and a single to run his string to six straight hits in helping win the first game, 8-4. Ralph Kiner hit his seventeenth and eighteenth homers and Sauer and Bill Serena also homered but Cincinnati won the second game, 8-6.

The Yanks' troubles at Washington started early when Allie Reynolds was chased in the second inning of the first game, after giving up three runs in the first. Porterfield's shutout was his second in succession and fifth of the year.

Schmitz, third Washington pitcher in the second, thrilled the largest Griffith Stadium crowd of the year, 27,685, by holding the Yanks to five hits and one run in the final six innings.

Bob Elliot, backing up Pierce's pitching in the second game against Cleveland, singled in the first run and hit his seventh homer in the sixth. The Indians scored four in the seventh to pull out the opener.

Thirteen men went to bat for the Red Sox in the first inning and six of them hit safely. Billy Goodman and Dick Gernert each had a double and single in the inning. Gernert hit his fourteenth homer later.

Maglie, who has whipped Brooklyn 17 out of 22 through the years, had an easy afternoon, scattering nine hits. It was Branca's first appearance at the Polo Grounds since the 1951 playoff, when he dished up that pennant-winning homer to Bobby Thomson.

Wayne Belardi's home run marked the eighteenth consecutive game in which Brooklyn hit at least one homer, one short of the league record.

Eagle Big Help As Jackie Pung Wins Golf Meet

SCOTCH PLAINS, N. J., July 6 (UP)—Two different kinds of "shots" paid off yesterday for Jackie Pung with her first major professional golf triumph—shots of two "wonder drugs" and an amazing shot with a No. 3 iron.

Mrs. Pung, the Hawaiian housewife now playing out of Glasgow, Ky., took first prize yesterday in the Triangle Round Robin tournament, finishing with a dramatic surge to post a score of 38 points.

The "wonder drug" shots kept her going after Saturday's fourth round, when she became ill. And the No. 3 iron, coming on the fifteenth hole of the final round at the Shackamaxon Country Club, put her into the lead.

No. 3 Iron Does It.

Trailing along behind and matched against three of the top pros in the business, the 1952 National Amateur champion came to the fifteenth in desperate straits. She used the No. 3 iron for her second shot and holed out for an amazing eagle two. That alone was worth eight points and moved her in front.

She climaxed her brilliant drive by recovering for a par four on the last hole, after trapping her second shot, by dropping a 12-foot putt.

Patty Berg of North Chicago, Ill., who had an apparently unbeatable lead with 47 points after Saturday's fourth round, lost 13 points on the final tour and wound up in third place with 36. Moving ahead of her into second was Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Tex., with 36 points.

In the round-robin system of scoring, each player in the field of 16 plays against each of the others and points are scored on a "plus or minus" basis against each other.

Medal Scores Don't Count.

Medal scores don't count, but Miss Berg and Louise Suggs of Atlanta, Ga., had the best total score for the five rounds with 379 totals. Next came Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S. C., at 381 and Mrs. Pung at 382.

Miss Suggs was fourth in the round-robin with 30 points, followed by Miss Rawls 29, Pat O'Sullivan of Orange, Conn., 29; Betty Hicks of Ponte Vedra, Calif., 13; Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O., minus 4; Alice Bauer of Sarsota, Fla., minus 13; Marilynn Smith of Wichita, Kans., minus 14; Mae Murray of Rutland, Vt., minus 26; Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., minus 27; Betty Mackinnon of Dallas, Tex., minus 31; Marlene Bauer of Sarasota, Fla., minus 33; and Shirley Spork of Ukia, Calif., minus 52.

The 90-hole medal score:

do you have over $25,000 taxable income?

here's one way to save on taxes!

With personal federal income tax rates at an all-time high, business and professional men today are becoming more acutely aware of taxes on their investments.

Alert investors are turning a sharp eye toward Municipal Bonds which are Federal tax-exempt. Now here is something you may or may not know. Yields on these bonds are higher than they have been for thirteen years. For example, an issue of Los Angeles bonds is now being offered to yield 3.20% annually for the 20-year maturity. In January of this year, 20-year Los Angeles bonds were offering a yield of 2.55%, while back in 1946 similar bonds yielded only 1.25%.

What does this mean to you? Just this. If you are a married man and paying personal tax on $25,000 annual income, you stand to get a much better cash return on these tax-exempt Municipals. Here is the arithmetic: Say you have $10,000 invested in taxable securities, stocks or mortgages. From this investment you receive an average 5% annual return of $500.00. In your income bracket you pay $240.00 of this in tax. This leaves you with a net cash return of only $260.00. If the same $10,000 were invested in municipals (earning a yield of 3.20%), your return would be $320.00 at far less risk. You keep all of this sum because your investment is federal tax-free!

It's just that simple. If your investments are tax-exempt, your declarable income is reduced, and your net cash gain increases. And, correspondingly, the higher your tax bracket the greater the advantage to owning municipals. To find your investment table . . . refer to the handy chart below.

TAXABLE INCOME	TAX BRACKET	*TAXABLE EQUIVALENT
$15,000	34%	4.85%
$20,000	38%	5.16%
$25,000	48%	6.15%
$35,000	56%	7.27%
$50,000	66%	9.41%
$75,000	68%	10.00%
$100,000	75%	12.80%

*The yield necessary on other securities to equal tax-free bond yield of 3.20%

After giving this some thought you may agree with us on the wisdom of this type of investment. Mercantile Trust Company is one of the nation's more important dealers in State and Municipal Bonds. STOCK MARKET CONTINUES QUIET, PRICES MIXED

Much of Time During Session the Tendency Was to the Higher Side on Balance.

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Trading was slow and prices were mixed today in the stock market. The close was quiet.

That was third lowest total of the year. Price changes were around a point either way at the most with few exceptions.

Sales for day were 860,000 shares compared with 830,000 last Friday.

Associated Press average of 60 stocks closed up .1 of a point at 108.4. The industrial stock index and utility index were both up .1 of point and rail index unchanged.

The market expanded to 1003 issues from Friday's 966 issues. There were 416 gainers, 339 losers, 248 unchanged for day. There were 18 new 1953 lows, 6 highs.

Much of the time during the session the tendency was to the higher side on balance. There were enough soft spots in the list, however, to justify the mixed label.

Seaboard Railroad gained around 2 points after the Interstate Commerce Commission approved the proposal for a two and a half for one split of the common stock in order to put it in what the company called a "more popular range" of price.

Daily average volume last week was the lowest in more than four years, and nothing appeared today to break the market away from that apathy.

Lower were Chesapeake & Ohio, American Smelting, Studebaker and ABC-Paramount.

It was felt that the stock market still was under the holiday influence with many carrying their observance of Saturday's Independence day over until today, just as many observed the start of the holiday last Friday.

Business World

Seiberling Rubber Co. announced a refinancing program which it said will provide an additional $1,000,000 in working capital. The concern reported it was borrowing $2,000,000 from the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. at 4½ per cent interest. Half of the sum will be used to retire the company's present $1,000,000 note with Penn Mutual and the balance will be used for working capital. The loan will be repayable in installments of $200,000 on each July 1 for the next 10 years.

U.S. BONDS ARE STEADY

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The bond market was steady in moderate activity today. Railroads were generally higher; utilities and industrials unchanged. United States Government bonds changed hands rapidly with almost no net result. The new 3¼s were steady at 99 30-32 bid as were long term Victory 2½s at 93 2-32 bid. Near start of the final hour, the 2⅞s of 1958 were up 2-32 at 98 4-32 bid.

Italian and Japanese liens were mostly lower, but Milan 6½s rose two points at 87. Colombia 3s were up a point at 51.

Trading in the corporate list was highly selective and prices were little moved. Exceptions climbed from one to two points.

More than $252,000,000 of state and municipal bonds are slated to come to market this week, compared with $58,000,000 of tax-exempts last week. The $150,000,000 New Jersey Highway Authority issue on Wednesday swells the weekly total.

Rohm & Haas borrowed $5,000,000 from the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co. at 4 per cent interest to 1972, the company announced.

The Indiana Gas & Water Co. borrowed $3,000,000 by selling first mortgage bonds to 13 institutional investors led by New England Mutual Life Insurance Co. The obligations carry 3¾ per cent interest and mature in 1980. Proceeds are for construction and to repay bank loans.

U.S. OFFERS YEAR TIN PURCHASE PACT TO BOLIVIA

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The United States offered new economic aid to Bolivia today, including a one-year tin purchase contract, to ease economic conditions in the South American republic.

A State Department announcement pledging the new aid was made public today, 24 hours before Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, arrives in Bolivia for three days of talks with government officials.

In announcing the offer, Rollin S. Atwood, director of the State Department's office of South American affairs, said the United States hoped it would alleviate "the very serious economic situation in Bolivia."

Under the three-point American offer, the United States would agree:

1. To sign a one-year contract for purchase of Bolivian tin concentrates "at the world market price at the time of delivery."

2. To recommend the United States financial contribution to the technical assistance program in Bolivia "be more than doubled." At present the American Government is giving about $1,500,000 for that work.

3. To consider with Bolivia what "further steps the two governments might take together" looking toward a long-term solution of Bolivia's economic problems.

Bolivia has been pressing the United States for a long-term tin contract ever since the revolutionary government seized power in April 1952. The United States had held off until the Bolivian Government promised to compensate American stockholders in the Patino tin enterprises which it nationalized last October.

Atwood said he did not know how much Bolivian tin could be shipped to the United States under a one-year contract. In the past this has brought in from 14,000 to 17,000 tons of metal.

Wheat Price Holds Up Well, Rain Improves Corn Prospect

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP) — Wheat held up well, feed grains had a slightly easier undertone and soybeans developed pronounced weakness on the Board of Trade today. Hedge selling forced wheat lower at the opening, reflecting quite large cash arrivals, but this was readily absorbed by short covering and mill buying. Some grain men felt weekend rains would delay receipt of wheat from the Midwest for a couple of days. Soybeans fell several cents at one time. Selling was based on easiness in soybean meal and reports cash beans were being loaded on barges for shipment here. Favorable weekend moisture in the Midwest caused a little selling in corn and oats.

There was talk in the grain trade that Argentina might reduce the value of the peso in order to facilitate shipping 66,000,000 bushels of wheat still held in that country for export purposes.

Wheat closed ¾c lower to ¾c higher; corn, ¼@¾c lower; oats, ¼c lower to ⅛c higher; rye, ¾@1¾c higher, soybeans, 2¼@3¾c lower, and lard, 8@20c a hundred pounds lower.

4 OIL COMPANIES DEFEND PRICE RISE

Tell House Group Increases Were Overdue, Necessary for Defense.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UP)—Four major oil companies said today recent gasoline and oil price increases were long overdue and necessary as an incentive to increase production vital to national defense.

W. W. Keeler, vice president of Phillips Petroleum Co., which started a price jump on crude oil last month, told the House Commerce Committee the increases "were well warranted and long overdue."

The committee is investigating charges that the recent series of price increases involved "collusion" between the big oil companies.

T. S. Peterson, president of Standard Oil Co. of California, in a statement for the committee, said: "I wish to say emphatically that my company's price decisions have been independently made."

Herbert Willetts, vice president of Socony-Vacuum Oil Co., said in a statement, "The industry is dynamic, and a free play of economic forces will continue to assure the public an ample supply of petroleum products at reasonable prices."

H. G. Burks Jr., executive vice president of Esso Standard Oil Co., a subsidiary of Standard Oil. Co. of New Jersey, insisted that gasoline prices are "fixed by competition, since any seller can bring the price down by offering products of comparable quality and market acceptance at a lower price."

Keeler disputed previous testimony that there was an oil surplus.

"The oil industry has not had a general increase in the price of crude oil since December 1947, despite the fact that in the interim it has incurred substantial increases in the costs of all of the things which affect its business," Keeler said.

AREA-WIDE SEWER PROGRAM DISCUSSED BY RADIO PANEL

Sewer construction on an area-wide basis, as contemplated in the proposed Metropolitan Sewer District plan, would be less costly than piecemeal construction by separate districts as at present, members of the district board of freeholders said in a radio discussion yesterday.

Speaking on the "Operation Progress" program over Station KWK, members said the plan would make possible a full-scale attack on the threat to public health resulting from flow of raw sewage in streams, particularly in St. Louis county. Horace B. Deal, construction firm head and member of the board's committee on area and scope of service, said no extraordinary engineering problems would be involved.

Other board members brought out that public hearings will be held next September on a preliminary draft of a proposed district charter, recently completed by the 19-member board. Also speaking on the program were J. Eugene Auchly, board chairman; Mrs. Jules Kopp, secretary, and John Casey, chairman of the committee on governmental machinery. Former Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann of St. Louis was moderator.

VANDALS AT HODGEN SCHOOL SCATTER SUPPLIES AND FOOD

Vandals broke into the Hodgen Elementary School, 2748 Henrietta avenue, over the weekend and scattered records and supplies around classrooms and offices.

Custodian Louis Beia discovered the vandalism when he arrived at the school today. The vandals broke a first-floor window to get into the building. They entered the principal's office, opened file cabinets and spread the papers around the room. They also pulled the pendulum off the school's master clock.

In 11 classrooms, pencils, crayons and other supplies were taken from closets and thrown on the floor. In the basement lunchroom, butter, cheese and other foods were smeared on the floor, furniture and stairway.

NIXON URGES AMERICANS TO KNOW RED DOCTRINES

GETTYSBURG, July 6 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, in a battle of Gettysburg commemorative speech here last night, called on all Americans to learn what the Communists advocate."

"When you know both your own system and the Communists, there is no question as to which is the better," Nixon said.

Prior to his address the Vice President placed a wreath on the grave of his great-grandfather, George Nixon, a Union army soldier who died of wounds received in the Civil war battle of Gettysburg.

Nixon said it would have been "much better" if every American had read "Mein Kampf," Adolf Hitler's book, in World War II.

LONDON-TO-PARIS FLIGHT IN 19 MINUTES, 18 SECONDS

PARIS, July 6 (AP)—A British-made jet fighter plane, a Supermarine Swift, flew from London to Paris yesterday, setting a new official record of 19 minutes and 18 seconds. The plane averaged 668.8 miles an hour for the 216-mile flight.

The new record clipped 1 minute, 19.4 seconds from the previous record speed of 20 minutes, 37.4 seconds, set May 13, 1949, by a Hawker jet.

After a two-hour layover the plane flashed back to London in 19 minutes 14.3 seconds. This also is believed to be a record.

4 ST. LOUIS AREA MEN WOUNDED IN KOREA

One Has 3 Purple Hearts, Is Recommended for DSC.

Four St. Louis area service men have been wounded in action in Korea, the Defense Department announced yesterday.

They are Pfc. William P. Luyendik, 1104 Jennings Station road, Bellefontaine Neighbors; Sgt. Eugene D. Giebler, 202A Main street, Festus; Pfc. Lloyd L. Schwartz, 3568 St. Christopher lane, Overland, and Pfc. Roy L. Moore, Olive Street road, Chesterfield.

Luyendik, son of Mrs. Edwin B. Metz, was wounded in the back four times by shell fragments June 8. He wrote his mother he had returned to duty after being hit when the shell exploded near him. Luyendik, 22 years old, was drafted Jan. 11, 1952 and has been in Korea since last September.

Giebler, 24, suffered flesh wounds in the right leg from shell fragments June 18, his father, Adolph J. Giebler Jr., was informed. He has received three Purple Hearts for previous wounds and has been recommended for the Distinguished Service Cross. He enlisted in the Army in 1948 and served for 44 months in Berlin. Giebler has been in Korea since last October.

Schwartz, 19, wrote his mother, Mrs. Addeline H. Schwartz, he was wounded in the knee June 17, when their position was attacked. He enlisted last November and has been in Korea since early May.

The department also listed Moore as wounded in action in Korea. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard L. Moore.

By the Associated Press.

Chairman Wolverton (Rep.), New Jersey, in questioning Keeler, indicated the witness failed to come up with specific answers to questions he framed in telegrams to industry leaders.

He asked Keeler if his company had experienced any lack of crude oil because of the old price. The answer was no.

Wolverton then wanted to know if the company's earnings position had been "jeopardized" by the lower price. Keeler's answer was that the percentage of return from assets in 1952 had dropped to 8.16 from 9.45 in 1951.

In 1952, he said, his company's gross income was a little more than $723,000,000, the net income more than $75,000,000 and assets amounted to $922,000,000. Comparable figures for 1943, he told the committee, were: Gross income, $158,000,000; net income, $14,000,000, and assets, $281,000,000.

TRAINED DOGS ARE USED TO CATCH KENYA TERRORISTS

NAIROBI, Kenya, July 6 (AP)—The Royal Air Force has brought in a section of highly-trained Alsatian dogs to guard its installations in Kenya against anti-white Mau Mau terrorists. The dogs were air-lifted from a training center in the Suez canal zone.

Cpl. John Eisner, in charge, said the dogs are not killers. "They know their job is to take prisoners," he said. "They are faster than anything on two feet, and when they spot their man they bring him down."

A gang of Mau Mau terrorists raided Royal Lodge—Kenya's wedding gift to Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh—last night. African constables guarding the lodge fought the raiders for 15 minutes. No one was injured.

Security forces rounded up more than 2000 Mau Mau suspects yesterday in what officials rescribed as "the most successful blow against terrorists in the Nakuru area."

PHILIP CROWE CONFIRMED AS ENVOY TO CEYLON

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Senate today confirmed President Eisenhower's nomination of Philip K. Crowe of Easton, Md., to be Ambassador to Ceylon and of Roy Tasco Davis, also of Maryland, to be Ambassador to Haiti.

Crowe, 45 years old, is a son-in-law of James T. Pettus Sr. of St. Louis, a director of International Shoe Co. At the time of his marriage in 1938 to Irene Pettus, Crowe was a member of the staff of Life magazine.

In World War II he was an Air Force intelligence officer and subsequently a member of the Office of Strategic Services assigned to China. After the war he served in China as a Government official, escaping from Nanking on the last plane to leave before the Chinese Communists took over the city.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

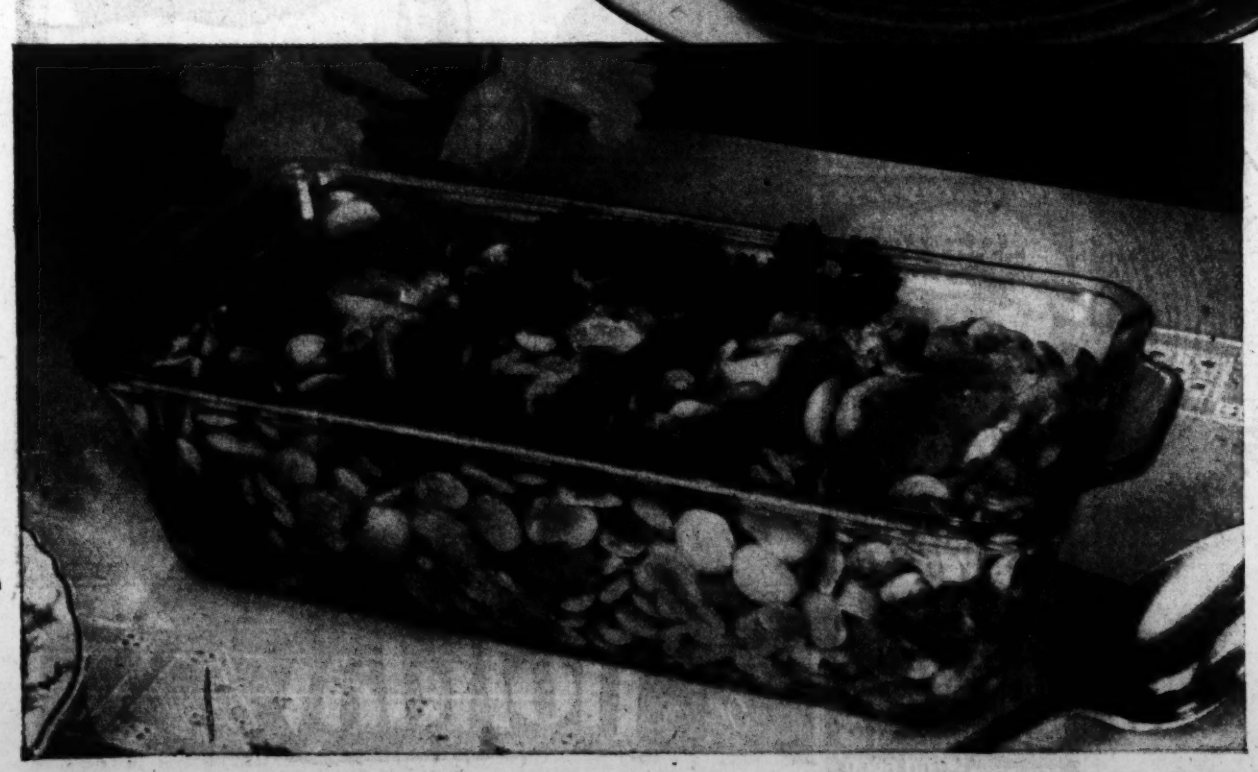
ST. LOUIS, MONDAY, JULY 6, 1953

Eggplant slices rolled in crushed cornflakes and sauteed until golden brown form the bottom layers for vegetable cheese towers, shown at right, which are baked in a moderate oven. Slices of sweet onion, raw tomato and processed American cheese are stacked on top of the eggplant. Carrot curls, celery and green pepper rings are effective accompaniments.

One Hot Meal Every Day

Olive Macaroni Casserole, shown above, is an interesting blend of flavors, made with macaroni, cheese sauce, seasonings and stuffed olives. Buttered crumbs are sprinkled over the dish, which is then baked in a moderate oven until the crumbs are lightly browned.

Cheese Souffle, at right, is a perfectly baked golden souffle, crusty on the outside, creamy and soft inside. The trick of running a teaspoon around the edge, making an even break around the top, gives the "top hat" appearance as the souffle bakes and puffs up. Remove from the oven and serve without a second's delay to catch it at the moment of perfection.



Baked Lima Beans: Strips of ham add both color and flavor to the lima beans in this one-dish meal shown at left. It is prepared in a glass loaf pan. Diced onions and celery browned in fat for about five minutes season the mixture. Garnish with parsley and serve piping hot.

By Dorothy Brainerd

Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

IT is a temptation to serve only cold foods in hot weather, but remember that even when July temperatures soar nutritionists recommend one hot meal a day. And what easier way to provide it than by means of one-dish oven meals, which need only the addition of a salad, a hot beverage and a simple dessert?

American homemakers are indebted to the good French housewives, so wise in the ways of food, for the art of casserole cookery. Its popularity in this country is due to the fact that it fits perfectly into our informal way of life. In addition, one-dish meals are easy to prepare, easy to serve, and minimize dishwashing —all important factors in summertime living.

Three of the four dishes illustrated are baked in casseroles; these vegetable cheese towers are cooked on a baking sheet.

Vegetable Cheese Towers.

Four cups cornflakes.
One-half cup milk.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One-fourth cup shortening.
Six thin slices sweet onion.
Six thick slices raw tomato.
Six thin slices processed American cheese.

Pare eggplant and cut into six crosswise slices about one-half inch thick. Crush cornflakes into fine crumbs. Dip eggplant slices first in milk mixed with salt and pepper, then in crumbs. Saute in heated shortening until golden brown on both sides. Place slices on a baking sheet. On top of each slice of eggplant put a slice of onion, then a slice of tomato, then one of cheese. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 30 minutes or until cheese is melted and brown and onion is tender. Serve at once. Yield: six servings.

Skillet Hashburgers.

Try skillet hashburgers on that next picnic. This favorite fare of Jiggs will spark the Irish wit around the campfire. Slice canned corned beef and brown well in fat in a skillet. Serve on grilled hamburger buns. Team-up the hashburgers with cole slaw, sliced tomatoes or tartar sauce.

CORN COOKED IN ALUMINUM FOIL

Corn-on-the-cob is one of the most popular vegetables with picnickers. Try roasting it in aluminum foil so that the butter or margarine and seasoning flavors are cooked right in. The foil will keep each ear hot, moist and flavorful until the last one is eaten.

Husk the ears of corn. Lay on squares of aluminum foil and brush each ear with softened butter or margarine, then sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add peppy barbecue sauce or mixed herbs, if you wish.

Wrap each ear individually in the foil, sealing with a fold the length of the corn and twisting the ends. Use two thicknesses the lighter foil when barbecue-roasting corn.

The outdoor barbecue is the ideal setting for roasted corn—just pop the wrapped ears into the hot coals (not red) and cook about 10 to 15 minutes. Or you can place the corn on the grate over the fire, allowing 20 to 30 minutes for cooking, depending upon the intensity of the heat.

Right Containers

The right container is the cue to foods arriving at the picnic in an appealing condition. Instead of jars, use waxed containers with disc lids. They are lighter and will not crush the sandwiches if packed in the same basket. The empty bakery foods containers, such as cake boxes, can be stored if opened flat and will be in readiness for the next picnic.

FRESH CHERRY BRUNCH CAKE

DON'T cheat your family out of the treat of a fresh cherry pie, now that they are in season. And do remember that three or four drops of almond extract and a teaspoon of grated lemon rind will give your cherry pie distinction.

Cherries come to a Sunday morning breakfast in this quick coffee cake made with a biscuit mix.

Cherry Brunch Cake.

One pound sour cherries, pitted.
One egg.
Two-thirds cup milk.
Two cups biscuit mix.
One-half cup sugar.

Topping:

One-half cup sugar.
Three tablespoons biscuit mix.
One teaspoon cinnamon.
Three tablespoons soft butter or margarine.

Beat egg slightly, add milk. Add biscuit mix and sugar and stir until just blended. Pour into greased nine-inch cake pan. Top with cherries. Mix ingredients for topping and blend in butter or margarine. Sprinkle over cherries. Bake at 400 degrees for 45 minutes. Serve warm.

NEW TRICKS WITH ICED TEA

Although tea is centuries old, closely entwined with life in ancient China, iced tea is a relatively new beverage—only about 50 years old, to be exact. It is said to have made its debut at the St. Louis World's Fair.

A new trick in making this relatively new drink is the use of instant tea, so that iced tea may be made in seconds right in the individual iced tea glass. Since it is cool on making, it does not require as many ice cubes.

Simply put a teaspoon of instant tea right into the iced tea glass, add a half-inch of actively boiling water. Don't stir—the instant tea dissolves instantly. Add cold water and ice, and it is ready to drink. Tea made by this method may be kept in the refrigerator for several days without turning cloudy.

Try using iced tea as the base for frosty drinks. It is less expensive than fruit punch and, since you do not need as much fruit juice, the beverage will not be as sweet and consequently more refreshing.

Basic Sirup.

Combine and boil five minutes:
Three-fourths cup sugar.
Three-fourths cup water.
One teaspoon whole allspice.
One two-inch stick cinnamon.

Combine and add to basic sirup:
Eight teaspoons instant tea.
One-fourth cup actively boiling water.

Cover and let stand 10 minutes. Strain.

Spiced Iced Tea.

Three-fourths cup strained orange juice.
One-half cup strained lemon juice.
Two quarts iced water.

To serve, place two ounces cracked ice (approximately two cubes) in each of eight 10-ounce glasses. Fill with tea. If desired, add one tablespoon maraschino cherry juice to each glass.

Iced Tea Refresher.

Add to basic sirup:
One No. 2 can (two and one-half cups) unsweetened grapefruit juice.
Two and one-half cups iced water.
One quart chilled ginger ale.

To serve, place two ounces of cracked ice (approximately two cubes) in each of eight 10-ounce glasses. Fill with tea. Garnish with orange slices.

Minted Lime Cooler.

Add to basic sirup:
One cup strained lime juice.
Two quarts iced water.

Mint leaves crushed with sugar.

To serve, place two ounces cracked ice (approximately two cubes) in each of eight 10-ounce glasses. Fill with tea. Garnish with thin slices of lime or sprigs of mint.

ONE HOT MEAL EVERY DAY

Olive Macaroni Cheese Casserole

One-half pound pasteurized process cheese food; one-third cup milk.
One-half cup sliced stuffed olives.
One-half teaspoon salt.
Dash of pepper.
Two cups cooked elbow macaroni.
Buttered soft bread crumbs.

Melt the pasteurized process cheese food in the top of a double boiler. Gradually add the milk, stirring constantly until the sauce is smooth. Add the olives, seasonings and macaroni. Pour into a casserole. Sprinkle with buttered crumbs and bake ina moderate oven, 375 degrees, for 15 to 20 minutes or until the crumbs are lightly browned.

★ ★ ★

A crisp vegetable salad is the perfect accompaniment for this delivate cheese souffle. Just one word of warning: be sure to serve it promptly, before it loses one smidgen of its beauty.

Cheese Souffle.

Four tablespoons butter or margarine.
Four tablespoons flour.
One and one-half cups milk.
One teaspoon salt.
Dash of cayenne.
One-half pound pasteurized process American cheese, sliced.
Six eggs.

Make a sauce with the margarine or butter, flour, milk and seasonings. When thickened and smooth, add the sliced cheese and stir until the cheese is melted. Remove from the heat and add the beaten yolks of the eggs; mix well. Slightly cool the mixture, then pour it slowly onto the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs, cutting and folding the mixture thoroughly together.

Pour into an ungreased two-quart casserole. Run the tip of a teaspoon around in the mixture one inch in from the edge of the casserole, making a slight trace or depression. This forms a "top hat" on the souffle as it bakes and puffs up.

Bake one and one-fourth hours in a slow oven, 300 degrees. Serve at once.

★ ★ ★

Baked Lima Beans and Ham.

One-half cup diced onions.
One-half cup diced celery.
One tablespoon fat.
One teaspoon salt.
One-fourth teaspoon pepper.
One-half pound slice of ham.
Three cups cooked lima beans.
One-half cup liquid from the lima beans.
One-fourth cup evaporated milk.
One tablespoon flour.
Parsley.

Brown diced onions and celery in fat for about five minutes. Add salt and pepper. Cut slice of ham into strips about two inches long and one inch wide. Cook ham strips in a greased skillet until slightly browned. Mix some of the ham strips with cooked lima beans, onions and celery. Add lima bean liquid, evaporated milk and flour.

Place in a well-greased one quart loaf pan. Place remaining strips of ham on top of lima beans. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, about 45 minutes. Garnish with parsley and serve poping hot. Yield: six to eight servings.

SENATE VOTES PERMANENT HAVEN FOR POLISH FLYER

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) —The Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill giving permanent United States residence to Lt. Franciszek Jarecki, Polish pilot who recently flew a Russian-made MIG-15 jet out from behind the Iron Curtain. The House had passed a similar measure earlier.

Jarecki flew the MIG to the Danish island of Bornholm last March 5, giving engineers from free world countries their first chance to inspect an undamaged plane of this type.

The pilot announced he had left Poland because of Communist oppression. He has said he plans to become a United States citizen.

LANIEL OUTLINES NEW FINANCIAL PLAN FOR FRANCE

Proposals Aimed at Bolstering Economy Caused Downfall of Mayer Cabinet.

PARIS, July 6 (AP)—The new government of Premier Joseph Laniel outlined today a series of new taxes, reductions of expenditures, and means for paying back advances from the Bank of France through which it hopes to get the nation's teetering economy back on a stable basis.

Roughly, the measures which the Laniel cabinet is proposing, are those which caused the downfall of the Rene Mayer government on May 21. Each of the four candidates for premier who were rejected by the National Assembly during the 37-day crisis which followed Mayer's ouster also said the measures would be needed.

Laniel was reported to have decided to pose the question of confidence of his measures, thus risking his week-old cabinet. The debate in the National Assembly will take up most of this week, starting with committee hearings tomorrow.

Although he will face powerful opposition on many points, it was believed the assembly would hesitate to throw out Laniel, with the memory of the recent crisis so fresh in the memory of the deputies.

Chief among the new money-raising proposal are tax increases on gasoline, diesel oil, and alcohol. Revenue stamps on official papers also will be higher and the fee for passports doubled.

A communique issued after the cabinet meeting which drew up the proposals, said the new income would be used to pay off temporary loans by the Bank of France. The new taxes are expected to raise 30 billion francs (85,714,200) during the remainder of this year and double that amount in a full year.

Laniel also said his cabinet would need special powers to make necessary economies. It was on this specific issue that the Assembly defeated Mayer.

STORE MANAGER HELD UP AT BANK NIGHT DEPOSITORY

John Assaf, manager of the Sun Cut-Rate Drug Store, 2800 North Fourteenth street, was held up and robbed of $1100 Saturday night as he was about to deposit the money in the night depository of a bank, he reported to police.

Assaf said he was preparing to deposit the money in the Northwestern Bank and Trust Co., 1500 St. Louis avenue, when a man approached him and produced a revolver, ordering him to "hand over the money."

The manager said he threw a cloth sack containing $900 in cash and $200 in checks on the ground and the man picked it up and fled.

KILLED BY FATHER-IN-LAW AFTER A FAMILY QUARREL

John E. Sanders, a laborer, 2716 Lucas avenue, was shot and killed by his father-in-law, Leonard Blair, 2709 Lucas, after a family quarrel outside Blair's home Saturday night, police reported.

Blair, a laborer, said he got his revolver after he heard voices outside and found his wife, Rosie Lee, Sanders and Sander's wife, Critee, quarreling. Blair, 53, said he fired at his son-in-law twice.

Sanders, 26 years old, was shot in the chest and stomach. All are Negroes.

CAMBODIA CALLS OFFER BY FRANCE UNSATISFACTORY

Premier Says His Nation Wants Status Similar to India's in Commonwealth.

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia, July 6 (AP)—Cambodia's Premier made it plain yesterday he is not satisfied with the offers of greater independence France made last week.

Premier Pen Nouth told reporters here in the capital of the kingdom that the Cambodian royal government "does not consider the French declaration meets the Cambodian nationalist demands presented to France. Cambodia confirms that it desires to remain in the French Union with a status comparable to that of India in the British Commonwealth."

"We will await the orders of His Majesty Norodom Sihanouk and we will resume negotiations with France only if it is determined that the French propositions conform to the deep aspirations of the Cambodian people," the Premier added.

Jean Risterrucci, French High Commissioner, told reporters he had found a number of the Cambodian cabinet members "relatively satisfied" with the French offer but some were not happy that France had not announced total independence for Cambodia.

After prolonged cabinet meetings, the French government said July 3 that it was inviting quick negotiations to transfer large economic, political and military powers to the Indochinese states — Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam—as a means of strengthening their morale to fight Communism.

The Cambodian Premier said he did not know yet whether the Cambodian government would answer France's offer of greater independence.

"It all depends on what actions the French government takes in the future on giving Cambodia complete independence," he said.

Viet Nam Welcomes 'New Deal' From Paris.

SAIGON, Indochina, July 6 (UP)—Viet Nam officially welcomed today the French "new deal" independence plan for Indochina and promised to fight Communist insurgents with more energy and enthusiasm.

The Viet Nam government of Premier Nguyen Van Tam and Emperor Bao Dai greeted the French proposal as sincere proof of France's desire to "perfect" this war-torn country's independence.

In an official communique published today the government and Emperor also restated their determination to maintain close links with the French Union as a sovereign nation.

U.S. Backs French Offer to Indochina States.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP) — The United States today pledged "wholehearted" support for the new offer of France to negotiate a larger measure of independence for Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

"The United States Government will wholeheartedly support the efforts of the French Government in this direction in the confident belief that the way is open for relationships firmly based on mutual interests and common consent which will strengthen the French Union and the ability of the French Union forces to carry on their valiant struggle against Communist aggression," a State Department statement said.

M'CARTHY A BIT HARD TO CONTROL, MUNDT CONCEDES

PHILADELPHIA, July 6 (UP) —Senator Karl E. Mundt (Rep.), South Dakota, said yesterday he thinks Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, "is a little difficult to control."

"I would certainly agree that McCarthy is impetuous," Mundt added in an interview on the ABC television show, "Junior Press Conference."

Mundt, a member of the Senate investigating subcommittee headed by McCarthy, refused to say what position he would take if the committee meets to consider action on J. B. Matthews, a McCarthy appointee who has been criticized for a magazine article on Communism and the churches.

Mundt renewed a call for a realignment of present political parties and said that, in such a move, "you would reach a point where Senators McCarthy and Pat McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, would be in the same party."

SECURITY TAX AGAINST SELF-EMPLOYED UPHELD

JACKSON, Miss., July 6 (UP) —United States District Judge Sidney Mize ruled here today that social security taxes assessed against self-employed persons are constitutional and Mrs. Mary Cain either must pay them or go to jail.

Mrs. Cain, newspaper editor of Summit, Miss., refused to pay $42.87 in delinquent social security taxes and challenged constitutionality of the law. She has said she would take the case to the United States Supreme Court, if necessary, and would go to jail rather than pay the levy.

"This act does not undertake to regulate business but is a revenue statute to raise funds with which to perform a governmental function," Judge Mize ruled. "It is now well settled that providing a method to support the aged is a duty of government and is national in scope."

TALKS RESUMED ON P.S. CO. PACT AFTER RECESS

Union Head Charges Too Many Were Fired by Company After Wildcat Strike.

Contract negotiations between St. Louis Public Service Co. and the employes' union were resumed today, after a weekend recess.

Meanwhile, full transit service has been restored, following the two-day wildcat strike, which paralyzed mass transportation in the city last week.

Twenty-six union members, who were reported to have taken leading parts in the unauthorized strike, were questioned by the company after the walkout ended. Fourteen were fired and eight were suspended. The others were permitted to return to work.

Today Arthur J. Carroll, president of Operators' Local 788, said the union would stand behind all its members. Carroll said it is the contention of union officers that too many men were fired. All the cases are subject to review by a union-company grievance committee, Carroll added.

Involved in the negotiations are a wage increase and the five-day week for bus and streetcar operators. The company offered an increase of 17 cents an hour, on a graduated scale to August 1954. The men have demanded the same take-home pay for five days' work that they now receive for six days. Present rate is $81.60 a week.

KNOWLAND SAYS U.S. DID NOT TALK WITH RHEE FULLY

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Knowland (Rep.), California, says that if the United States consulted fully with President Syngman Rhee of South Korea "I don't think this breach would have developed."

Rhee, Knowland said on the NBC television program "Meet the Press" yesterday, "was not sufficiently consulted during the Truman Administration and I don't think he was sufficiently consulted during the Eisenhower Administration."

The Senator, acting G.O.P. leader of the Senate, said the "first real consultation" with the South Korean President came with the dispatch to Seoul of Walter S. Robertson as a personal emissary of President Eisenhower.

That came after Rhee had freed some 27,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war and threatened to fight on alone if an armistice were signed which left Korea divided.

Asked whether the United States could now trust Rhee, Knowland replied that "I don't think Mr. Rhee has done anything which would warrant us not trusting him."

Asked whether the United Nations Command should use force to enforce a truce if it were signed without South Korea's consent, Knowland said "definitely not," and he added: "We should make every effort to bring about a reapproachment between the Republic of South Korea and the United States and United Nations forces."

3 NEW AIDS JOIN WHITE HOUSE STAFF

Two to Assist With Liaison Work, Third to Be Acting Secretary of Group.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The White House today announced three new staff assignments.

Walter Williams, Under Secretary of Commerce, and one of his assistants, Stanley Rumbough, will "assist with liaison work with various departments of the Government," Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said.

He also announced that Col. Paul T. Carroll, White House liaison man with the Defense Department, will serve temporarily as acting secretary of the White House staff. He will assist Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aid.

Williams, Rumbough and Carroll all will continue to carry on their regular duties in addition to their temporary assignments.

Val Peterson, former Republican Governor of Nebraska, served as a White House liaison man before being named chief of the Civil Defense Administration. Hagerty said Williams and Rumbough will take over work which Peterson formerly handled. Both Williams and Rumbough were on the Eisenhower staff during the presidential campaign.

Hagerty indicated Carroll, as an aid to Adams, will handle the channeling of national security matters.

President Eisenhower today nominated James H. Smith Jr. to be Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air. Smith, a director of Slick Airways Co., operating in the Southwest, would succeed John F. Floberg.

Smith, whose home is in Aspen, Colo., is 42 years old. In 1941 he was manager of Pan American Airways' African operations. He served as a Navy pilot in World War II and also on the staff of Adm. Arthur W. Radford, now chairman-designate of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

GAMBLING DEVICE FINES LEVIED ON 56 AT PANA, ILL.

PANA, Ill. (AP) — Fifty-six persons accused of possessing gambling devices as an outgrowth of state police slot machine raids last months pleaded guilty today in Pana city court and were fined.

Judge Guy Smith assessed fines of $100 on each of 50 informations containing the charges against the defendants. Costs averaged about $40.

State's Attorney Scott Hoover said disposition of the cases cleared the way for destruction of seized gambling equipment. Ninety-eight slot machines were confiscated, along with a few dice tables, punchboards, pull jars and other items.

The defendants pleaded not guilty on arraignment in county court at Taylorville shortly after the raids, and obtained a change of venue. They reversed their earlier pleas today. Most of the defendants were from Taylorville.

In neighboring Macoupin county, 72 slot machines were seized in the state police swoop and later destroyed.

EISENHOWER AUTO WAITS AS LITTLE PIGS CROSS ROAD

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A litter of little pigs passed in review before President Eisenhower on a country road some 35 miles from Washington. It happened late yesterday, midway between Washington and Camp David, the presidential retreat in central Maryland's Catoctin mountains.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, with their party, were driving back from their Fourth of July weekend. To avoid holiday traffic, they traveled back roads.

Their car squealed to a halt, the pigs crossed at leisure and then the presidential party resumed its journey to the White House.

Eisenhower fished and played golf and bridge during his holiday, which began Friday. He attended church yesterday at Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church, about six miles from Camp David.

CHILD HURT IN 14-FOOT FALL

Dixie Fletcher, 1-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Fletcher, 1546 South Eighth street, suffered severe head injuries yesterday when she fell from a bedroom window at the rear of her home.

TOM LYON WANTS TO QUIT DEFENSE JOB

Reported 'Disgusted' Over Blocking of Appointment as Mine Bureau Head.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Tom Lyon wants to quit his post with the Defense Material Procurement Agency, reportedly because he is "discouraged and disgusted" by the events that led to withdrawal of his nomination to be Bureau of Mines director.

However, General Services Administrator Edward F. Mansure, who also heads DMPA, told reporters today he has persuaded Lyon to stay on as acting deputy administrator until a replacement can be found.

Mansure indicated he is having trouble locating a suitable replacement. The job pays about $15,000 a year.

Lyon, a 65-year-old Salt Lake City mining engineer, was nominated by President Eisenhower for the Mine Bureau post on recommendation of Secretary of the Interior McKay and mine industy groups.

He was bitterly opposed by John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers, who denounced him as "incompetent."

Lyon didn't run into real trouble until 10 days ago when he testified before the Senate Interior Committee that considered his nomination.

He disclosed that he is getting an annual $5000 revocable pension form the Aanaconda Copper Mining Co., for which he worked for 34 years, and that he dislikes the new federal mine safety law, which he would have had to administer as Mine Bureau chief.

This stirred up strong opposition in the senate committee and Eisenhower formally withdrew Lyon's name at his own request. No new nomination has been made.

Sweeney said he was walking in the 2200 block of Olive when the three youths slashed him on the chest, knocked him down and kicked him. They took his wallet containing $22. Sweeney, a sheet metal worker, was being treated at City Hospital when police arrested the three youths at Eighteenth street and Franklin avenue.

It has been impossible to determine so far the total amount of damage. Reports from the town of Tarata said 90 per cent of the homes were sacked by Indians identified with farm labor unions.

Gangs of Indians, apparently impatient over delays in land reform, started raiding various farms and towns last week, seizing harvested crops and farm machinery and sacking homes.

Gallant Attempt on New Summer Show

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, July 6.

JOHN CROSBY

It was one of those stories in which a character is held, poised from the outset, on the brink of tragedy while a series of flash-backs tell you what it is all about. A traveling salesman (Eddie Albert) is rushing home to his wife who is in pretty rough shape after giving birth to baby. Another traveling salesman (Henry Jours) offers him quiet sympathy and understanding. Long before the train gets to his destination, you are made aware that the wife is already dead. Still, he keeps pouring out the story of his marriage to the other traveling salesman, as if the girl were still alive, though the other man knows very well she isn't.

★ ★ ★

THAT'S ALL there was to it. I can see where it must have been a very effective short story of its particular genre. But it wasn't, I'm afraid, very effective as a television play—in spite of fine performances by Albert and Jours—because it violated certain dramatic rules which are inviolable. The story was all over before it began. A short story writer can get away with this because he has illimitable space to move around in; the television dramatist, imprisoned by four walls, hasn't that freedom. He has to go somewhere.

Still, it was a gallant try and I hope Davis and Mathews won't be frightened away from mood plays because it didn't come off. Mirror Theater is one of the more ambitious summer replacements, taking the first half-hour of the Milton Berle spot (KSD-TV 7 p.m., Tuesdays). Tuesdays).

THE SHOW'S SPONSOR, Revlon, sells lipstick, and for this purpose they have hired a young lady named Mary Kay to stir up trade.

I used to sit up till midnight some years ago to watch Miss Kay who was then employed by one of the local TV stations to sign off for the night and to tell all the wondrous things in store for us on that station the following day.

The sheer girlish exuberance Miss Kay used to evince—a little evincement music, maestro—over the next day's cooking program left me limp with admiration. Such fluttering of eyelashes. Such heaving of bosom. Such breathless rapture. And all over a cooking program. What, I kept asking myself, would happen to this girl if she really lost her heart to something a little more substantial than a cooking program?

Well, she's lost it— to Revlon. Now the little breathless sighs, the fluttering eyelashes, the pitter patter of little speech are all devoted to the greater glories of a lipstick that boasts it won't rub off even under the most severe provocation. The big thing in the commercial field these days is the contest between the sponsor's product and two other "ordinary," as they say, products.

JUST BEFORE the first act on another show, an announcer takes a Kent cigarette and two "ordinary" cigarettes and runs them through a filter—or some such thing—to find out which cigarette leaves the least trail of nicotine. Then we, the audience, are left dangling in suspense while they run through the first act. Who will win, the Kent or the "ordinary" cigarette? I've been betting against Kent, because you can get terrific odds—but I haven't won yet.

Well, the Revlon people are staging a similar contest between Revlon and two "ordinary" lipsticks to see which one is the most imperishable, and again we have to sit out a whole act before we find out who won. (Revlon won the first fall easy, but it's early in the season yet.)

THE UNREMOVABILITY of lipstick is its biggest selling point, I guess, because the Hazel Bishop people are on the same tack on the "Candid Camera" program. There, Don Ameche rubs lipsticks, one "ordinary," one Hazel Bishop—on a young lady's palm and then demonstrates that the "ordinary" rubs right off, the Hazel Bishop is as indestructible as the Pyramids. A fine thing! What's that girl going to do—go through life with that smear of lipstick on her right hand?

"Candid Camera," incidentally, has not changed a bit, which is its grave trouble. Originally, it was supposed to catch people, unaware, just being themselves. The trouble is that Allen Funt, who owns it, insists on making a practical joke out of it. He stations himself in a jail and bullies a waiter who doesn't bring him a knife with his meal; he talks double talk to a couple of kids who have put dimes in a soft-drink machine without getting anything for it; he torments a man who is just trying to get a suitcase repaired.

In those circumstances, everyone acts just like everyone else—confused, irritated, baffled. It's the same thing over and over again and its getting dull.

AMMUNITION DUMP BLOWS UP

Added starters in holiday weekend pyrotechnical displays, exploding shells light up the sky over an ammunition dump at Chicago last night. The explosions were heard for miles and falling shell fragments rained down on nearby residential areas but there were no casualties. The dump was one of several maintained by the Forty-fifth Anti-Aircraft Brigade, a Chicago air defense unit. A sentry reported the blast was touched off by lightning.

OVERLOOKED BY FAMILY

Union Head Charges Too Many Were Fired by Company After Wildcat Strike.

Contract negotiations between St. Louis Public Service Co. and the employes' union were resumed today, after a weekend recess.

Meanwhile, full transit service has been restored, following the two-day wildcat strike, which paralyzed mass transportation in the city last week.

Twenty-six union members, who were reported to have taken leading parts in the unauthorized strike, were questioned by the company after the walkout ended. Fourteen were fired and eight were suspended. The others were permitted to return to work.

Today Arthur J. Carroll, president of Operators' Local 788, said the union would stand behind all its members. Carroll said it is the contention of union officers that too many men were fired. All the cases are subject to review by a union-company grievance committee, Carroll added.

Involved in the negotiations are a wage increase and the five-day week for bus and streetcar operators. The company offered an increase of 17 cents an hour, on a graduated scale to August 1954. The men have demanded the same take-home pay for five days' work that they now receive for six days. Present rate is $81.60 a week.

KNOWLAND SAYS U.S. DID NOT TALK WITH RHEE FULLY

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Knowland (Rep.), California, says that if the United States consulted fully with President Syngman Rhee of South Korea "I don't think this breach would have developed."

Rhee, Knowland said on the NBC television program "Meet the Press" yesterday, "was not sufficiently consulted during the Truman Administration and I don't think he was sufficiently consulted during the Eisenhower Administration."

The Senator, acting G.O.P. leader of the Senate, said the "first real consultation" with the South Korean President came with the dispatch to Seoul of Walter S. Robertson as a personal emissary of President Eisenhower.

That came after Rhee had freed some 27,000 anti-Communist prisoners of war and threatened to fight on alone if an armistice were signed which left Korea divided.

Asked whether the United States could now trust Rhee, Knowland replied that "I don't think Mr. Rhee has done anything which would warrant us not trusting him."

Asked whether the United Nations Command should use force to enforce a truce if it were signed without South Korea's consent, Knowland said "definitely not," and he added: "We should make every effort to bring about a reapproachment between the Republic of South Korea and the United States and United Nations forces."

3 NEW AIDS JOIN WHITE HOUSE STAFF

Two to Assist With Liaison Work, Third to Be Acting Secretary of Group.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The White House today announced three new staff assignments.

Walter Williams, Under Secretary of Commerce, and one of his assistants, Stanley Rumbough, will "assist with liaison work with various departments of the Government," Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said.

He also announced that Col. Paul T. Carroll, White House liaison man with the Defense Department, will serve temporarily as acting secretary of the White House staff. He will assist Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aid.

Williams, Rumbough and Carroll all will continue to carry on their regular duties in addition to their temporary assignments.

Val Peterson, former Republican Governor of Nebraska, served as a White House liaison man before being named chief of the Civil Defense Administration. Hagerty said Williams and Rumbough will take over work which Peterson formerly handled. Both Williams and Rumbough were on the Eisenhower staff during the presidential campaign.

Hagerty indicated Carroll, as an aid to Adams, will handle the channeling of national security matters.

President Eisenhower today nominated James H. Smith Jr. to be Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air. Smith, a director of Slick Airways Co., operating in the Southwest, would succeed John F. Floberg.

Smith, whose home is in Aspen, Colo., is 42 years old. In 1941 he was manager of Pan American Airways' African operations. He served as a Navy pilot in World War II and also on the staff of Adm. Arthur W. Radford, now chairman-designate of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

PANA, Ill. (AP) — Fifty-six persons accused of possessing gambling devices as an outgrowth of state police slot machine raids last months pleaded guilty today in Pana city court and were fined.

Judge Guy Smith assessed fines of $100 on each of 50 informations containing the charges against the defendants. Costs averaged about $40.

State's Attorney Scott Hoover said disposition of the cases cleared the way for destruction of seized gambling equipment. Ninety-eight slot machines were confiscated, along with a few dice tables, punchboards, pull jars and other items.

The defendants pleaded not guilty on arraignment in county court at Taylorville shortly after the raids, and obtained a change of venue. They reversed their earlier pleas today. Most of the defendants were from Taylorville.

In neighboring Macoupin county, 72 slot machines were seized in the state police swoop and later destroyed.

EISENHOWER AUTO WAITS AS LITTLE PIGS CROSS ROAD

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—A litter of little pigs passed in review before President Eisenhower on a country road some 35 miles from Washington. It happened late yesterday, midway between Washington and Camp David, the presidential retreat in central Maryland's Catoctin mountains.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, with their party, were driving back from their Fourth of July weekend. To avoid holiday traffic, they traveled back roads.

Their car squealed to a halt, the pigs crossed at leisure and then the presidential party resumed its journey to the White House.

Eisenhower fished and played golf and bridge during his holiday, which began Friday. He attended church yesterday at Trinity Evangelical and Reformed Church, about six miles from Camp David.

TOM LYON WANTS TO QUIT DEFENSE JOB

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Tom Lyon wants to quit his post with the Defense Material Procurement Agency, reportedly because he is "discouraged and disgusted" by the events that led to withdrawal of his nomination to be Bureau of Mines director.

However, General Services Administrator Edward F. Mansure, who also heads DMPA, told reporters today he has persuaded Lyon to stay on as acting deputy administrator until a replacement can be found.

Mansure indicated he is having trouble locating a suitable replacement. The job pays about $15,000 a year.

Lyon, a 65-year-old Salt Lake City mining engineer, was nominated by President Eisenhower for the Mine Bureau post on recommendation of Secretary of the Interior McKay and mine industry groups.

He disclosed that he is getting an annual $5000 revocable pension form the Aanaconda Copper Mining Co., for which he worked for 34 years, and that he dislikes the new federal mine safety law, which he would have had to administer as Mine Bureau chief.

This stirred up strong opposition in the senate committee and Eisenhower formally withdrew Lyon's name at his own request. No new nomination has been made.

Edward R. Sweeney, Lincoln Hotel, 2228 Olive street, was slashed, beaten and robbed yesterday by three youths who were arrested a short time later and identified by Sweeney as his attackers.

Sweeney said he was walking in the 2200 block of Olive when the three youths slashed him on the chest, knocked him down and kicked him. They took his wallet containing $22. Sweeney, a sheet metal worker, was being treated at City Hospital when police arrested the three youths at Eighteenth street and Franklin avenue.

Gallant Attempt on New Summer Show

By John Crosby

NEW YORK, July 6.

JOHN CROSBY

It was one of those stories in which a character is held, poised from the outset, on the brink of tragedy while a series of flash-backs tell you what it is all about. A traveling salesman (Eddie Albert) is rushing home to his wife who is in pretty rough shape after giving birth to baby. Another traveling salesman (Henry Jours) offers him quiet sympathy and understanding. Long before the train gets to his destination, you are made aware that the wife is already dead. Still, he keeps pouring out the story of his marriage to the other traveling salesman, as if the girl were still alive, though the other man knows very well she isn't.

THAT'S ALL there was to it. I can see where it must have been a very effective short story of its particular genre. But it wasn't, I'm afraid, very effective as a television play—in spite of fine performances by Albert and Jours—because it violated certain dramatic rules which are inviolable. The story was all over before it began. A short story writer can get away with this because he has illimitable space to move around in; the television dramatist, imprisoned by four walls, hasn't that freedom. He has to go somewhere.

Still, it was a gallant try and I hope Davis and Mathews won't be frightened away from mood plays because it didn't come off. Mirror Theater is one of the more ambitious summer replacements, taking the first half-hour of the Milton Berle spot (KSD-TV 7 p.m., Tuesdays), Tuesdays).

THE SHOW'S SPONSOR, Revlon, sells lipstick, and for this purpose they have hired a young lady named Mary Kay to stir up trade.

I used to sit up till midnight some years ago to watch Miss Kay who was then employed by one of the local TV stations to sign off for the night and to tell all the wondrous things in store for us on that station the following day.

The sheer girlish exuberance Miss Kay used to evince—a little evincement music, maestro—over the next day's cooking program left me limp with admiration. Such fluttering of eyelashes. Such heaving of bosom. Such breathless rapture. And all over a cooking program. What, I kept asking myself, would happen to this girl if she really lost her heart to something a little more substantial than a cooking program?

Well, she's lost it— to Revlon. Now the little breathless sighs, the fluttering eyelashes, the pitter patter of little speech are all devoted to the greater glories of a lipstick that boasts it won't rub off even under the most severe provocation. The big thing in the commercial field these days is the contest between the sponsor's product and two other "ordinary," as they say, products.

JUST BEFORE the first act on another show, an announcer takes a Kent cigarette and two "ordinary" cigarettes and runs them through a filter—or some such thing—to find out which cigarette leaves the least trail of nicotine. Then we, the audience, are left dangling in suspense while they run through the first act. Who will win, the Kent or the "ordinary" cigarette? I've been betting against Kent, because you can get terrific odds—but I haven't won yet.

Well, the Revlon people are staging a similar contest between Revlon and two "ordinary" lipsticks to see which one is the most imperishable, and again we have to sit out a whole act before we find out who won. (Revlon won the first fall easy, but it's early in the season yet.)

THE UNREMOVABILITY of lipstick is its biggest selling point, I guess, because the Hazel Bishop people are on the same tack on the "Candid Camera" program. There, Don Ameche rubs lipsticks, one "ordinary," one Hazel Bishop—on a young lady's palm and then demonstrates that the "ordinary" rubs right off, the Hazel Bishop is as indestructible as the Pyramids. A fine thing! What's that girl going to do—go through life with that smear of lipstick on her right hand?

"Candid Camera," incidentally, has not changed a bit, which is its grave trouble. Originally, it was supposed to catch people, unaware, just being themselves. The trouble is that Allen Funt, who owns it, insists on making a practical joke out of it. He stations himself in a jail and bullies a waiter who doesn't bring him a knife with his meal; he talks double talk to a couple of kids who have put dimes in a soft-drink machine without getting anything for it; he torments a man who is just trying to get a suitcase repaired.

In those circumstances, everyone acts just like everyone else—confused, irritated, baffled. It's the same thing over and over again and its getting dull.

AMMUNITION DUMP BLOWS UP

Added starters in holiday weekend pyrotechnical displays, exploding shells light up the sky over an ammunition dump at Chicago last night. The explosions were heard for miles and falling shell fragments rained down on nearby residential areas but there were no casualties. The dump was one of several maintained by the Forty-fifth Anti-Aircraft Brigade, a Chicago air defense unit. A sentry reported the blast was touched off by lightning.

This perky 5-year-old named Skippy is the current Dog of the Week at the Humane Society Shelter. He is of a breed which is a little off the beaten track—the American Toy Terrier, which is recognized by some, but not all, kennel clubs as a standard breed. Recognized or not, Skippy is rated highly at the shelter, 1210 Macklind avenue, where he is available for adoption. Applications should be made in person.

SWEEPING GREETING A greeting with a few added flourishes is extended by Air Force Sgt. Herbert Barnes Jr. of Savannah, Ga., as he sweeps Italian beauty Rita Stazi off her feet on her arrival at New York's International Airport yesterday. Miss Stazi, a 20-year-old blonde, is en route to Long Beach, Calif., where she will compete as Miss Italy in the Miss Universe beauty contest this week. She met Barnes in England last year and, after winning the Miss Italy contest last week, told reporters she had entered it only in the hope of "seeing Herbert again."

OVERLOOKED BY FAMILY

M'CARTHY STATUE DEFACED

A Baltimore police patrol early today found that lipstick and crayon work, including a swastika, had been smeared on this monument dedicated July 4 to Senator Joseph R. Bright, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, set up the 8-foot granite monument in front of his salesroom.

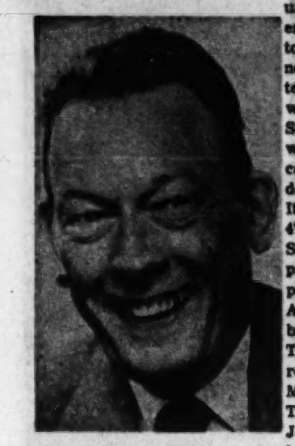
The Voice Of Broadway

By Dorothy Kilgallen

NEW YORK.

MARLON BRANDO has rung down the curtain on his romance with Movita—an idyll that lasted for several seasons, despite heavy interference by all the other girls who think Marlon's The Most. . . . Fred Allen's a casual one in this hot weather. He's doing the midtown bistros without a necktie, and hasn't encountered an adamant headwaiter yet. . . . I can't STAND it! Broadway soon will have a new place called — are you sitting down? — The Pickelodeon. It will feature pickles from 47 countries including Siam, and the Polish pickles will be more expensive than steak. . . . Anita Roddy Eden, the buxom blonde who was Tommy Manville's most recent wife, still loves that Manville name obviously. The snazzy cocoa-colored Jaguar parked in front of her Sutton place apartment every day has "Anita Manville" printed in in bold letters on both doors.



FRED ALLEN . . NO NECKTIE NOW

TOPS IN TOWN: Ella Fitzgerald's new Decca biscuit, "Angel Eyes." . . . Georgie Kaye's "mad psychiatrist" routine at the Versailles. . . . "Love Me, Love Me," the way Bobby Wayne does it for Mercury. . . . Oliver Wakefield's brittle humor at the Bon Soir. . . . Lionel Hampton and his wild and wonderful crew at the Bandbox. (Don't leave until they do "Flyin' Home!")

★ ★ ★

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT'S wedding present to the DiBonaventuras was a valuable candelabra, which she bought before she took off for the Far East. . . . The movie based on Glenn Miller's life will not attempt to explain the mystery connected with the bandleader's death. As in the Will Rogers story, Miller will be shown taking off on the fatal flight from London, and that's how the picture will end. . . . Screening audiences are saying nice things about the film version of "Stalag 17" and Bill Holden's performance in it.

★ ★ ★

Plot Changes, Mostly on Comic Side Made for 'Long, Long Trailer'

By Thomas Wood

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, July 6.

ON the sound theory that "if you can't beat them, join them," the movie studios have apparently decided to extend the olive branch to the television industry. And M-G-M—a studio which discourages TV work by its contract players—apparently has pulled the biggest coup to date in signing TV's top team, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, to make a movie.

The film, now before the cameras, is "The Long, Long Trailer," a dramatization of the best-seller of two years ago by the late Clement (Buddy) Twiss and the production is somewhat unusual in that both Arnaz and Miss Ball play characters in the story rather than themselves.

In its translation to the screen, the plot has been altered considerably. The book, which sold some 250,000 copies and was also condensed by The Reader's Digest, was an amusing, first-person account of the experiences encountered by a mature couple on a trailer trip across this country and down to Mexico.

THE film shortens the trip and trims down the ages of the travelers. Arnaz and Miss Ball play newlyweds who take a honeymoon trip by trailer from Los Angeles to Colorado, where he is to take a job as construction engineer. To account for his rather pronounced Cuban accent, the name of the character he plays has been changed to Nicholas Carolos Collini.

Aside from the physical considerations, the chief reason for the plot changes was to increase the film's comic potential. Wedding nights, for example, have always offered hilarious possibilities to Hollywood script writers, and the one depicted in "The Long, Long Trailer" is not likely to be any exception.

In this sequence Miss Ball and Arnaz, following their wedding, have stopped overnight in a trailer camp. In a romantic moment, he picks up his bride to carry her across the threshold of their mobile home. Word promptly spreads through the camp that the new arrival has sprained her ankle and the trailerites being impulsive and helpful, descend upon the couple en masse. Despite her protests they force all sorts of remedies upon her, and end up by giving her a sleeping pill to relieve the pain.

Although the picture is certain to give an exaggerated account of trailer life, it is being made with the wholehearted cooperation of the trailer industry. More than 25 trailers of assorted sizes were lent to the production for the trailer camp scenes. In addition, one trailer company presented the stars with a specially-built, 40-foot trailer, which has a professional make-up table in the rear and a complete nursery amidships for their well advertised child.

During shooting, Arnaz and Miss Ball are using the trailer as a dressing room. After the picture is finished, they'll probably take it to their own TV studio for the same purpose, as that's about all they can use it for. It's so long that it exceeds the legal limit for trailers in California. Any time they want to move it, they'll have to hire a commercial hauler and get a special permit from the highway commission.

THE cast of the movie also includes Marjorie Main, Keenan Wynn and Gladys Hurlbut, the actress-turned-author whose book, "Next Week, East Lynn," is scheduled to appear in musical form on Broadway next fall. The film is being directed by Vincente Minnelli and produced by Pandro S. Berman.

Although the picture, which is being made in technicolor and wide screen, is being shot in the surprisingly short time of 26 days, the schedule is snail-paced in comparison to television production (the average half-hour show in TV is made in three days.) Wags have had considerable fun with this relaxed timetable, pointing out that Arnaz and Miss Ball need the time to count their money.

Actually, there is some truth in the joke. For their appearance in "The Long, Long Trailer," the stars are getting a whopping $250,000. This salary represents a great personal triumph to them, too, because both, at one time in their individual careers, were under contract to M-G-M but never achieved any great recognition there.

MISS BALL fared best. Nine years ago she played a featured role in "Ziegfeld Follies" (produced, incidentally by Berman) and was paid $3000 a week. Arnaz, on the other hand, received only $400 in 1942 for appearing briefly as a dying soldier in "Bataan."

Now, though their rate of pay—spread over a 10-week guaranty—boils down to $25,000 a week (representing a raise of nearly 300 per cent). The money is not paid to them personally but to a company they own which, in this instance, is lending their services to M-G-M.

This company is called Desilu. So far as its activities are concerned the movie deal is a minor transaction and the $250,000 a drop in the bucket.

Its chief product of course, is the "I Love Lucy" television series, and these episodes are now being turned out for CBS-TV under a recently-signed $8,000,000 exclusive contract. But other pies in which the company has its fingers are a newly-organized movie company (called Lion Productions) and the filming of four other television programs, including the Jack Benny and Danny Thomas shows, "Our Miss Brooks," starring Eve Arden, and the forthcoming "Letters to Loretta," starring Loretta Young.

All in all, it's a fantastic operation. Desilu is turning out more films than M.-G.-M. It's pretty obvious that if the time is ripe for Hollywood to make peace with television, the studios are nuzzling up to the right outfit.

Designing Woman — Hidden Shelves

By Elizabeth Hillyer

OPEN shelves are all very well for good looking books and handsome art objects. They can be beautifully arranged and kept orderly to decorate the room all the time.

But most households need extra shelves to tuck up odds and ends, and much too much accumulation to arrange decoratively.

Here's an idea for them that looks as if it were no more than a nice draping of window and wall. Shelves are built on both sides of a window to the full width of a narrow wall. Curtains that are easy to draw make the shelves easily accessible, and the door cabinet built in under the window might be made into a window seat, or a radiator attractively enclosed might be there instead.

A shelf over the window top completes the picture of a lot of valuable storage convenience in little space.

'See the Baby'

By Frances Ilg, M.D., and Louise Ames, Ph.D.

of the Gesell Institute of Child Development

"SEE THE BABY!" says mama or papa as she (or he) holds the baby up in front of the mirror, and watches his reactions.

If you have a baby in your household, you have probably tried this yourself. Whether you have or not, it is extremely interesting to most parents to watch the child's reaction change from complete indifference, to brief regard, to experimental fingering of the mirrored image and, finally, to vigorous social play with and sometimes even kissing of the image. Some babies even make faces at their own mirrored image and then watch to see what the mirror baby will do.

Observing the manner in which the baby responds to his image as he is seated before a mirror is one of the many tests we give to the babies who are brought to us at the Gesell Institute. Mirror behavior, like most other behaviors, develops in a patterned and orderly manner. And it is enough alike for the majority of babies of any given age to make the baby's reaction to the mirror one of our good clues as to whether or not he is developing normally.

24 weeks: Regards image of own face. Also pats the mirror and regards hands as they touch the mirror. Feet may also touch the mirror.

36 weeks: Very free and active visual behavior. Baby regards his surroundings, regards hand as it contacts mirror, or just regards hand. Playful approach. Exploits rather than explores.

44 weeks: Touches mirror, then withdraws hand and regards image of withdrawing hand. Much regard for examiner and examiner's image.

48 weeks: Intent regard for mirror. More sober than earlier, and may cry. Less actual physical contact with mirror, but considerable general postural activity, and may lean forward to bring face near the glass. Also much regard for examiner.

52 weeks: Behavior now extremely social and playful in a personal way. May play patacake with the mirror or may even kiss the mirrored baby. Appears to see his whole image and not just separate parts of his body as at earlier stages.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

DATES are no problem for some high schoolers. It's the lack of dates that makes them sing the blues . . . girls who never seem to meet dateable boys, as in this letter, for example:

"I am a high school freshman and my girl friends and I would like to know where we could go to meet some fellows. We attend an all-girls high school and go to different school dances, but we can't seem to get acquainted. On the whole we are all attractive."

Answer—It's fine to be "attractive, fun and have a nice personality"—but it doesn't do much good unless you have a chance to meet boys, does it?

Since you can't meet them in school, let's look for other possibilities of meeting the kind of boys you'd like to know and have as friends. First, you'll have to go where they are, but this doesn't mean a public "hang-out" such as the corner soda shop. Instead, try these:

1—Church groups for young people. These usually meet weekly and have programs that are fun. They give you a chance to meet other girls and boys your age under the right circumstances.

2—Sports. Learn outdoor sports such as tennis and swimming and you'll meet boys who also enjoy them.

3—Community organizations. Perhaps there's a teen club or a junior service club in your community. Or a girls' club that has "co-ed" doings. Or possibly the Y.W.C.A. or a similar organization.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Out on "Parole."

THIS word parole is out of the late Latin "paraula," which took the place of the Latin "verbum," word. That is what it means—to this day in French, as formerly in English—a word or oral utterance. The French have retained in present-day conversation another use of the term formerly current in English, namely, "parole" as one's word of honor.

"Parole" is in Blackstone for its sense in law as an oral declaration. It had special meaning in military parlance as well. The "parole" was the watchword given only to officers of guards in Britain, as distinguished from the countersign, given to all guards. As in law, the word was sometimes spelled without the "e"—"parol." Also there was "parol arrest," arrest on a verbal order, and "parol contract," that is, an oral contract.

Among the military, "parole," had all the force of the "word of honor," standing for a promise to fulfill certain agreements, as for example, not to attack a captor, or to return to custody under whatever terms might have been agreed on.

The extension to "parole" as the verb we know, signifying to set at liberty, as a prisoner is "paroled," is perhaps clarified by an allusion such as Macaulay's to a man who had "forfeited his military parole." That is the line of descent from the simple word.

Secrets of Charm — Motor Trip Tips

THERE is a very good chance that you may be one of the 62,000,000 persons who is expected to take motor trips this summer. Whether you finish your trip fresh and rested or arrive disheveled and exhausted depends largely on your travel wisdom.

What kind of preparations do you make when you answer the call of the open road? Instead of resulting in a thrilling, satisfying experience, wanderlust turns to "wanderlost" unless you travel with due regard to your comfort as well as your safety.

Before starting, pack a comfort kit consisting of lotions and potions to keep you daisy-fresh. Along with your usual cosmetics, include small plastic squeeze bottles of mild soap suds, skin freshener and hand lotion. Also include cotton or gauze pads for application, some paper towels, eye-soothing drops, a miniature comb and brush, cooling cologne and sun glasses.

A SMALL PILLOW, a car-throw, thermos of cold water and a snack of fresh fruits plus your favorite tidbits will provide both ease and refreshment along the way, helping to keep you alert for safe driving and also so comfortable that you'll enjoy points of interest en-route.

But nothing contributes more to happy motoring than a relaxed attitude. Unless you are at the wheel, resolve to sit back and relax. Make up your mind not to "mastermind" the driving. If you hold your breath at every passing car or mentally put on the brakes at each crossing, your tension will build into fatigue before you've been on the road an hour. And, since tension is catching, you may so disturb the driver that you'll really have something to fidget about.

★ ★ ★

IF YOU have difficulty relaxing when someone else is driving, take something along to divert your attention. Many women find knitting a soothing influence. Maps or travel folders explaining the points of interest along the route provide an interesting source of diversion and conversation that not only relieve boredom but contribute greatly to the value you get from your trip.

Beware, though, of keeping up a steady stream of chatter. It can easily fray everyone's nerves—your own, the driver's and any other occupants of the car. Long flashes of silence make for restfulness and everybody's mental ease.

Put these suggestions into practice and you'll come through a trip looking and feeling as if you had spent the time in a beauty salon!

WITH SOME PREPARATION FOR YOUR NEXT MOTOR TRIP YOU CAN ARRIVE LOVELY AND FRESH.

To achieve grace of the highest degree—to make yours the posture ideal—to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "Your Posture." For a copy write to Secrets of Charm in care of the Post-Dispatch, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in coin to help cover cost.

Fruit Beverages

It's fine if your small fry drink lots of fruit beverages in hot weather; but don't let these cool drinks replace the milk children need in their diets every day.

That nutritious and economical vegetable, kale, now comes prepackaged in 10-ounce transparent film bags. Cook kale just as you would spinach and season it with salt, pepper and melted butter or margarine.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha:

IN REGARD to your answer to "Office" concerning young girls wearing backless dresses to work: I have worn them and will continue to do so as long as we have to suffer without air conditioning. We girls in the office do feel that this is not proper office attire but how do you keep cool when the temperature in the office is 101 degrees? Our dresses are not low cut in the front but are backless. Until we get air conditioning, this is our way of striking back. It seems that it is almost impossible to work when it is so hot. Why can't employers realize this? In my opinion the writer of the letter signed "Office" who criticized sunback dresses certainly doesn't know what it is to work in a really sweltering office.

SECRETARY.

It's really up to the employer whether he will permit backless dresses to be worn in the office, and probably those who have not been able to provide air conditioning are willing to make a few concessions to comfort. Many sunback fashions, of course, are attractive and certainly not immodest, but I do think they are not appropriate for street and business wear as a general rule. However—in the case of a sweltering office and 101-degree temperature—I can easily see why they might be the choice costumes in a business girl's wardrobe.

IN ANSWER TO a Reader: Surely your parents feel they have good reason for asking you not to write to this boy. Perhaps they think you are too young to become seriously interested in him. I realize that you are caught in a very unhappy situation, but I can't advise you to go against your parents' wishes. Don't go behind their backs, but try to find out just why it is they have asked you not to write to him. If you approach them without resentment, surely they will be honest with you and give you a frank answer. Then try to see their side of the question also.

IN ANSWER TO Confused and Lonesome: It may seem that your friends have suddenly turned against you, but this wouldn't be logical if you haven't quarreled. Don't let yourself be hurt or offended, but just keep on being friendly and kind to them. If they've gone away temporarily — which I honestly doubt—they'll be back.

If you can't think of a name for that newcomer to the household, why not send for Martha Carr's leaflet of baby names, listing several suggestions for both boys and girls. Please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Being an Adult

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

OUT in the world among men, battling for a livelihood, winning honors and making the community respect him, a husband may gain the reputation of being pretty much of a he-man; virile, solid against the winds of adversity. A pillar of strength, this fellow.

But ask his wife about him. What's this? He's a great big overgrown baby around the house? Unbelievable! Yet Mrs. P. is here to give testimony that this very thing is quite possible.

"HE'S A SUCCESSFUL automobile salesman," she informs me, "and I suppose he must behave well when he's out with other men, because he is very popular with them—is always being elected officer of his lodge, or the American Legion, or captain of the bowling team, or some such honor, which proves, I suppose, that men think well of him.

"They don't get the picture of him that I do. Around the house he's a regular baby. He fusses and fumes about nothing at all, comes running to me for sympathy if he sticks his finger with a pin, and leaves his things all over the place just like a child that never wants to pick up his toys.

"Are all men like that, Dr. Popenoe? Maybe you'll be embarrassed to answer this question frankly—if so, perhaps you could get your wife to answer it for you."

★ ★ ★

ANY MAN who has helped to bring up four children, as I have, should have gotten over being embarrassed by questions, Mrs. P.; and I think my wife would agree with me (and with you) that most men—and most women—are pretty childish a good deal of the time. You might check your husband—but first check yourself—on this little rating scale:

1. Do you ever cry yourself to sleep? YES. NO.
2. Do you sometimes feel that you are very wicked? YES. NO.
3. Do you occasionally giggle over nothing at all? YES. NO.
4. Are you afraid during a thunderstorm? YES. NO.
5. Do you ever feel that nobody loves you? YES. NO.
6. Do you like to smash and break things such as old glass or empty bottles? YES. NO.
7. Are you apt to believe anything that someone tells you with great assurance? YES. NO.
8. Do you enjoy sounding your automobile horn, even to no purpose? YES. NO.
9. Do you find it impossible to sit still and not fidget? YES. NO.
10. Do you sometimes wish that you had never been born? YES. NO.

★ ★ ★

EVERY YES ANSWER is infantile, Mrs. P., and if you have a majority of them, you ought to grow up. If you want to measure your place a little more precisely, write for my self-rating scale, "Just How Adult Are You?" It will be sent with the compliments of the Post-Dispatch if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Finally, treat your husband as if he were an adult. It may help him.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A YOUNG girl sends me this very familiar clothes problem: "My family have a cottage at the seashore where we spend the entire summer. The village is a rather small one and a large number of the people here are summer residents. Whenever I go into the village I usually wear what I happen to have on. Very often it is blue jeans or shorts. Mother objects to my going into the village dressed in this manner. I could understand her objecting to this if we were in a city, but considering it is predominantly a seaside resort, don't you think she is being overstrict?"

To be truthful, I doubt if I can give an unbiased answer. The reason is that my own vivid memories of the entrancing summer dresses worn by the "beautiful" women of yesterday, have made me personally dislike the sloppy costumes of today—such as blue jeans.

Ellington Group Explores Large Cave in Shannon County, Finds an Underground Fairyland of Calcite Formations — and That a Youngster Had Been There First

By J. Loyd Huett

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ELLINGTON, Mo., July 6.

CAVES and their confused and intricate systems of underground passages contain mysteries and strange natural phenomena within their dark depths to fascinate the curious, satisfy the appetite for beauty, and provide ample material for study by the scientific minded.

And while providing mental exercise and diversion, cave exploration, or spelunking, also requires considerable vigorous physical activity.

The Salem Plateau area of the Missouri Ozarks contains one of the greatest concentrations of underground water systems and their accompanying maze of subterranean labyrinths to be found anywhere on earth.

Most of the Ozark caves are "live" caves, or have living streams flowing through them and constantly growing calcite formations called stalactites and stalagmites.

These calcite formations occur in truly fantastic forms, ranging from the most delicate imaginable lacework, so fragile that a touch shatters them, to stupendous masses weighing tons and just as delicately and artistically sculptured.

Entering a cave which has not been artificially improved for commercial exploitation and in which the vandal instinct has not brought about extensive breakage of the calcite formations, the spelunker finds himself transported into an underground fairyland.

That Ozark labyrinths appeal strongly to all ages was attested recently when five Ellington men set aside a day and made careful preparations for penetrating a large Shannon county cave as far as possible for a man to crawl.

Leslie (Les) Sanders, local barber and cave prowler of some repute, led the Ellington group into the cave. Les had once spent six full hours in this same cave and penetrated a distance estimated at two miles from the entrance without finding anything to indicate that he was anywhere near it's end.

Accompanying Sanders on the spelunking expedition were Fred Whitte, district forester for the Deer Run Fire Protection District; T. R. Smith, conservationist and former agriculture teacher; Dow Jenkins, G.I. vocational agriculture instructor, and this writer, armed with a camera, a gadget bag full of flash bulbs and camera accessories and a gasoline lantern.

FOR nearly three hours, the five-man group walked, scrambled and waded — and sometimes crawled—until they finally reached the place where they could find no passageway which would permit them to go farther, only to find evidence that a 15-year-old boy had preceded them to that point by more than three years. The evidence consisted of a cardboard sign reading: "Gene Smith, age 15, Owls Bend, Mo., was here March 23, 1950." It was something of an anti-climax, but clearly showed that adventure knows no age limits.

The entrance to the cave is not a pretentious one. The opening is probably 20 feet wide, with a ceiling barely permitting upright entrance by a man of average height, and gives no hint of the splendid grandeur to be found within.

To the right as you enter, a considerable stream of cold sparkling water emerges as a spring to flow down a hollow to the river about a half mile away. Within the cave, this stream must be forded or portaged around constantly from the point of entrance to the farthest point of penetration.

For the first 200 or 300 yards no single stalactite or stalagmite remains undamaged, having been chipped or removed bodily by souvenir hunters. Such vandalism is less frequent as deeper penetration is made, until after some 20 minutes of travel the damage to formations is minor.

In fact, the calciferous growths deep within the cavern are for the most part too massive to be broken from the floor or ceiling and almost impossible of transportation to the outside if successfully broken loose.

After about a half hour of travel time and three fordings of the stream, we came to a ledge covered deeply in red clay, containing about a dozen depressions of about eight inches in depth and ranging from three to six feet in diameter. The depressions are similar in size and shape to the beds or wallows dug by hogs in the damp earth near a pond or stream.

Over the entire clay-covered shelf and equally distributed over the animal beds grows a coating of brownish gray cave fungus as evidence of the many decades which have passed since this ledge was the home of a number of large animals.

These animal beds, the existence of which has been known by a few local residents for at least 50 years, are called "bear beds." To one who has seen the depressions there seems no reason to question that hibernating bear made those beds 60 or more years ago.

From the entrance to about a half mile back in the cave are well-worn paths in the sand and mud containing hundreds of plainly identifiable bob-cat tracks. Bob-cats or American lynx are numerous in the vicinity. The wild cats use the smaller, dry tributary passages as dens.

As our party alternately forded the stream, which occupied much of the floor of the cave, and portaged around the deeper places by climbing over the rough shelving sides of the cavern, we found the stream bed and banks to be made up of increasingly coarser material.

Near the entrance we found the floor of the cave and the stream bed covered with a thick layer of slick mud. Next came fine sand and later coarse gravel.

AT something like a half mile back inside the cave, the stream took on quite the same characteristics as a surface stream, with sandy or gravelly beaches alternating with bluffs of solid limestone or chert.

At one point, for several yards along the right bank of the stream, what appeared to be a beach of coarse vari-colored gravel proved to be a solid mass of conglomerate—stones of various sizes, shapes and colors cemented into a solid mass by a deposit of hardened calcite.

About an hour and a half after entering the cave, a loud deafening roar began to demand our attention. In the close confines of the cave, with more than an hour separating us from escape to the outside, the roar was somewhat frightening. It seemed that nothing less than a flash flood rushing through the rocky labyrinth could make such a sound.

The fearsome noise was explained on our arrival at a small waterfall, where the stream dropped off a three-foot ledge into a deep pool. It was a mighty small waterfall to be making such a giant sized noise.

The floor of the cave at that point was hard chert through which a honeycomb of holes and small passages had been eroded over the ages. It was really the pouring of most of the stream through this honeycomb of holes underneath the main floor of the cave, which the acoustic qualities of the cave had magnified into a really terrifying sound.

Prior to reaching the waterfall, a number of fish of about four inches in length, and apparently completely blind, were seen in the stream. These fish were brownish gray in color and closely resembled the repulsive little fish found in surface streams and locally called hogmollies. Close examination under good light revealed rudimentary indications of eyes as small white spots under the skin.

It was near this point that we also found a similarly blind salamander. This little reptile was almost transparent and had small white dots where eyes should have been.

From the waterfall, another 30 minutes of now sharply upgrade walking brought us to a point where the larger passage sloped steeply upward in a narrowing chimney of boulders and cherty soil.

There were indications that we were quite near the surface possibly on the other side of the mountain under which we had been traveling.

★ ★ ★

IT was noticibly warmer here than at the lower level, but no light could be seen from above the chimney and no opening was large enough for us to proceed farther. Smoke from our cigarettes drifted downward through the chimney toward the main cave below, rather than upward as we might logically have expected in evidence of a slight air drainage through the porous earth.

Just a few hundred feet before we entered the chimney like tunnel, the stream which had up to that point followed the main floor of the cave, disappeared in a passageway having a ceiling so low that it could be followed only a short distance by stooping. The ceiling soon became so low that only by crawling or swimming could further penetration be made. Under such circumstances no lights would have been possible.

But to this point of deepest penetration, the stream had not seemed to diminish even slightly in depth or flow. We had not discovered the source of the underground stream nor found the real end of the cave, but the entire party is confident that while others may penetrate the mountain as far as we did, none will go farther.

We started back to the outside and late in the afternoon saw the rainbow hue of daylight shining through the mistiness of the cave entrance, just 4 hours and 15 minutes from the time we stepped through the dark curtain which separates modern civilization from the time zone of the pre-cave man era.

ANGEL WING AND VEIL FORMATIONS OF ALMOST PURE WHITE, SUCH AS THOSE PICTURED HERE, ARE COMMON IN MOST OZARK CAVES. THE STREAM WHICH FLOWS UNDER THESE FORMATIONS IS CRYSTAL CLEAR.

Staining Wood Shingles.

NO doubt about it, when it comes to a finish for wood shingles, either on the roof or on the sidewalls, you can't beat a good wood stain. Paint, of course, can be used on sidewall shingles, but it's sort of difficult to apply and it may peel or blister.

Another advantage of stain is that most stains do contain a wood preservative and that means that not only does the stain provide a nice bit of color but also increases the life span of the shingles.

Now the only question left to answer is how to apply the stain. Well, the best way is to dip the shingles in a big container of stain and then set them out to dry but this can only be done before the shingles are applied. Dip staining is not only fast but it insures all the shingles being coated rather than just the exposed area.

Once shingles are in place they can be stained with a spray gun or brush. A spray gun is much faster than the brush method. If a brush is used, be sure that it is not a very good or new one for the rough texture of the shingles will wear the bristles down quickly.

Stain should be applied rather generously so that the wood has a chance to soak up all it wants. In this way the shingles get the most out of the preservative element in the stain and it also insures an even coating. If the stain is applied lightly you may find that when it dries out the coating is rather uneven.

5♥	Pass	5N.T.	Pass
6♦	Pass	6N.T.	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's final choice of six no-trump, rather than six hearts. was peculiar, since this was rubber bridge, but as it happened, two slam contracts had equal chances.

West led the diamond ten. South won and led a low heart. West did not reveal his holding by putting in the jack or queen, and when dummy's king brought nothing but a low club from East, South was too shocked to recover from the blow. (He could have done so by stripping the hand and getting West into an eventual heart throw-in.)

Leaving aside the matter of recovery, the pertinent fact is that South did not give himself the best chance. His first move should have been to investigate the spade situation. With every suit amply controlled, there was no great hurry about running or establishing hearts.

After taking a spade finesse and assuring himself of two quick spade tricks, South could well afford to use a safety play in the heart suit, to guard against two losers in that vital quarter. This safety play would consist of leading a low heart from either hand and, if the defender in turn followed suit, to play the eight or nine from the closed hand or dummy, respectively.

This would assure South of four heart tricks, which, with two spades, three diamonds and three clubs, would be quite enough for the contract. Only if the spade finesse failed, should South go all-out for five heart tricks.

Bride-Elect Honored at Parties

PARTIES are announced for Miss Nancy Ellen Paddock, who Aug. 1 will become the bride of Charles Edward Eberle. The prospective bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Richard Paddock, 6154 Westminster place, at whose home the ceremony will be performed. Her fiance's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Eberle, Warren, Mo.

Mrs. Wendell G. Scott, 4952 Maryland avenue, was first to honor the bride-elect. On May 22 at Bellerive Country Club she had a luncheon and miscellaneous shower. This was followed by a similar affair which Mrs. Eugene S. Williams gave May 27 at her home, 104 West Swon avenue, Webster Groves. Dr. and Mrs. Scott have since departed for a vacation in Europe, as has Mrs. Williams.

Last Thursday, Miss Paddock and a group of her contemporaries were entertained at a luncheon given at the Chase Hotel by Mrs. Richard C. Bradley, 318 Gill avenue, Kirkwood, and Mrs. Bradley's daughter, Mrs. G. S. Suppiger Jr. On Friday Mrs. Leonard T. Furlow was hostess at a luncheon and shower at her home, 21 Fair Oaks, Ladue.

Additional events will include a swimming and supper party July 17 which Mr. and Mrs. John Mesker will have at their home on Old Jamestown road, St. Louis county; a picnic supper July 24 by Mrs. J. DeWitt Mills, 7537 Stanford avenue, University City, and Mrs. Horace M. Gillman, 23 Brighton Way, Clayton, at Mrs. Mills's home; a picnic July 26 being planned by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. English, 7452 Cromwell drive, Clayton, at their farm in Pacific, Mo., at which Miss Paddock will share honors with Miss Joan Gummels, fiance of Rowland Burnstan Jr., Princeton, N.J.; the spinster dinner which Mrs. Robert Krieder (Esther Sunnen), and her mother, Mrs. Joseph Sunnen, will give at Mrs. Sunnen's home, 400 South Warson road, Ladue, and the rehearsal dinner July 31 with the bridegroom's parents as host and hostess. The time and place of this last party are still undecided.

After the service, scheduled for 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Paddock will have a reception at the University Club.

Hansen-Ferguson Wedding Plans

A WEDDING scheduled for Wednesday at the Church of St. Michael and St. George, will be that of Miss Shirley Patricia Ferguson, daughter of Mrs. Ernest N. Ferguson Jr., 27 Topton way, Clayton, to Jack Anton Hansen, a radar technician in the Navy. The prospective bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Hansen, 7528 Parkdale avenue, Clayton, arrived home Friday from Korea where he spent a year on active duty. The latter part of this month he will depart for San Diego, Calif., to report to his ship the U.S.S. Torotuga.

Miss Ferguson and her fiance, who announced their engagement better than a year ago, will have the following young people as attendants: Miss Nell Lay Nugent, maid of honor; William M. Penney Jr., best man, and John C. Elliott, Paul C. Kusterer and Edward A. Dwyer, ushers.

The 8 o'clock service will be performed by the Rev. Dr. J. Francis Sant, and subsequently, members of the bridal party and the immediate families will attend a reception at Le Chateau.

Among parties honoring the engaged pair will be the rehearsal dinner tomorrow night which Mrs. Jack C. Hensley, sister of the bridegroom-elect will give at her home, Conway road, Ladue.

St. Louis Group In New York for Short Visits

By Frances Conant Richards

NEW YORK, July 6.

MR. AND MRS. LANSDEN McCANDLESS sailed on the Elizabeth Wednesday morning. They had a fast dinner and theater date Tuesday night with Mrs. O'Neill Ryan Jr. (the former Julia Tyler of St. Louis), then took off for the docks about 9 a.m. Wednesday. Snaring a cab around the midtown area that morning was a bit rough, but, as usual, the drivers had it all figured out as to who was to blame. This time they blamed it on the small fry—thousands of boys and girls ganging up at both railroad stations to catch their camp specials.

Traffic around the Cunard pier was intense when Eleanor and Lansden drove up with their luggage. The Independence, Ile de France and Elizabeth all took off from nearby piers that day, and hullabaloo is a tame word for what happened along the shores of the Hudson at sailing time. Mr. and Mrs. McCandless will spend some time in and around Lucerne and other parts of Switzerland, then go on down to Italy. They will be away two months, coming home on the Mauretania the end of August.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee I. Niedringhaus and their children have been near New York but actually didn't touch that town on this trip. They motored east last week and spent a night in Bedford, N.Y., with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Niedringhaus, en route to Nantucket for the summer.

A wonderful time at "Wonderful Town" sums up the opinions of Mrs. John Cella and her daughter, Eloise, about last Tuesday night which they spent across the footlights from Rosalind Russell. Patricia Durey, a friend of Eloise's from Stamford, was with them for dinner and the theater.

Eloise recently visited a Smith College classmate in Cleveland and met her mother in New York for warm-weather shopping and to see some shows. In September Eloise will make her debut at a reception with a garden dance afterward.

The Cellas missed by one night seeing the Truman family en masse. The former President and Mrs. Truman, Margaret and their hosts, New York's Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Samuel Rosenman, saw Rosalind Monday night, then were whisked up to the St. Regis roof for a bit of music. Mr. Truman beamed as the orchestra struck up "Missouri Waltz."

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blabon II (Lily Busch Magnus) were here for less than 24 hours, following the "get-out-of-town" motto most St. Louisans have adopted because of the Fourth of July holiday, the extreme heat and enervating humidity.

Webster Groves

WEBSTER GROVES families vacationing on Lake Hubert, near Nisswa, Minn., attended the opening Friday night of the newly-formed Nisswa Summer Theater, which gave "Father of the Bride" as its first presentation. Robert Johanning, 326 Gray avenue, a guest of the Charles E. Richardson family of St. Louis at the resort, was one of the technical aids for the opening show.

In the audience were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Reichardt, 2 Willow Oak lane, Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar G. Reichardt Jr., 1617 Jonquil drive; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Noxon and their son, Warner, 415 Yorkshire drive; Mrs. George S. Robins, 235 South Elm avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Ramsay, 230 Blackmer place; Mr. and Mrs. John G. Buettner and their children and Mrs. Buettner's mother, Mrs. Florence Brigham, 1155 North Berry road park.

Miss Eleanor Haley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon H. Haley, 651 Oakwood avenue, is spending several weeks in California. Last month she drove west with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Harris, former residents here, who now live in Long Beach, Calif. She joined the Harrises at Rockford, Ill., where they went to see their daughter, Miss Joyce graduated from Rockford College.

* * *

Col. and Mrs. Donald S. Blair, 445 Selma avenue, returned a few days ago from Pensacola, Fla., where they saw their son and daughter-in-law, Lt. (jg) and Mrs. Donald S. Blair Jr. The younger Blairs recently became parents of their first child, a daughter named Cynthia Anne. Col. and Mrs. Blair also visited in Vicksburg, Miss.

* * *

Mrs. Harry F. Roach of Los Angeles, formerly of St. Louis, will conclude a two-week visit here tomorrow with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Roach, 430 Selma avenue. Before returning home the elder Mrs. Roach will visit another son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Douglas Roach in Atlanta, Ga., and her daughter, Mrs. James B. Holston of Evanston, Ill., and the latter's family.

A Tourist's Report

Baby Sitting, Spanish Style

By Inez Robb

SEVILLE, Spain, July 6 (INS).

RIGHT now I can truthfully report that I am currently suffering from the usual tourist summer complaint, i.e., cathedral cramps aggravated by museum metatarsals.

What I have in abundance today is cultural lag, all in my beat-up feet. For the tourist who demands his money's worth in art, architecture, history, literature and scenery, Spain is a "best buy" comparable to France and Italy. And any tourist who wants more than that is superman.

I have toured all the museums from Madrid to Malaga. (If one had the time and the feet for the task, one could spend a rich and rewarding lifetime in Madrid's Prado, no less than in the Louvre or the British Museum.)

And I have "done" all the cathedrals from Toledo to Torremolinos. I can report that they are all in their accustomed places, filled with incomparable beauty. Anyone wishing to know more, please, consult Baedecker. It is all there.

* * *

WHAT I WOULD LIKE to consider today is the Spanish baby-sitter and her relation to Spanish family life. In the first place, the Spanish baby-sitter does not sit and in the second place, she certainly does not stay at home with her charge until the infant's parents gallivant all over town under the delusion of freedom.

There is no more familiar or charming sight in Spain than the Spanish family taking a leisurely stroll in the late afternoon (9 p.m. till midnight). They fill the streets and the parks, once the burning sun has left the sky and man can walk abroad for a breath of air.

No child is too small to be left at home. The baby-sitter, naturally, carries the baby. And if Juan, the next youngest, is just learning to walk, mama—or even a second baby-sitter—pushes him in a stroller. (A baby-sitter by the month, who works all day and half the night, earns from $3.25 to $3.75 a month.)

The whole group, baby, sitter, brothers, sisters, parents, uncles and aunts — always looks placid and happy. Healthy, too.

* * *

THE STOLID Anglo-Saxon who has been conditioned by baby books and experts that say Snookums should be bedded down no later than 6 p.m. may at first take a dim view of such Latin laxity as midnight hours.

But eventually he—meaning me—gets around to taking a good, long look at the Spanish family and Spanish children. And, in all fairness, he must admit that while this regime may be too strenuous for puny American moppets, it works wonders for Spanish offspring.

Because if there are more universally beautiful children in this world than the Spanish tots, I have yet to see them. Whether they live in the gypsy caves in Granada or play in the Retiro Park in Madrid or crowd the streets of Jerez, they all resemble Murillo cherubs. They look loved, scrubbed and full of vitamins.

* * *

ONE MORE WORD about Spanish mores: Scientific worry-warts who predict homo sapiens' eventual loss of his feet, as well as his tonsils and appendix, through lack of use, just don't know the Spanish.

The Spanish are the strollingest race there is. By day and night their streets are crowded with strollers. So long as there is a Spaniard, Shank's Mare is here to stay.

My Day

Visit to Ruins of Old Athens

By Eleanor Roosevelt

ATHENS, Greece.

I THINK the small temple near the American excavations in Athens is a very beautiful one, quite perfect, and while it was done by a rival architect, I understand at the time when the Parthenon was being rebuilt, there was certainly no law in those days against copying, for both men seem to have copied from each other. We lunched with Director Thompson and the group working on the American excavations and we enjoyed it very much.

Mrs. Roosevelt

In the afternoon I saw a delightful young Greek publisher who is a business acquaintance of my son, Johnny. He is interested in the Greek-American corporation to promote the exchange of Greek art and culture with the best things from our own country. They hope, as well, this exchange will grow into industrial and commercial interchange. Greece is a poor country, Mr. Botsis said, but it has many riches both of past and present with which he would like to acquaint other nations.

* * *

ONE FEELS AGE all about one here, ruins everywhere, and not the ruins of the last war only. In the afternoon I drove out to a very charming old eleventh century church with very well-preserved mosaics, some of them very remarkable because they do not seem stylized. Actually the figures seem like living figures that one might meet today in some part of the world.

Back of the little church of Daphni was a green hillside with trees which seemed to be evergreens and which looked lovely, but absolutely nothing grows under them. The hills look bare to me and I suppose this is not the time to expect everything to be spring-like, since no rain seems to fall at this season.

* * *

REAL SUMMER has begun and the Greeks live their lives in a very sensible fashion. The museums close at 2 o'clock. Shops are closed, too, and do not reopen till 5 or later, but they do stay open on Saturdays. From 5:30 on, life begins again. People sit out on the sidewalks drinking and eating. Late into the evening in a square not far from my hotel the tables are filled with people enjoying the cool evening air.

We went out for dinner along the shore and instead of being warm, to my surprise, in the evening breeze everybody was really chilly and we learned something about the change of climate in this part of the world. It was beautiful, however, with the lights gleaming across the harbor.

After our return we sat on the square for a few minutes and had what they call vanilla ice cream, but there was very little cream in it. We noticed how many American signs there were around us. America is having an influence in the world, but whether it is bringing us friends or not, I don't know.

Instead of ordinary cocktail sauce, serve the very continental sauce Mignonette, which is merely a tart French dressing made with lemon juice and a very light French olive oil and seasoned with salt, a generous sprinkle of coarsely ground black pepper, chopped chives or capers.

A rubber tack placed at the lower edge of a picture will hold picture frame away from the wall. Prevents smoke mark and discoloration on the wall.

If you haven't time to make your own Swedish meat balls, try this quickie idea: Use a can of meat balls in tomato sauce and add ¼ teaspoon all-spice, ½ teaspoon Kitchen Bouquet. Heat and stir in a little sour cream. Serve with boiled potatoes, green beans, lingonberries. Quite authentic!

Candid Camera

The beauty of the candid-camera shots is that there is no posing. The subject does not know that he or she is being photographed. Therefore, the result is supposedly lifelike and natural.

If that is true, then most people wear a pained expression that makes them look as though they were just about to break down and cry. Or they stand with their mouths wide open.

According to the candid camera people look older than they ever imagined they did. They discover double chins they never knew they had. They find that they have put on weight and are losing their figures. They are shocked by the heavy crows' feet around their eyes and wrinkles in their cheeks.

If the candid camera is to be believed, people walk with a slouch, and their clothes do not fit them very well. If their hair is thin, what little they have does not show up.

When people see pictures of themselves taken with a candid camera, they are seized with melancholy. They ask themselves how friends can tolerate them. They question how anybody could love them. They wonder if it is too late to try beauty treatments.

★ ★ ★

WHEN A CANDID CAMERA has been around, the only people who are happy are those who were lost in the crowd and, consequently, have not been immortalized in shots which were taken when they were not looking.

If the candid camera proves one thing, it is that there is much to be said for the old-fashioned photographer who warned you he was going to take your picture, told you to look pleasant, gave you a background of palms and fitted your head into a rest to keep it from sagging.

CHRISTOPHER BILLOPP.

Use a wooden spoon for stirring a food in an enamel saucepan; metal spoons leave marks that have to be scoured.

For a pretty dessert course, line small clay pots with foil, fill with ice cream and stick stem of fresh flower in the center. Shave bitter chocolate over cream to resemble soil.

Does the World Push You Around?

By Elsie Robinson

DO people pick on you? Or give you the brush-off when you most need them? Are even your dearest friends rude and ungrateful—forgetting all the nice things you've done for them? Does the world in general shove you around?

Probably it does. Most of us pass, sooner or later, through a period when we feel we are a universal push-over. And sometimes we never get over that feeling. We go through life cringing, ducking and dodging, expecting bad breaks and getting them plenty.

* * *

TRAGIC, isn't it? Yet whose fault is it? It's our own, stranger. It's our very own.

For it's as much our duty to protect ourselves against oppression and aggression as it is to eat and sleep, work and play.

We come into this world naked in spirit and flesh. And it's up to each one of us to cover that nakedness with an armor of courage and understanding, humor and good sense. That's one mean job and no one else can do it for us.

Many will love us and try to help us. They will attempt to heal our hurts and protect us against further grief. But it can't be done. We alone must insulate ourselves against trouble or suffer the consequences.

* * *

THIS ISN'T a cruel, unsympathetic statement. It's the simple, basic truth about human beings—all of them, regardless of station. We've got to learn to stand on our own hind legs or life will kick them from under us. And it won't do us a particle of good to sink into a bog of self-pity or blaze with resentment.

If we leave ourselves open to attack, we'll get it—and quick. Remember that your first job on this earth is to protect and develop yourself.

Keep your kitchen cool and pan-broil chops. Use a heavy slightly greased skillet and heat it; add the chops and brown, turning often. Pour off the fat as it melts and collects.

Glamorous Glazed Veal: Dip veal steaks in melted fat and pan broil on both sides until delicately browned. Then, spread one side with orange marmalade; return to broiler. Broil until marmalade is hot and bubbly. Turn meat, salt and pepper generously, spread with marmalade. Heat until bubbly.

THE JUNIPER TREE

By FAITH BALDWIN

Synopsis

Having imbibed unwisely while attending a convention away from home, successful business man DAVID BARTON awakens unsteadily in a small hotel room. His slumber had been disturbed by bad dreams, but bad dreams had been usual with him ever since the bitterness of grief had so completely engulfed him. It was the grief, he told himself, which caused him to drink too much. He who'd always been a sober fellow! David's family and friends had begun to worry gravely over his strange conduct, and it was proving a new barb in the gentle heart of his good wife, EMILY.

CHAPTER TWO.

BARTON'S car was brought around and he drove out of Jason, his reactions reasonably normal.

Upwards of a week later, his two-year-old convertible reached home, with George Barton driving. His brother Dave had arrived a little ahead of him, in Peter Dudley's car. They'd gone to New York, after Dave's telephone call from a hotel at which the Bartons often stayed. He'd called, not his wife, but his brother and, cutting across the plunging bow of George's exclamations, had said: "I'm sick, George. Been here two days, too bushed to telephone. I couldn't drive if my life depended on it."

George asked, "Why didn't you call a doctor?" and he'd answered wearily: "I did, this afternoon. He says it's flu. Just tell Em I'll be back soon as I can. Don't let her worry."

"Hold everything," George ordered. "I'll come down and get you."

He consulted Emily. "You can't manage alone," she said.

He'd stalked around the living room of his brother's house, a big, well-fleshed man, with thick red hair and a kind, unremarkable face. Then he said: "I didn't want to tell you, but last thing Dave said was—after I'd argued him into my coming—don't bring Em. If you do I won't go back with you."

Em answered: "Then there's no use my going. He can be like a stone wall." A smile touched her fine, disciplined mouth. "So can you, George. Call Pete, you can drive down together. Dave can come back in Pete's car, you drive him. Pete's a doctor—and if Dave's really ill—"

* * *

PETE could come. He'd become an allergy specialist five years before. He kept good hours and paid no night calls, except in emergencies. He had his weekends, a long summer holiday.

So he could drive to New York at night, and bring his brother-in-law home. Tomorrow was Saturday, there'd been no engagement for Polly to break for him, except golf, and dinner at the club.

Driving, he and George talked, mainly about Dave. "What's wrong?" was the burden of George's song. "Why does he have to take it like this?"

"How would you take it, how would I? No one knows how anyone will react to grief," Pete said.

After a moment they spoke simultaneously, saying, "If Tim had been my own son—"

George said: "I couldn't believe he was dead, for a while. Then I tried to figure out, why Tim? And realized that since time began people have been saying, why this one, or that? And will go on saying it. There's no answer, just, your number's up."

Pete said: "I'm certain Robert Elwood can help Dave, and us. There are few men better, or as good, in the country. We're lucky he quit the clinic and came to us."

George said uneasily, "You don't think that Dave's—"

"Of course not. But he isn't behaving normally. I've talked with Elwood. He spoke of pathological grief reactions. I can't argue with him, it isn't my field. Still I wouldn't say pathological! Anyway, not yet. But Dave's been violently wrenched out of his pattern."

* * *

DAVE'S illness was short, sharp, and left him permeated with lassitude. He was—which was not usual with him—a docile patient, and after the temperature came and stayed down, he did not rebel at staying in bed. He saw few people, let Emily whisk about with noiseless competence, supervise naps and diet, and read to him.

He said, the first day he was up in a chair, "You like knocking yourself out for the old man, don't you?"

"I'm not knocking myself out, Dave."

Yet she was, coming softly into his room half a dozen times during the nights. She nursed him exactly as she had nursed Tim through his childhood diseases and later infrequent illnesses.

Until the last one.

This was an ample house. The agreeable room to which its occupant was confined had been a guest room, with its own bath. Em's room, across the hall, was one which for many years her husband had shared. When, less than a year ago, he found it hard to sleep he'd moved across the way. There were two guest rooms. He'd take one.

There were still two, for Em had said, a white line around her mouth, "I will not shut Tim's room away."

He had lost a few pounds, but he looked rested. That morning she had spoken privately to Pete. "He hasn't, to my certain knowledge, had a drink since you brought him home. I don't understand it, I just accept it, gratefully. I wonder if I dare hope?"

"Tired, dear?"

"Not really." He opened his eyes, smiling, and something of his integral vitality reached her, and she rejoiced to have evidence that it was still there.

He had more drive than anyone else she'd ever known. It had seemed inexhaustible. George was the sound, good plodder. Dave the leader, instigator of new methods, the man who could wring the last ounce of work from their employes and make them like it.

Their father had been like that, she'd been told, but he was unlike either in disposition, having been a testy, bad-tempered man. Dave was impatient but, Dave's mother assured her, "in a different way from his father."

Now Dave said, "You've been worried about me, Em."

"For a long time."

"But the drinking," he said, "that's over. You knew it?"

She said, "I've been hoping, Dave."

"I know. You see, at first, it seemed all right, even helpful. I could sleep quite a lot and not dream, not so much, not the same sort of dreams. Then the helping began to wear off. Once the virtue had gone out of it, what was the use? So I was through."

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

OFTEN we bring animals into our everyday speech when we talk about another person. We may say, for example: "That man is as strong as an ox."

At other times we may say that someone "walks as softly as a cat," or "growls like a bear" or "roars like a lion."

The fox comes in for a strong share as when we say that a person is "foxy," or "as sly as a fox." For thousands of years people have spoken and written about the clever ways of foxes. Several stories in "Aesop's Fables" bring out the sharpness of these animals.

* * *

THE FOX FAMILY includes gray foxes, kit foxes, Arctic foxes and so on, but the most famed of all are the red foxes. We find red foxes in Africa, Asia and Europe, and they also exist in North America, from Canada to Mexico.

Red foxes have been reported running wild in every province of Canada, and in almost every state in the United States. They have lived through the dangers brought by settlement of this continent, and some of them now dwell within easy range of cities.

In certain sections the fox population appears to have grown during the past century. These animals seem to feel that they have as much right to eat poultry as have the farmers. The only question is whether they can be clever enough to escape the guns, traps and dogs which are used against them.

* * *

FOXES MAKE their dens in holes in the ground, in openings in banks or in the midst of rocks. The tunnels which lead to their dens may go down in a slanting direction for a few feet and then may run off on a level.

At the end of the tunnel is a small room, or nest, often lined with dry grass. The young are born in early spring, with from four to nine in a litter. Their eyes are shut at birth, and about eight days pass before the eyes open. Fox cubs make their first trip to the outer world at the age of about a month.
